

Buying at Half Price

"Oh, I can get a range just like that for half the money, from a catalog house."

Have you ever heard the above expression? It's just about as ridiculous as it sounds. To start with, there is not a range sold by a catalog house that is one-third as good as the

and we are right here on the ground to prove it, if you will call and give us a chance.

Suppose you ordered one of the ranges from a catalog house, the best you would get is a Cast Iron and Steel Range, made of the cheapest material that can be bought for that purpose. It is bolted together, because you can't rivet cast iron. The cracks and corners are filled with stove putty. It will do what you might consider good work for six months or maybe a year—at any rate, until you have paid for it. What happens then? Expansion and contraction work the bolts loose—the putty falls out—cold air gets into the range—you are compelled to use a lot of fuel and keep your range red hot to get the oven hot enough to bake. This constant heat burns out the fire-box—you need new parts—your range is out of commission for two or three weeks, probably a month, while you are getting new parts. You must pay the express charges, too. Then, when you finally get the parts, you find the fire-box so warped out of shape from the intense heat that it takes a mechanic to place them—more expense. Finally you get the range going again. You find things you bake in the oven are always full of ashes and soot, and on examining the oven you find large openings where the putty has fallen out. You can't get some one from the catalog house to come and put in more putty, so you must ask your local man to help you out—more expense. In a little while you find a hole has rusted or burned through the thin steel body. Get the tinner to put a patch over the hole—more expense. Just about this time you begin to realize you have an expensive range, and either throw it out or wait a few weeks longer until it falls to pieces.

Now, just suppose you ordered a GREAT MAJESTIC RANGE from us. To begin with you pay a little more money than you did for the catalog house range, but you get the best that is made. MALLEABLE IRON AND CHARCOAL IRON IS EVERYTHING IN A RANGE. It can't break—doesn't rust—all joints are riveted together perfectly airtight. No stove putty. No cold air enters the range and no hot air escapes. It won't use half the fuel, as all the heat stays in the range, where it should be. You are not compelled to burn out the range to get the oven hot enough to bake. You don't constantly spend money for repairs, because there is nothing that can break or get out of fix.

To be sure, we make a profit on that range. Don't we deserve it? We are looking after your interest, why shouldn't you pay us a reasonable profit if it pays you to do it?

To whom do you pay the profit when you buy from a catalog house? Why most assuredly to the catalog house. They don't know you, consequently don't care what happens after they have their money. They don't make the range they sell; they do the same as we—buy from the manufacturer. The only difference is, they buy the cheapest they can get and sell for all they can get; while we buy the best and are satisfied with a reasonable profit, depending on the future for more sales.

Give this matter a careful thought, and if you are not satisfied with this argument, put your catalog under your arm and come and see us; show us what they will do for you, and we will show you where we can do better. Don't you think that's fair?

Breezy Bunch of Happenings From a Live Suburb.

S. A. Wilson, owner of valuable property in Edenbower, has returned from a business trip through Michigan and Southern Indiana. He reports having experienced a very enjoyable trip while absent, and comes back in the enjoyment of excellent health. Since his returned home he has leased his handsome residence for the winter to E. S. Harkness and family, and will spend the next six months in Roseburg, where he has rented property.

Sunday Mrs. W. West came near meeting with a serious accident. She had partly harnessed her driving horse to the buggy preparatory to making a trip to the city. Just then the horse became frightened and turned around in the shafts of the vehicle, one leg being unhitched. To add to the trouble a little son of the lady was in the buggy and badly scared at the prospect. Mrs. West was thrown to the ground by the fractious horse and the child was thrown into the mixup. The plucky woman never let go of the horse, however, and after sustaining several severe bruises upon different parts of her body, and having one of her arms painfully scratched up, she finally became a street of the city. To her heartfelt satisfaction the child escaped without injury.

W. Davis has been engaged during the week hauling prunes from his dryer to the packing house in Roseburg. The fruit is of an excellent quality and will bring an A1 price.

A letter received from J. Wilford Pentney by his parents, from McMinnville, where the young man is taking a business course in the college at that place, states that he is succeeding finely, standing at the head of his class.

Dr. Miller paid Edenbower a professional visit Tuesday, returning to the city the same day.

C. A. Friend and family, of Olatia, have rented the Cobb place and will remain in Edenbower indefinitely.

The two rivers have begun to rise steadily, though no heavy rains in the mountains have been reported. Old timers say this reported rise is occasioned from escape from the soil caused by our first fall rains.

H. Rinehart and family have removed their household goods to Oakland, where he is reported having rented a chicken and truck ranch, to which he will devote a year of his future time.

Horn, near Edenbower, on the 17th inst., to the wife of O. H. Cash, a son. Mother and child are doing nicely.

Dr. Houck was in this vicinity Tuesday on a professional visit.

Mrs. E. E. Speicher is in Portland where she will spend three or four weeks visiting her son-in-law and daughter. Mr. Speicher in the meantime is putting his place in complete order for the winter and adding further improvements to his already fine property.

Samuel Hopewell has occupied the Davis property opposite John Botcher's store and opened a shoe shop. At an early date he proposes to treat the building to a new coat of paint, put a new roof on it and otherwise fix it up for store purposes. He will also carry a stock of ready-made goods.

W. B. Hammit's runaway ran into E. E. Speicher's milch cow Wednesday. The cow was knocked down and slightly skinned up about the legs, but not otherwise injured. The auto was not damaged.

One Nelson's house caught fire Sunday night in the ceiling and roof, and had it not been for the timely assistance of neighbors the building and contents would have been entirely consumed. During the night the weather turned cool, and the stove was filled with wood and the draught shut off. At a later hour Mrs. Nelson awoke and discovered fire in the ceiling and on the floor. She aroused her husband and two sons, who appealed to near-by residents for help. They responded promptly, and the fire was extinguished, but not before a large hole had been burned through the roof and the ceiling materially damaged. The building was insured with Col. John Wright, of Roseburg, who will see to it that the necessary repairs are made.

Several residents have lost their pet cats here of late, about a dozen of them being struck by an epidemic. A cat doctor could find use for his professional skill just now in Edenbower.

William H. Vanery arrived at the county home for indigents Thursday night from Canyonville. He is down with dropsy and rupture, and is a very young man and helpless.

Thomas J. Findley has spent every day available this week in improving the home for the winter and building conveniences about his residence. Among other improvements is that of a neat lawn, fenced with wire fencing which he will seed with grass and plant with rare roses. This will add much to the appearance of the place, making it decidedly home-like.

That grapes can be grown successfully and profitably is proven by results of the efforts of Geyer Conrad, who for the past 20 years has made a success of growing a wide variety of grapes in Edenbower. He has the improved Concord, as fine and as large as ever shipped from New York. Tokays in larger bunches than ever grew in California, and twenty other varieties of grapes on vines fit for any use, to which the fruit is put to. Many of the main vines in the vineyard are over a foot in diameter, and some of the vines have been troubled with disease common to grapes. Mr. Conrad is a native of Switzerland, and has grown grapes from childhood, and this is owing, doubtless, much of his past success, and the fact that at the late district fair he was awarded six first premiums on grapes. One on the Wonderberry and one on Douglas county grown tobacco. He also took first premium on a water-color picture of an elk. With his grapes he also attends to vegetable gardening the year round for the market, and between the two reaps a decided competence, which makes life independent and worth living.

JASPER.

E. A. Hunsaker, the Myrtle Creek mayor, spent yesterday in Roseburg attending to business matters. He says that several new buildings are in course of erection in Myrtle Creek at the present time, while plans and specifications are being prepared for several others.
