W. K. Kellogg's advertising car was here the first of the week. The car left Seattle in March, making all towns and cross road stores enroute, having visited 499 towns on the trip, covering approximately 2,500 miles. The car was in charge of A. R. Burt, a well known Yoncalla boy. W. H. Boone, manager, accompanied the car. This is indeed a unique method of advertising and should be responsible for much Corn Flakes being sold.
The patient horse is certainly having his lining as all modern improvements tend to lighten his labor. Already the automobile is used, for passenger conveyance, freight hauling, mail carrying, pleasure riding and a dozen other things which has heretofore worn out much horse flesh. The old horse can now stand over in the pasture and give a hearty "horse laugh" as the "clung" wagon goes by, grim and defiant, little caring for the dust and heat, while the occupants flying through space feel that horses cut but very little figure and are decidedly out of date. The horse doesn't care what we think about his up-to-dateness, but let us forget, let us consider for a moment our deep debt to the faithful horse.
Prof. David John Henry Allen Swackhammer, 604 of 44 mahogany, has kinky sky piece and self styled caubal blew into town a few days ago and for some time was the chief attraction. Prof. Swackhammer carried a large roll of credentials and claims to have visited almost every country known to civilized man and is personally acquainted with most every one back to the first generation. Subsequent to Adam, when asked if his name was taken from his many ancestors, the Mahogany one stated that he was named for the first five men of his tribe who lost their lives in the cause of freedom from 1625 to 1801. The "smoke" further stated that there were 518 girls in his tribe, while he was the only boy, a second Moses chosen and ordained, no doubt to lead his kindred out of bondage. Prof. Swackhammer stated upon being interrogated that the caubal people never ate women and girls, but confined themselves solely to the male sex, that not habitual tobacco user was eaten on account of the susceptibility to disease, for as he stated his people were very particular about their stomachs. When asked as to the amount of food one caubal would consume at one meal he replied that a 200 pound man would make about 4 1/2 meals for an ordinary sized family. He also stated that poor girl babies were sometimes sacrificed to crocodiles in order to keep them from falling prey to wild animals or becoming a slave later in life. This, he said, is a part of the people's religion. Prof. Swackhammer claims to hail from Port Au Prince, but all due allowance must be made for falling memory and mistakes to which some people are so susceptible. Falling to secure a place in which to lecture, the "smoky" one departed northward, via the "shanks" route.

GATES ESTATE LARGE.
Wife and Son Get Bulk of Millions Left.
NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—John W. Gates left an estate valued at $39,000,000 to $40,000,000, according to Justice Gildersleeve, who drew Mr. Gates' will a year ago last spring. The bulk of the estate is left to his widow and his son, Charles G. Gates, equally. There is a clause which provides that none of the property can be sold within 10 years if it is sold, unless one of the heirs dies in the interim. Mr. Gates' idea being that all properties in which he had invested would greatly enhance in value.
The beneficiaries under the will also include relatives, friends and former employees, the total amount of whose legacies will aggregate about $1,000,000. In bequests ranging from $1,000 to $200,000.

Modern Business Methods
Necessitate the Selling of Odd Pieces of Jewelry and Silverware at Greatly Reduced Prices.
The Jeweler who wishes to keep his stock clean and modern; the jeweler who wants to be successful and merit the patronage of people who care must not allow odd pieces to accumulate in his stock.
For this reason I am inaugurating a special sale of odd pieces in several lines. This sale will consist of selling such articles as
$6.00 Solid Gold Brooches for $4.25
$1.50 Hat Pins for 85c
$20.00 Tea Sets for 13.50
$4.25 Hand Painted Plates for 2.85
$1.50 Cut Glass Bowls for 2.75
as well as hundreds of other pieces of jewelry—all at much-below-cost prices.
Remember—there is nothing whatever the matter with this jewelry and silverware; each piece is as good as the day I bought it. I am simply reducing the prices because I want to make room for a complete stock of new goods for the Holidays; and for the more important reason that I do not want odd pieces of jewelry to accumulate in my stock.
The good business man figures that his first loss is his best loss; and therefore to you good people I offer these good things at much less than I paid for them. I am willing that you should have them at this price; and if you are inclined to be economical or if you are thinking of buying a present for yourself or for some one else, you cannot afford to miss this special sale.
