

HARLAN IS DEAD

Dean of Supreme Justice Dead At Washington.

TAFT TO APPOINT A SUCCESSOR

Plan Is Adopted Whereby Several Thousand People will be Brought Into British Columbia—12,000 Acres Set Aside.

(Special to The Evening News.) WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 14.—Associate Justice John M. Harlan, of the United States supreme court, died at his home in this city at 8:15 o'clock this morning. Death was due to bronchitis, following a severe cold contracted on Monday. Owing to his extreme age of 78 years, death was expected and the members of his immediate family were at the bedside when the end came.

Justice Harlan was dean of United States justices, having served almost continuously for 34 years. His death makes it necessary for President Taft to select the fifth member of the court during his administration.

Justice Harlan was appointed to the supreme court bench in 1877. He was one of the American arbitrators on the Berlin Sea Tribunal which met in Paris in 1873. Since 1889, he has been a professor of constitutional law at George Washington University.

Mr. Harlan was born in Boyle county, Ky., June 1, 1833. He studied law at Transylvania University and continued them at several institutions of learning. He has been honored with degrees by Bowdoin College, Center College, Kentucky, Princeton and the University of Pennsylvania.

When he emerged from college, young Harlan began the practice of law in Frankfort, Ky. He was elected county judge in 1858. Returning to private life, he took his sign and his law books to Louisville and resumed the practice of his profession there.

He was colonel of the tenth Kentucky regiment in the Union army from 1861 to 1863 and from that time until 1867 he was Attorney-General of Kentucky.

Mr. Harlan's name was presented to the republican convention of Kentucky for vice-president of the United States in 1872. Just prior to his appointment to the supreme court associate justiceship, Mr. Harlan was a member of the Louisiana commission.

Justice Harlan married Miss Malvina Shunkin in 1856. They have two sons.

Colonizing Canada. SEATTLE, Oct. 14.—A monster colonizing project is under way in British Columbia. As a nucleus, the Duke of Sutherland has acquired 12,000 acres of land on the Fraser river. He will cut it up in small tracts and sell it on easy terms to those of his Scottish tenants desiring to emigrate to Canada. Sutherland expects to send over 5,000 people next year. The Duke of Portland, another wealthy English peer,

A. R. HOLMBERG IS ACCUSED

Young Tramps Tell of How They Were Lured to the Hill Cabin by The Fiendish Murderer—Police Are Active.

BOYS BRANDED FAKERS.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 14.—The two boys, James Hawkins and Harry Howard, who yesterday accused Richard Holmberg of murdering the Hill family, near Portland, in June, practically admitted today that they faked up the story with a view of getting the reward. The boys are being held at the county jail and it may be possible that they will be given a severe sentence on the rock pile. Holmberg will probably be released sometime this afternoon.

PORTLAND, Oct. 14.—Accompanied by five investigators James Hawkins, aged 16, and Harry Howard, aged 17, yesterday led the way from Portland to the deserted home of the William H. Hill family, a mile south of Ardenwald and known in detail how August Richard Holmberg, who was arrested Wednesday at The Dalles, entered the Hill house between 2 and 4 a. m. on the morning of June 9 and they said, murdered Mr. and Mrs. Hill and their two children.

The boys guided the investigators for more than three hours pointing out the places where they stopped while on the way to the scene of the crime and confirmed in practically every detail the story of Holmberg's alleged connection with the crime as related yesterday morning before the trip was made to Ardenwald.

The boys, both hobos, were brought to the city yesterday with Holmberg from The Dalles and were subjected to severe questioning at the county jail. They met Holmberg at 27 near a rooming house on Front street and enjoyed his hospitality to the extent of a meal in a cheap restaurant. They said Holmberg had persuaded them to attempt robbery in Portland and that they had refused for fear of being caught. Then, they said, he suggested that they go into the country far from where there was any police protection. They consented to this and went with Holmberg to Ardenwald, they said and stood outside the Hill house while Holmberg went in supposedly for the purpose of robbery.

They declared they heard screaming in the house and a commotion, but were too frightened to investigate or run from the scene until Holmberg came out half an hour after they entered the house and told them he had a big fight and for them to run for their lives. They then related that they ran from the scene, going east on the county road, all the rest of the night and all the next day, until they reached the Sandy river, near Troutdale, where they camped for ten days and during which time Holmberg, they said, held them in his power by vicious threats.

The investigators with the two boys entered an automobile yesterday afternoon at 1:45 o'clock and rode to Ardenwald. The boys were told to point out the course they had taken and the house where they said Holmberg had taken them to commit robbery.

The youths started south, apparently at sea regarding their whereabouts. They wandered about for some time before coming to the county road, which they said they recognized as the thoroughfare they traversed the night of the murder. They followed this road for a considerable distance beyond the Hill house, not recognizing the little shack as they passed. They soon felt, however, that they had gone too far and they retraced their steps to the Hill house, which they declared was the place. No information had been given by the investigators that the shack was the house of death, the boys pointing it out themselves.

They scrambled down over a pile of wood which they said was there the night Holmberg led them to the scene. They declared they had stood on the pile and argued about who would go into the house to commit the robbery. The boys said they were badly frightened and both refused to enter and declared Holmberg decided to go himself. They said they followed him to the back of the house and waited while Holmberg went around to the front to main entrance. Young Hawkins said he leaned against a pole in the back yard and Howard said he stood near the window,

NEW YORK WINS.

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 14.—In the first game of the world's series played here today, New York won by a score of 2 to 1. So eager were persons to witness the opening game of the series that hundreds of people crowded before the ticket windows prior to midnight. When the gates opened 10,000 people were lined in front, and it was only with the greatest difficulty that the "fans" were admitted without accident. When the last ticket was sold 5,000 people were still assembled on the outside of the grounds—unable to gain admittance. Other than the crowd within the grounds it is estimated that over 5,000 people witnessed the game from honse-top, telephone poles and other places of vantage.

The Score.

Teams R H E Philadelphia.....1 6 1 New York City.....2 5 0 Batteries—Bender and Thomas; Matthewson and Meyers. Only one accident marred today's game. Snodgrass, in sliding into third base, cut Baker on the left leg. Notwithstanding his injuries Baker continued in the game. The game is considered one of the best exhibitions ever witnessed in the state of New York, and was a pitchers battle unparalleled in the history of the national game.

An Impartial Jury.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 14.—In his argument before Judge Bordwell this morning, Deputy District Attorney Horton said: "It is our contention that the defendant is not entitled to a 'safe' jury, but is entitled to a fair and impartial one. The district attorney argued that no intelligent juror should be permitted to lay aside whatever opinion he may entertain. It appears almost certain this morning that Veneman Nelson, the first juror named by the attorneys, will be excused. In the event Judge Bordwell fails to excuse him for cause, the attorneys for the defense will probably get rid of him through the preemptory challenge route.

The program of pictures shown at the Palace last night came up to expectations. The regular program in itself was above the average and the additional attractions came up to the advertised quality.
