

WORK OF LEGISLATURE.

Several Meritorious Measures Were Enacted at Last Session.

SALEM, Or., Feb. 19.—While the appropriations of the legislative session just closed aggregate something over $5,000,000, an impartial review of the accomplishments of the lawmakers shows that several meritorious laws were enacted. Several of the most important measures passed by the two houses are still in the hands of Governor West and whether or not they become laws depends on the exercise of his veto power. The governor has five days from the time the bills are delivered to him to consider and pass on them, so it will not be until late in the week that the fate of some measures will be finally determined.

Principal Bills Reviewed.

Principal among the legislative enactments of the session were the good roads laws, extension of the powers of the railroad commission to all public utility corporations, second choice in primary nominations, placing the state printer on a

DID BLUE MONDAY COME THIS WEEK?

At Last The Wash Day Solution is Discovered.

The Wonder Washing Machine is the most perfect solution of Blue Monday yet invented, so far as hand power machines are concerned. During the few months in Roseburg this new machine has gone into over a score of homes and proven that it can do the rubbing for a family of four in less than thirty minutes, including the time needed to put the clothes in and out of the tub.

This is just what the machine does at each washing. It takes five large pieces, as a sheet, at one time, or an equivalent amount of other clothes. With 150 strokes of the handle 200 sometimes, the washing is finished and finished well. This number of strokes can be made in a minute and a half to two minutes, so easy does the handle turn.

The reason the machine does this is partially due to a new principle, which exerts a powerful force in cleaning clothes.

The machine is very simple and convenient. Therein can be taken from the stand and water heated in it. The stand and the tub can be placed together and the whole machine can be pushed under a kitchen table.

flat salary, providing a state purchasing board, prohibiting a salaried state officer from furnishing supplies to the state, creating the office of assistant secretary of state, providing a method for creating new counties and appropriating $20,000 to be disbursed by a state immigration agent in exploiting officially the resources of the state.

Provision has been made for a commission to revise the judicial system of the state and to recommend such subjects of legislation to the 1913 legislative session as may be deemed necessary. Another commission will confer with the state board of tax commissioners and submit to the next legislature necessary legislation on the subject of taxation.

Salary Increases Proposed.
The legislature also passed a bill creating the office of county attorney in the several counties, abolishing the office of district attorney.

At the same time another bill was passed increasing the salaries of the circuit judges of the state from $3,000 to $4,000 per annum. A general revision of the insurance and irrigation codes in the state was made and the efficiency of these important departments in the state government promoted thereby.

A comprehensive law for the licensing and regulating of automobiles received the approvals of both houses and is before the governor.

The state banking law has been amplified in many important respects, guaranteeing to depositors greater protection. Among other important changes in this law is the provision by which all private banks shall be examined by experienced bank examiners under the direction of the superintendent of banks at least twice annually. The only bill to be forced through the legislature over the veto of Governor West was that of Buchanan, of Douglas, abolishing the whipping post.

Election Laws Amended.
Aside from the passage of Speaker Rank's bill, requiring electors to designate their second choice in primary nominating elections, for which there are more than twice the number of candidates for the office to be filled, other laws amendatory of election laws of the state were passed. One provides for the rotation of names on the official ballot in all primary nominating elections. Another requires that the polls be kept open all day in primary elections.

While a re-appointment bill, re-districting the state into senatorial and representative districts, was not passed, the legislature did re-district the state into congressional districts, making Multnomah the third district. The first congressional district under this bill, which is before the governor, consists of the counties of Western Oregon, excepting Multnomah alone, while the second congressional district is made up of all of the counties east of the Cascades.

Commissioners Chosen at Large.
By the provisions of a bill introduced by the re-appointment committee in the house, the three members of the railroad commission hereafter will be elected from the state at large, but one of the commissioners is to be elected from Eastern Oregon.

Liberal appropriations were made for the state's educational institutions, the state university receiving $753,000 and the Oregon agricultural college $570,000 for the ensuing two years. In addition to voting the state normal school at Monmouth $50,000 for a dormitory, a law was passed for paying the actual traveling expenses of students attending this institution who live more than 100 miles away from Monmouth. The certification plan as to teachers was approved through the enactment of another law, while Huntington's bill, creating county boards of education and providing for the employment of supervisory instructors in the schools of the larger counties of the state also passed both houses.

Corporations Receive Attention.
The corporations did not escape without receiving some attention. Aside from the Malarky bill, placing these utilities under the control and regulation of the railroad commission, a bill was passed prohibiting discrimination and rebating by railroads. Another bill by Carson provides for licensing all water power in the state. Less important bills require local agents to post the time of all passenger trains and another requires railroads to publish their timetables in the newspapers.

The horticultural interests of the state were not neglected, an appropriation of $15,000 being made for eradicating fruit pests. This is in addition to a standing appropriation for the state board of horticulture. Another bill was passed establishing a standard size of apple and pear boxes. Other bills were enacted prohibiting adulteration of chemicals used in spraying solutions.

Health To Be Guarded.
An increased appropriation of $25,000 annually was provided for the protection of the livestock interests of the state and for the eradication of the diseases with which this industry is assailed. Human kind is also furnished increased protection through the annual appropriation of $15,000 for the state board of health in its efforts to stamp out typhoid fever epidemics and other malignant diseases. A further appropriation of $5,000 was made for fighting the tubercle plague.

The initiative and referendum and other laws enacted by the people were not amended or added to, not excepting the local option law. One law was passed, however, which prohibits the use of liquor on railway trains.

Through the creation of the state board of game and fish commissioners, the game and fish interests of the state are consolidated under one board of seven members. In addition to this important change, the game laws of the state as they apply to nearly every county in the state were amended in important particulars, all looking to the preservation of game. One important enactment was the bill protecting Chinese pheasants for the ensuing two years.

Hours of Labor Regulated.
While the labor organizations did not get all that they asked, the legislature passed a bill limiting the hours of trainmen to 14 hours in any one day and the hours of dispatchers to nine hours in any 24. Another bill provides that boys under 18 years old shall not be employed as messenger boys between the hours of 10 P. M. and 5 A. M. Still another bill of interest to labor was that by Reynolds, exempting small manufacturing concerns from the operation of the factory inspection law.

While the eight-hour law was killed in the house, the employers' commission act, designed to relieve the laboring men of the state, was also defeated in the same body through the fight that was made against it by representatives of organized labor.
