BLESS THE PARLORS!

One of our exchanges says there are no more parlors. That is a mistake. We never owned one, and never wanted one about the same time we began keeping house. During the past 20 years a great many families have abolished parlors for the very good reason that they have come to the conclusion that the best room in the house is none too good for them to use every day. In the old days the best carpet, the best furniture, the best pictures, the prettiest curtains, and the handsomest household ornaments were all in the parlor, and the family, as a family, never enjoyed them. Only when company came was the parlor used, and even then the family did not feel at home in it. And there are many such parlors still in existence.

As we look at the matter now, parlors are needed only in homes where there are girls in the family. A parlor with a big fireplace and a comfortable sofa built for two is extremely desirable where there is an attractive young woman in charge of it. We remember one of that kind, and the memory of it has entirely changed the drift of this paragraph. We intended to condemn the parlor as an institution, without reserve, but when the memories of one particular parlor came back, we found we could not do it. God bless the parlor!

The Standard Oil Company has just been fined a paltry $55,000.00. Come on and let's all pay a penny more a gallon for oil and get the thing off our mind.

POEM FOR TODAY.

My Ideal,
My love is not divinely tall,
Nor yet divinely fair,
Like Venus, Juno, Hilda and
All ancient beauties were;
Her hair is not like sunset gold,
Nor yet like stars her eyes;
But O, what biscuits she can mould,
How toothsome are her pies.

Upon her brow no diamonds gleam,
No aliks unfold her waist;
Yet makes she things of eggs and cream
Delicious to the taste.
And although she bears no titled name,
Nor ever has written book;
She will deserve undying fame—
God bless her, she can cook.

LAUGHING GAS.

Forgot Money Values.
The wife and the daughter of an American diplomatist have lived so long abroad that they have forgotten about the cost of their native country, at least that is the way the mother explained it to the hotel clerk when she got puzzled over how many quarters make a half dollar. The daughter made some comment. "It's no worse than you are!" retorted the mother. "You tried to pay for an ice cream sundae the other day with a fifty dollar bill."—New York Sun.

Too Much Campaigning.
After the close of a political campaign in North Carolina, a firm of attorneys who had both been in the thick of political activity during the campaign were engaged by the prosecution in a case of cruelty to animals. One of them, glancing over the warrant, saw at a glance that it failed to charge any crime, and began to feel of his adversary as follows: "If it should be deemed necessary to amend this warrant, we would be glad to have it done now." His colleague quickly scrambled to him, and whispered very audibly in his ear. "We don't want this warrant amended, do we?" At this the atorney, thinking possibly he had got mixed up and taken the wrong side, was much perplexed, and finally allowed his colleague to a corner and desperately asked him, "Which side of this case are we on? I'll be d-d if I know."

RESOLUTIONS OF CONDOLENCE.

Resolutions adopted by Roseburg Hive No. 11, Ladies of the Maccabees of the World:

No one hears the door that opens,
When they pass beyond our call;
Soft as loosened leaves of roses,
One by one our loved ones fall.

WHEREAS, The angel of death has again visited our Hive, and taken from our number our beloved sister, Nellie Boyd; and it is the desire of this Hive to record a fitting tribute to her memory; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That while we bow to the will of the Almighty, yet we none the less mourn the loss of our sister; and be it

RESOLVED, That in the death of Sister Boyd this Hive has lost a loyal member and the family one whose goodness and cheerful disposition has made her untimely death deeply regretted; and be it

RESOLVED, That our charter be draped for 30 days, and a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the record of our Hive, and a copy be sent to each of the city papers.

Fraternally submitted,
NELLIE PARKS,
MAY PATRICK,
JESSIE RAPP.
