PUBLIC MARKET IN ILLINOIS.

Decatur, Illinois, is the county seat of Macon county and is a live, progressive and rapidly growing manufacturing city of about 30,000 population. Urged to action by the high cost of the necessities of life, and encouraged by the efforts of the citizens of some other towns who were attracting attention in their efforts to reduce household expenses, there arose a clamor among the people a few weeks ago for a public market. Be it known that Decatur is under the commission plan of government. The citizens want all the good things that are known to our present day civilization, and the mayor and the commissioners were selected with the idea of getting men who would do everything within their power for the best interests of all the people. So when the demand was made for a public market, they immediately turned a listening ear, and at once got busy. It was finally decided to open up for business on a Tuesday morning at six o'clock, and every day thereafter, except Sunday, closing at 12 o'clock, noon.

On the morning in question men and women with baskets on their arms began to assemble early, and the "market man" was on hand to boss the job; but not a solitary wagon was on hand at six o'clock. Seven o'clock, then, a crowd of about 100, and still in "prodgers" in sight. Nine o'clock came and the crowd sent up a shout as a wagon pulled in and backed up to the curb. Then another, and another, and in a short time six wagons were in line, and the people were awaiting up over the sides and asking what they had, and what they wanted for it. Most of them had apples and poultry, and in a few minutes they were swamped with business. It took but a short time to close out their loads, and all expressed themselves as well pleased, and promised to "come again". The following morning there were more wagons, and they got in earlier. The number increased every day, and on a recent Saturday morning, less than two weeks after the market was opened, 60 wagons were backed up to the curb, and the most doubting mind had to confess that the thing looked very much like a great success.

Farmers came with produce as far as 27 miles, though the majority do not drive over six or eight miles. A great variety of suitable stuff is taken, from apples and poultry to home-made sausage and pumpkin pie. There is a great demand for fresh meat. Is it benefitting the farmers? They are getting two cents per pound more for live poultry than they can get from dealers, while retail prices are lower than formerly, and there is being built up a trade directly with the consumer that will do much for them in the future.

Again, we say, without the least fear of contradiction from anyone, other than the barbers of the "jill sheet", that that organ represents a ring—all purported rewards offered by the "slippery ell" to the contrary notwithstanding—that would crush the very life out of decent citizenship and throttle the throats of all persons who dare speak out in the open. A flagrant attempt has already been made to thrust the harpoon into The News for its stand for decency, a number of the disreputables parading the streets claiming that by "cleaning up" the city it is working against the best interests of Roseburg. The utterances from their slimy mouths are nothing more than falsehoods given out to gain their point. The News admits that some of the supposed local "respectables" and promoters of dems of iniquity and lawlessness are getting their feathers trimmed, but the only disreputable creature so far reported to take an open stand for loose morals in the "jill sheet".

The story has just come to light that one morning a Douglas county representative (supposedly George Neuneri) went into a hotel at Salem and gave his order for breakfast to a waitress who seemed utterly indifferent as to whether he got food or starved to death. She kept him waiting a long time, and his impatience grew until he had to give it vent. Calling a waitress who passed by his table, he asked: "Have long have you been here?" "Who are you?" she sweetly asked. "I've been here three weeks." "Then," said the representative, "you are not the one who took my order. That one left here before you came."

George Washington Pittmore, thinking of matrimony and brooding on the edge, wrote to his married brother, Rufus, for advice. "Dear Juncie," wrote Rufus in reply, "every man should marry. A wife is a man's greatest gift. She soothes his troubles, dandles his ego and tells him every which way. The married life is the only life worth living. A wife is a fortunate couple's best friend and a wife like mine. I, a married man, has less sleep and you blame him for it. STAY SINGLE."

Wonder if it is possible for the initials of a few boys, of officials and public men into the little newspaper controversies now existing. Unable to stand on its own feet, it now attempts to gain a little prestige by mentioning the names of persons who, in its view, are personally concerned in the matter. A man cannot stand in his own bottom, so as a rule, very much deceived or, more plainly speaking, rotten.

Did you notice how quick the "ring organ" took to its hole when asked to publish the names of the "respectable" citizens and "officials" purported to be looking the "Market street joint"? This assertion on the part of the disreputable "rag" was only a ruse to divert attention from the real issue. When you crowd a skunk into its hole he fights with his strongest weapon and has little or no regard for the "landing place".

Roseburg cannot afford to discountenance its publicity work any more than a merchant can afford to close his door to advertising. The merchant who voluntarily keeps himself before the public by advertising his wares is the one who gets the business—likewise the town that keeps up publicity work gets the people here to trade with the wide-awake merchant and build up the community.

Least you forget, who are the "respectable" citizens and "officials" who are adverse to the attack of The News on the Main street dump? The editor of this paper has interviewed two-thirds of the business men and not in one single instance has he heard any complaint. Will The Review please enlighten the public on this important topic which concerns the city and its welfare?

Unless boys and girls are trained to honest life they are bound, almost invariably, to gravitate towards crime and idleness. This was patently illustrated in the case of the young criminal who, holding up his then white hands, exclaimed, "Chaplain, these hands never worked; do you think they could learn to work?"

Hazing seems to have been invented to show how a crude, brutal barbarism and a high-toned civilization may exist together in the same individual. When the hazing does unfortunately occur the natural and correct impression is that barbarism is on top.

The "ring" organ says it owes no one any money outside of its current month accounts. "Owing" and being "owed" are entirely two different words, with a wide variation in meaning.

The Evening News is Roseburg's biggest and best daily paper—and delivers the news to its subscribers from twenty-four to forty-eight hours in advance of any other publication.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Rev. and Mrs. J. N. McConnell Tended Reception At Christian Church.

An occasion of more than ordinary importance from a social standpoint occurred at the Christian church last evening when the members tendered their pastor, Rev. J. N. McConnell, and his estimable wife, a reception in honor of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary.

The gathering was a large one, almost the entire congregation being represented. The pulpit, where the wedding ceremony was performed again uniting the minister and his wife, was beautifully decorated, and the impressive wedding ceremony by Rev. J. E. Burkhardt, of the Presbyterian church, was in every particular carried out with the sacred and impressive words attendant to those taking the first step in their matrimonial career.

The program, otherwise arranged for the evening, was carried out to the delight of all. Misses Lucy Bridges and Leota Maddix, Mrs. C. T. Cole, Prof. Fory and Morton Hadley, with a unique "presentation speech" by Master Clarence Church, who tendered Mr. and Mrs. McConnell a "silver" offering of no small dimensions as a token of appreciation from the members of the church, were features of the evening most pleasant and enjoyable for the large number present.

At the conclusion of the wedding ceremony and other parts of the program the jolly concourse repaired to the banquet rooms and partook of the festive menu prepared by the committee in charge, and enjoyed short talks by those who responded to the call of the toastmaster.

Chiropractic Neuropath Spinologist

A natural and advanced scientific art of removing the cause of disease without drugs or the knife. CHIROPRACTIC, means hand treating. NEUROPATH pertains to the path of the nerves within the body. The spine is composed of a column of movable bones, the vital cord passing down its center. The spinal nerves passing out from each side of the column through small openings are susceptible to the least irritation or pressure, causing too much, or not enough nerve action, the result is derangement of the system. A strain or wrench, cold and exposure, poisons taken into the system will cause displacements of its spinal column. The vertebrae and discs are displaced within the body, instead of being thrown out through the natural channels. Auto-poisoning or toxic poisons taken into the system will cause displacement of its spinal column, resulting in constitutional diseases, such as rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia, diabetes and other complicated diseases.
