Fish Hatchery Buried Under Forty Feet of Cinders—Striker Killed By Detectives— Another Will Die.

(Special to The Evening News.)

SEWARD, Alaska, June 14.—From reliable sources it is learned today that North Kodiak Island and all of Afognak, where is located the immense government fish hatchery, are buried under 40 feet of volcanic ashes. All vegetation has been destroyed, and all animals are dead or dying in the stricken district. It is yet unknown how many individuals lost their lives in the eruption, as it has been impossible to communicate with any place since the volcanoes became active, but it is believed that those villages near Mt. Katmai have been destroyed.

Two Strikers Are Killed.

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., June 14.—One striker, Peter Dudaek, was killed, and four others wounded by private detectives today. One of the injured men will die. A thousand strikers surrounded the main gate of the American Smelting & Refining Company's plant, and following an attempt of the mob to burn the fence surrounding the plant, detectives in the employ of the smelter, fired upon the surging mass of humanity, killing Dudaek.

JOHN ADAMS SHOOTS PAUL GRAN, NEAR RESTON. TODAY

Man Who Claims to Have Been Wronged Shoots and Probably Fatally Injures Brother-in-law Whom He Suspected of Interfering in His Domestic Affairs.

GRAN, THE VICTIM, WILL PROBABLY DIE

Deputy Sheriff Fred Stewart and Dr. George E. Houck Leave For the Scene of the Tragedy Shortly Afternoon Today—Fugitive Said to be Heading in the Direction of Coos County.

HEADED FOR ROSEBURG.

JOHNSON'S STAGE STATION, 4:30 p. m.—It is believed here that John Adams has changed his course and is now headed in the direction of Roseburg. It is also believed he will be overtaken by the officers who are beating the brush along the roadway. Gran, the injured man, is very low, but notwithstanding the attending physician entertains slight hope of recovery.

"I have threshed that fellow before and I can do it again" were the last words spoken by John Adams as he left Roseburg on this morning's stage for Reston, where at noon today he shot and probably fatally injured Paul Gran, a brother-in-law, who resides on the Hartman ranch, about a mile beyond A. W. Johnson's stage station on the old Coos Bay road.

According to the story told by Mr. Johnson over the telephone late this afternoon, Adams arrived at Reston shortly after 10 o'clock this morning where he alighted from the stage under the pretense of visiting at the Arnold and Beasley mill. Instead of going to the mill as apparently intended, however, Adams awaited until the stage was out of sight when he continued his journey up the mountain foot. Arriving at Johnson's stage station the "would be" murderer hesitated for a few minutes when he resumed his trip to the Hartman home a mile beyond.

Upon his arrival at the latter abode, it is claimed that Adams accused M. E. Hartman, a brother-in-law, of interfering in his domestic affairs. Hartman is said to have resented this accusation whereupon Adams whipped out a 32-calibre revolver and commenced to shoot. In all three shots were fired at Hartman, none of which took effect.

Witnessing the trouble from a distance, Paul Gran, another brother-in-law, rushed to Hartman's assistance with the result that he was shot through the lung by Adams who stood with the smoking weapon still in hand. As the last, and probably the fatal shot rang out, Gran fell to the ground unconscious, a wound from which blood flowed freely furnishing mute evidence of the tragedy that had been enacted.

Without awaiting to assist his mortally wounded brother-in-law, Adams then started along the country road in the direction of Coos county, only to be overtaken and shot at by Hartman. Fortunately, Hartman's aim was untrue and none of the shots took effect.

Immediately following the shooting Gran was carried into the lit home where he was given such relief as was possible pending the transmission of news of the affair to Roseburg. As soon as word was received here regarding the shooting, Deputy Sheriff Fred Stewart and Dr. George E. Houck left for the scene in an automobile. According to a telephone message received late this afternoon Dr. Houck is at the bedside of the injured man, while Deputy Sheriff Stewart is following the fugitive who is believed to be enroute for Coos county. While Dr. Houck had been unable to determine the extent of the wound at three o'clock this afternoon, he intimated that chances of recovery were slight.

Upon local investigation here this afternoon it was ascertained that Adams, who is about 30 years of age and a veteran of the Spanish-American war, was at one time an inmate of the Oregon Soldiers' Home, in West Roseburg. It was while housed at that institution that Adams became acquainted with Mrs. Nelson, a hard-working woman and a daughter of Mrs. Hartman, who lives on the ranch where the tragedy was enacted. After a brief courtship Mrs. Nelson and Adams were married, and for a time resided in a cottage near the home. Later they moved to Portland where they intended to lease a rooming house. It was while residing in the latter city that the domestic affairs of the couple became disagreeable, finally culminating in the return of Mrs. Adams to the home of her mother, Mrs. Hartman, near Reston. It is claimed that the separation occurred about two months ago, or at least it was about the middle of April when Mrs. Adams left Roseburg for Reston following her return from the Oregon metropolis.

Adams remained in Portland for a time following his wife's departure for home, when he became despondent and moved to Eugene. There he remained until yesterday when he arrived in Roseburg. Late last night he visited the Nevada rooming house, conducted by Mr. and Mrs. George Rapp, where he registered under the assumed name of "G. Nicholas". At the time he registered he said he had arrived in town on train No. 17, shortly before midnight, and desired to be awakened in time to take the stage for Marshfield. Mr. Rapp called the fellow shortly after five o'clock this morning and a few minutes later he appeared in readiness to undertake the journey. When asked for his stage fare, Adams said he had changed his mind, and instead of proceeding to Marshfield, had decided to alight at Reston. Although apparently in the best of spirits he talked considerably, and among other things remarked: "I have threshed that fellow before and I can do it again." Mr. Rapp paid no attention to the declaration at the time, neither did he fully realize the meaning of the statement until this afternoon when he was informed of the shooting.

In view of the fact that Adams arrived here yesterday and after a night's sleep went directly to the home of his former wife, it is believed by the officers, substantiated by statements of people residing in the vicinity of the crime, that he fully intended to murder those whom he suspected of separating him from his wife. In fact, it is claimed that he told friends upon numerous occasions that his brother-in-laws, M. E. Hartman and Paul Gran were responsible for the unrest of his wife which eventually culminated in her return to the parental home.

As near as can be ascertained here this afternoon, Adams was admitted to the oldiers' Home upon the presentation of documents substantiating his claim of being a veteran of the Spanish-American war. Although a young man of 30 years he was quite badly crippled, and as a result, his escape was deemed improbable.

In the event Adams is captured by Deputy Stewart this afternoon he will be returned here tonight in Dr. Houck's automobile.

Further details of the shooting will not be obtainable prior to the arrival of the officer this evening.

In order to block all avenues of escape, a telegram was sent to Sheriff Gage, of Coquille City, this afternoon, with instructions to keep a lookout for Adams who is apparently enroute to the coast.

The Hartman home is situated in one of the most isolated sections of Douglas county, and in an ideal spot for the successful commission of a crime. In either direction from the home the country is thickly wooded, thus allowing a fugitive ample opportunity to escape. Notwithstanding this, however, the officers hope to effect Adams' capture before nightfall.

In speaking of Adams late this afternoon, George W. Rapp, in whose rooming house the fellow spent last night, said that he acted very nervous, and in a conversation said he was desirous of reaching his destination early. In fact, he inquired

COLONEL STATES HIS INTENTION

Announcement Increases Political Intensity—Taft Delegates from Oklahoma Seated By Committee Today.

(Special to The Evening News.)

NEW YORK, June 14.—Colonel Roosevelt will lead the fight for nomination in person at the Chicago convention next week. He announced today that he would leave New York for the Western city on a late afternoon train. This puts to quiet all rumors concerning his attitude in the matter, and confirms the statement made by Senator Dixon, at Chicago this morning, that Mr. Roosevelt would be on the ground when the big convention got ready for business. This fact also keeps up another notch higher the intense political situation throughout the country.

For Taft, Of Course.

CHICAGO, June 14.—In the contest before the national republican committee for recognition in the convention, Taft delegates from the Third Oklahoma district were seated this morning.

In a statement to the press this afternoon Roosevelt said that very many people urged him to go to Chicago, and in addition he had received countless telegrams from delegates. These telegrams, he said, indicated that the action of the national committee in the contest cases had made a clear cut issue as to whether the people should have the right to name the nominee for the Success of Suffrage In Western States Sufficient Proof Of Its Value — Congressmen Establish Truce.

(Special to The Evening News.)

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 14.—Speaking of Colonel Roosevelt's announcement that he favored woman suffrage, Judge Ben B. Lindsey, of Denver, said:

"Roosevelt was finally won over by what he had seen done by the woman voters in Colorado, California, Washington and other Western states. He told me he was convinced from this record of the advantage to be gained from placing the ballot in the hands of the women."

Will Vote For Roosevelt.

CHICAGO, June 14.—Fred Bugle, nominated by Indiana for republican presidential elector, announced he and four others from Indiana, whose names are withheld, would vote in the electoral college for Colonel Roosevelt if the republicans carried Indiana.

Truce Declared.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—As the result of a "gentleman's agreement" negotiated between Majority Leader Underwood and Minority Leader Mann in the house and the republican and democratic leaders in the senate it is possible for the members of congress to attend the national convention. The leaders agreed to suspend "partisan business" during both the Chicago and Baltimore conventions.

Dr. Canfield, of Drain, was brought here last evening suffering from the effects of a broken ankle sustained while riding a horse. It appears that Mr. Canfield was riding along the highway, when his horse suddenly stumbled and fell in such a manner as to throw its rider to the ground with violence. Dr. Canfield was admitted to Mercy hospital last evening where he will receive treatment at the hands of local physicians.

presidency, or that right should be surrendered to a small knot of personally interested politicians. Delegates, Roosevelt said, demanded that he go to Chicago, not as a candidate, but because he stands as the representative of a principle favored by the rank and file of the republican party. Mrs. Roosevelt and Kermit will accompany the Colonel to Chicago.

New York Delegation Free.

CHICAGO, June 14.—Senator Dixon, of Montana, declared this afternoon that the New York delegation has slipped from under Taft control and is coming over to Roosevelt's support. He also asserts that two North Carolina delegates, supposedly for Taft, have thrown off the yoke, and will vote for Roosevelt, Congressman McKinley, manager for Taft, denies these assertions.

No Dusky "Hoss".

WASHINGTON, June 14.—President Taft made the positive statement that there will be no dark horse at Chicago next week, but that he will be nominated easily on the first ballot.
