

Oxen Used In Heavy Farm Work In Sussex, England

Photos by American Press Association.

S EARCHERS for the primitive and picturesque in England need not go far afield, even if their starting point is London itself. Within little more than an hour's railway journey from the metropolis one may find secluded hamlets where the automobile is almost unknown and where farm work is done with the aid of lumbering oxen. On Housedean farm, at Falmer, in Sussex, oxen are so employed, being better adapted than horses to heavy work on the rolling chalk downs. Their remarkable strength is shown by the ease with which the team shown in the illustrations haul a load of ten tons up the steep hillside or plow the chalky soil. The wheat harvest in this beautiful southern county would be an interesting scene even if the draft animals were the shire horses commonly used in other parts of England, but the great sluggish oxen, with their deliberate movements, lend additional charm to the rural landscape. The teamster who stands beside the oxen is worthy of notice. He has worked on the same farm without a holiday for forty years and is still healthy and active.

Cookery Points

Fried Chicken.

Fried spring chicken is a favorite treat. Do not neglect the gravy, which to many is the best feature of the entire dish. To fry the chicken cut a small chicken in four or six pieces, dip each piece hastily in cold water, then sprinkle with salt and pepper and roll the pieces in plenty of flour. Have some sweet lard heated very hot in a frying pan and fry the chicken until each piece is of a rich brown hue on both sides. Take up, drain well and arrange the pieces on a warm platter, setting the dish in a hot place to keep the meat from cooling while the gravy is being made. Pour out of the pan all but a tablespoonful of the fat and stir into the pan one cupful of milk. When the liquid is hot and well stirred thicken to a rich cream with one tablespoonful of flour rubbed in smooth and one tablespoonful of butter. Boil two or three minutes, stirring constantly. Season with salt and pepper. A little chopped parsley is often added to the gravy. Butter if here used in place of lard is difficult to manage, as it burns so easily.

Cheese Patties.

This makes a good luncheon dish when meat is not served. Cut out some rounds of bread about two inches in thickness and with a small cutter take out the middle, making a little tartlike case. Fry in fat both the case and the piece removed (which is to form the lid) until a golden brown and drain on paper, or brush the cases with melted butter and brown in the oven. At serving time fill the cases with the following mixture: Boil half a cupful of water and two teaspoonfuls of butter together and add to it four ounces of grated cheese, and season with a pinch of cayenne pepper. Stand the saucepan in boiling water and stir in the beaten yolk of an egg and half a cupful of fine breadcrumbs. Reheat and fill the bread cases and serve hot.

Stewed Rhubarb With Lemon.

Choose tender stalks of rhubarb, trim and remove any tough portions of skin. Do not scrape away the delicate red, as it adds to the appearance of the finished dish. Cut the stalks into pieces an inch long, cover with water and stew until tender with a couple of slices of lemon. Add sugar to taste, heat to the boiling point and chill before serving. Some prefer to add a few seeded raisins with the slices of lemon, and for those who like this fruit the combination can be recommended. Rhubarb is really a spring medicine and is invaluable at this season of the year.

Scalloped Parsnips.

Scrape four large parsnips and boil until tender, then cut into cubes; make a sauce with a cup of milk, a level tablespoonful of butter and same of flour; season to taste with flour and salt and dash of cayenne or nutmeg; turn the parsnips into the sauce, then put a layer into a buttered baking dish on top of a layer of bread crumbs; add a sprinkling of minced onion and parsley, then more crumbs, parsnips, etc., until the dish is full, having the top covered with sauce and buttered crumbs; bake for half an hour and serve hot with boiled fish.

Dandelion Salad.

Put a salad bowl with a cut piece of garlic, then a look out into thin rings and season with salt, pepper and a dash of mustard and mix with a tablespoonful of vinegar. Next blend with olive oil, cut a hard cooked egg into rings and add to the dressing. Put the dandelion leaves, previously washed and drained, with the above and toss together with fork and spoon. It is said that no other salad has more medicinal value than this. It is a fine tonic for the blood in the spring.

Asparagus Tips Salad.

Twelve tender asparagus tips (leaner may be used), one firm tomato, one pinteno, one head of lettuce. The asparagus in 1 1/2 cups of three and cook in boiling salted water until tender. Remove the string and arrange on crisp lettuce on individual plates. Cut the tomato into four rings and slip a bundle of the cooked asparagus through each ring, place on lettuce and sprinkle bits of finely chopped pinteno over the whole. Serve with French dressing.

Custard.

One pint milk, large; two eggs, one cup of sugar, small; one teaspoonful vanilla, one-half cup of butter, two tablespoonfuls cornstarch. Dissolve the cornstarch in a little of the milk; heat the rest of the milk; when boiling add the sugar, cornstarch and beaten eggs, stirring briskly; add the butter, stir till dissolved, flavor and spread on the rakes while hot. This can be used as a pudding by pouring over each piece a spoonful of the custard that is left.

Glazed Sweet Potatoes.

Four sweet potatoes, one quart boiling water, one cupful sugar and a half cupful water will be needed for this recipe. Wash the sweet potatoes and cook ten minutes in boiling water, drain, pare and cut in lengthwise slices. Place in a buttered baking dish, cover with sirup made by boiling sugar and water together. Cover the baking dish and bake until tender.
