Don't make promises—make good.

Every man thinks himself one in a thousand, but sometimes he is only one in a million.

A man who has made a happy home for his wife and children, no matter what he has not done in the way of achieving wealth and honor; if he has done that, he is a grand success. If he has not done that, and it is his own fault, though he be the highest in the land, he is a most pitiable failure. We wonder how many men in a mad pursuit of gold, which characterizes the age, realize that there is no fortune which can be left to their families as great as the memory of a happy home.

A Roseburg bachelor has figured it out like this: When fully dressed he wears eleven different articles, including his necktie and his pipe. He claims—but no one knows how he found out—that a woman wears nineteen articles in her hair alone and fifty-seven other varieties of clothing most of which are held in place by pins. He declares that he devotes but ten minutes a day in dressing, while a fashionable woman will put in four hours a day adorning herself and primping before a looking glass and that a man could not put on the same number of articles a woman does and anchor them safely in four weeks.

For that don't-feel-like-work feeling with which, said Mr. Glimmerton, I fancy we are all of us more or less likely to be afflicted, I would in some cases prescribe rest, though in most cases no doubt the proper prescription would be exertion. The trouble with the rest cure is that it is like taking opium—the more you take the more you want. The rest habit is easy to acquire and hard to break. The habit of exertion, on the contrary, is one that commonly we do not take to as kindly; it does not as it were, spontaneously permeate us as the rest habit does; it may, in fact, require assiduous cultivation, and it takes quite a man to acquire this habit in a completely saturating and permanent form so that he is proof against attacks of the rest habit, which, if it has a trace of it left in him, is sure to develop on the slightest provocation. Exertion is the only real cure. It may be hard to take at first, but you'll come to like it. Persist and you'll find it vastly strengthening and then delightful; and then, while in taking the rest cure you are at the time paying money out, in taking this one you have money all the time coming in. Try work, continuous, steady, hard work. Once get the habit of work embedded in your system and you won't be troubled any more by that tired feeling.—New York Sun.

When your watch is out of repair you take it to a competent workman, and he goes over the works and carefully cleans and regulates them. The result is a perfect timepiece. The same is true of your piano. In order to get the best possible results from this most perfect and delicate of musical instruments, it should be regularly gone over by one who is thoroughly competent to put it in the most satisfactory condition. It should be perfectly tuned and valued, and the action carefully regulated when necessary. Your piano will then be a household joy. Let H. Jay Stone put it in condition for you. Phone 288-R. dtf

OUR EDENBOWER LETTER.

New Arrivals—Sale of Real Estate—The Comet—Disastrous Marriage—How Booze Vendors Are Treated At Winchester.

H. Rhinhardt, who sold his fine residence and land in Edenbower for $14,000 and went back to Minnesota, returned to this place Tuesday night. He found prices for land very high in Minnesota, and hence made no investments. He is like other of your correspondent can call to mind who sold their homes in this county and went abroad satisfied they could do better. He cannot get back his fine home for near the sum he received for it, and is out the heavy expenses of a long trip to Minnesota and back, as were others, only they did not all go to Minnesota.

J. H. Webb, of Utah, Monday night joined his wife, son and daughter at Edenbower. They had preceded him to this place several months, and he found them happily domiciled when he arrived upon the scene of their happy domestic life. He has become a valued addition to the list of our good people.

Dr. Miller was professionally called to Edenbower this week and left his patients much improved in health as a result.

W. H. Lynch has sold his house and lot in Edenbower to a Mr. Hines, of Portland, for $1,500 cash, and with his family left Sunday for his former home in Tennessee, near Knoxville. Sickness among the "old folks at home" was the reason for Mr. Lynch's sale. Mr. Hines secured a valuable piece of property.

Dr. and Mrs. Hoover were visitors in this locality during the past week. The interment of the remains of the late Mrs. Harry Hathaway at the Masonic cemetery was largely attended by sorrowing friends of whom the deceased had many, she having resided here several years. Had the time of the funeral been generally known the attendance would have been much larger.

George Alden arrived here Wednesday from Nevada, where he is engaged in silver mining development, fifty miles from Tonopah. He joined his parents here, where they have a comfortable home, and will spend the winter with them, returning to his mines in the spring.

T. N. Hammond has left for Reno, Nev., in answer to a subpoena as a witness in a case to be tried there. He thought when he left he would be absent ten or twelve days from home. Think of the mileage.

Miss Maggie Kernan, of Oak Creek, was a visitor from her home and Mrs. T. J. Finley several days, at their home, this week.

As winter approaches the number of pupils in attendance upon the two schools in Edenbower show a marked increase.

The early green grain and hay fields are assuming a cheerful green appearance, showing that the seed sown has already taken a strong and early start and insuring good crops next year.

John Botcher, the merchant, has contracted with Wm. Gable for the construction of a sewer from his residence, the putting therein of a modern lavatory and doing other plumbing work about his store. Mr. Botcher is progressive in his ideas and believes in improving his property.

H. Wilson and D. C. Courtney, both from Canyonville, are the latest indigents to be sent to the county home. They have both passed the 70th year mark on life's highway to eternity. Mr. Courtney was a son-in-law of the late W. G. Woodward, the old settler, having married the widow of Wm. Daley, who was fatally stabbed in the breast with a knife by John Woodward, and who in turn fatally shot John in the stomach with a revolver. Both died the same night within a few minutes of each other. Of the very large family all are dead but Mrs. Courtney, who is an inmate of the Multnomah county poor farm, near Portland.

The comet "Suffragette" can now be seen in the northwestern heavens any clear night. Take your girl out to see the comet.

The marriage of a young girl by the name of Goldie Tipton, of this county, to Sam Rogoo, an Italian laborer on the Southern Pacific railroad at this place last summer, has turned out disastrously. The match was vigorously opposed by the girl's friends, but she was very firm in her attachment for her swarthy lover, and the two took a trip to Vancouver, Wash., and were married. A fellow laborer of Sam's just returned and now working on this section tells the rest of the story substantially as follows: Sam is a very lazy fellow. After he married he hardly worked at all, and his wife had a hard time to get along. They quarreled all the time. After three weeks Sam left his wife and shipped to Italy where he is now, and his wife says she is glad of it. The girl has since gone to a grandmother in Iowa. There is the subject for a sermon in this incident of life.

They have a silent but effective way of dealing with illicit booze dispensers at Winchester. A certain fellow was keeping a grocery store at that place. It is reported that about town that young men were buying booze at the store, and that the young men got drunk from booze obtained somewhere, they were self-evident and convincing proofs. One morning the proprietor of the store found a note on his counter stating the facts and advising him to sell out his goods wholesale and close up his shop forthwith. He took the hint, and the goods were shipped by wagon into Roseburg and are now being sold there. Since then Winchester is reported to be an exceptionally dry town in which there is sobriety, peace and no foolish young men. JASPER.
