SAN FRANCISCO, March 30. Theodore Roosevelt said today that he would not make any further addresses in this city, but would devote the remainder of his time to recreation.

GRANGE MEETING TODAY.

Mortimer Whitehead Makes Interesting Talk to Farmers.

Following is in brief the address given at the I. O. O. F. hall this afternoon by Mortimer Whitehead, one of the foremost agricultural leaders in the country.

For nearly fifty years the grange has been growing, spreading and conferring its benefits, not upon farmers alone, but upon all other classes of people.

In the 36 years of existence the grange has issued more than 27,000 charters to the farmers in as many different localities.

Education is the chief concern of the grange. It educates the farmer to think for himself, to take for himself, to buy for himself, to sell for himself and vote for himself.

In legislation the Grange has accomplished much. After years of work it secured a National Department of Agriculture, with its head a member of the President's cabinet.

It secured the rural mail routes, of which there are now 39,000, with as many carriers who travel each day over 1,000,000 miles of country roads and leave the letters and papers at a little postoffice standing in front of the doors of over 16,000,000 people living on farms.

The Grange stands for brighter and happier farm homes, the teaching of agriculture in the rural schools, a higher and better manhood, more honesty in business and in politics, and "a government of the people, by the people, for the people."

It is no longer an experiment. It would never have lasted for all these years if it had not proven its right to live. It has the respect of its own members, and of all good people in town and country, and will go on and on conferring its benefits as long as there are farms and farmers. It has come to stay.
