

A TRAGIC DEATH

Dr. Roy Smick Drowned in Umpqua Yesterday.

BODY IS LATER RECOVERED

Deceased Was Born in Roseburg 32 Years Ago—Leaves Father, Mother, Two Brothers and a Sister.

Dr. Roy Flint Smick, son of Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Smick, of Roseburg, and junior member of the medical firm of Drs. Seely, Sether Stewart & Smick, was drowned in the Crow Rapids, in the Umpqua river at a point about 13 miles northwest of Roseburg shortly after 11 o'clock yesterday morning. The body was recovered 40 minutes later and was brought to the local undertaking parlors preparatory to burial tomorrow afternoon.

Dr. Smick, accompanied by Joseph Sykes, of the local gun store; Steven Sanford, formerly of the First National Bank, and O. C. Parks, a local expressman, left for points on the Umpqua river shortly after five o'clock yesterday morning and an hour later arrived at the Bacon ranch where they left the car preparatory to enjoying a day's sport. The party was joined at the Bacon ranch by George Bacon, and soon thereafter the five young men were fishing down the stream. Having enjoyed considerable experience in fishing along the Umpqua the boys took considerable time, and not until nearly 11 o'clock did they reach the Crow Rapids, the scene of the horrible tragedy. Upon reaching the rapids, Dr. Smick immediately waded out in the stream waist-deep, and for a time he cast his line here and there in apparent ease. He had probably fished for ten or fifteen minutes, when he turned, and instead of retracing his steps along the edge of the rapids, started back through a sort of a basin in which the waters fairly raged and boiled. Hesitating for a minute, Dr. Smick cast his line toward the center of the stream and was awaiting results when he was seen to slip, totter forward and fall. Joseph Sykes and George Bacon, who were seated on the bank of the river a distance of about 200 feet from the scene of the accident, rushed to the unfortunate man's assistance and after brief delay Sykes threw his pole with such accurate aim that it was grasped by Dr. Smick, who at that time was attempting to swim to shore. At the time Dr. Smick grasped the pole he was still smoking a pipe, and appeared little frightened. In fact, he yelled to Sykes and Bacon to pull the line and thereby assure his rescue. Sykes had hardly taken up the slack in his line, however, when Smick suddenly loosened his hold and sank beneath the surface of the waters.

and Sykes disrobed with the intention of plunging into the chilling waters in the event Smick's body came to the surface. In this they were disappointed, however, and after a brief time the boys realized that he was probably lost. Not wishing to give up, Bacon was later dispatched to a point about two miles below the scene of the accident in search of a boat, while Sanford was sent to a nearby farm house with instructions to notify local friends. While Bacon was gone after the boat, Sykes and Parks cut a long pole to which they attached a number of hooks. With the boat at hand, the boys ventured out a short distance when they detected Smick's body lying on the bottom of the river bed. From the position of the body, it appeared as though the unfortunate man had been seized with heart-trouble or had suffered a severe cramp. At any rate, the boys believe he died without a struggle. The body was readily recovered and taken ashore where everything possible was done in hope of restoring life.

As soon as word was received in Roseburg regarding the accident, Drs. A. C. Seely, A. F. Sether and E. B. Stewart immediately left for the scene. They arrived there within about thirty minutes, and for the next hour worked over the prostrate form of their former business associate. After realizing that life was extinct, the body was brought to Roseburg and taken to the local undertaking parlors preparatory to burial.

Dr. Roy Smick was born in the residence at present occupied by his parents, and situated at the corner of Main and Cass streets 32 years ago. When a young man he attended the local public schools, and later the Albany college. Mr. Smick graduated from the latter institution on June 20, 1900, with honors. In this college he received the Master of Arts degree.

Later Dr. Smick attended the Cooper Medical College, of San Francisco, from which institution he graduated in 1906. Completing his studies, Dr. Smick returned to Roseburg where he remained for some time when he located at Myrtle Creek. There he practiced his profession until about eighteen months ago, when he came to Roseburg and later associated himself with the firm of Drs. Seely, Sether & Stewart.

Dr. Smick was a member of the Masonic lodge, of Myrtle Creek; Philatelian lodge, I. O. O. F., of Roseburg, and the Woodmen of the World. He was also a member of the Southern Oregon Medical Association, Oregon State Medical Association, and the American Medical Association. He was also an active member of the Roseburg Commercial Marquard Pitches Usual Game While O'Brien is Pounded Hard—Red Sox "Blow Up" in First Inning.

(Special to The Evening News.)
BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 14.—With Marquard occupying the pitching mound for New York, the Boston "Red Sox" met defeat in the fifth game of the world's championship series today by a score of 5 to 2. The first inning proved something unusual in the annals of baseball, and the Giants succeeded in scoring five runs. O'Brien, who occupied the box for the Red Sox, seemed easy prey for the Giants and he was batted at will. At the end of the third inning, O'Brien was pulled out of the game and replaced by Collins, who held the Giants down during the remainder of the exhibition.

The game was attended by about 30,000 fans, and excitement was intense during the innings following the eventual "blow-up" on the part of the Red Sox.

WOMAN'S PATRIOTISM.

To the editor:
History is filled with accounts of brave and noble deeds of women. No where in the world today is there a greater opportunity for women to demonstrate their love of country and brave, noble spirit of patriotism than is now before her in Oregon.

On completion of the Panama canal it is certain that this state will be filled with aliens from the shores of the Mediterranean Sea, nearly all of whom will be voters almost immediately upon arrival. Their dominance of the politics of this state, their control of our schools, courts, and public institutions will be postponed just so long as the patriotic Americans can out vote them.

Our population is sparse. A very few ship-loads of aliens will give them the balance of power.

Oh! Women of Oregon! Act! Now is your opportunity to show your patriotism. Save your state for American ideals by gaining for yourselves the power to out vote the coming array of aliens. This year may be your last opportunity to win. A. C.

CLARK SPEAKS

Progressive Candidate Would Populate Rural Districts.

ELMER KENNEDY ALSO TALKS

Quite a Large Crowd Turns Out to Hear Political Spellbinders—Development of State Is Necessary.

There was a large crowd present at the bull moose meeting at the court house Saturday night to hear Hon. A. E. Clark, progressive candidate for the United States senate. Mr. Clark declared that the progressive movement was bigger than Theodore Roosevelt, or any other individual, and that the movement would certainly eventually succeed what ever its fate in this campaign. The speaker elaborated his plan for the clearing and securing of the use of the timber lands for actual settlers. Mr. Clark has 30 planks in the platform on which he is a candidate. Of these the principal ones are:

Maintenance of the general principle of a protective tariff, but with immediate revision downward in such a way as to make the farmer and the workman the chief beneficiaries.

The removal or suspension of duties on all trust-controlled articles. Establishment of a permanent non-partisan commission to hold tariff hearings and make recommendations.

A reasonable minimum wage schedule for girls and women; an eight-hour day for women and young people in all industrial occupations, and prohibition of night labor for girls and women. Further, eight hour shifts in night and day plants; prohibition of child labor; suppression of sweat shops. Further, a workmen's compensation act that will shift the burden following accident or death from the family to the industry; legislation to insure safe and sanitary conditions of labor. Opening to settlement, without needless restrictions, of agricultural lands in the national forests; help and encouragement for homesteaders rather than persecution.

More equitable leases of public grazing lands, to lessen the burdens of the stockraiser. Setting aside for Oregon irrigation projects a sum each year at least equal to the amount derived from the sale of Oregon public lands; reimbursement to this state of the millions lost by diversion of these funds to the irrigation projects of the reclamation service for the benefit of the honest settler.

Development of the waterways and harbors of Oregon, as follows: Larger appropriations and immediate deepening for the entrances of the channels of Coos Bay, Tillamook bay, Yaquina bay, Port Orford, Siuslaw river, Coquille river, Rogue river, the Columbia river and, later, two or three smaller rivers. Prompt reconstruction of the Oregon City locks and deepening of the upper Willamette to serve the central Willamette valley. Improvement of the Coquille river east of the Cascade mountains and of the Snake river so as to afford water transportation for all inland empire products. Prosecution to the end without delay, of the Cello canal project. A deeper and wider channel from Portland to the sea.

Kennedy Speaks.

B. Elmer Kennedy, progressive candidate for secretary of state, then addressed the meeting. He said that his opponent Secretary Olcott, had managed the successful campaign of Governor West, a democrat, and was now the nominee on the republican ticket. Republicans should not regard their party obligations more strongly than he did himself. Proceeding Mr. Kennedy said:

"The secretary of state is a member of all the state boards that levy state taxes and spends your money."

"The state board is the state business agency, the same as the county court is the county business agency. Would you elect both your commissioners and judge from the county seat? Of course not! Why? Because it is not right, all sections should be represented. Is Eastern Oregon or Southern Oregon or Central Oregon or any of the coast counties or Multnomah county represented on the state board? Not Salem only is represented. Governor West, Secretary Olcott, Treasurer Kay, all Salem men, comprise the state board."

BULLET HITS POCKET.

Cartridges Are Struck and Exploded and Victim Is Wounded.

GLENDALE, Or., Oct. 13.—A stray bullet from a high powered gun fired by a hunter entered the trousers pocket of Lawrence Martin, of this city, when Martin was walking in the woods today and exploded several 22 caliber cartridges in Martin's pocket.

Martin was painfully wounded by the small bullets, which entered his leg. A knife, which also was in Martin's pocket, was torn to pieces by the exploding bullets. A number of the cartridges were flattened out, but failed to explode.

Martin was brought to Glendale in an automobile and the bullets were removed from his leg.

Mrs. J. W. Hamilton returned here this morning after a few days spent at Eugene visiting with her daughter.
