

AN ARRIVAL EXTRAORDINARY

Prof. C. Vance (direct from Europe), the world's most celebrated palmist, astrologist and clairvoyant, has arrived in this city and has opened offices in the Grand Hotel, rooms 1 and 2, where he can be consulted on all the affairs of life. Prof. Vance has no equal in the profession. He stands alone, the prince of clairvoyants, and is recognized by the press and public as the greatest master of the science of palmistry and astrology the world has ever produced. He guarantees to reveal every incident of your life, tell when, whom and where you will marry, tell you in what you are fitted for and how to obtain money you are in need of. The happiness of your future life may depend upon the right solution and proper advice. The professor makes no mistakes, and all his predictions are true, and he may be relied upon. You may wish to know if it is advisable to make a change in business, in love and in marriage.

WHOM SHALL I MARRY? HOW OFTEN SHALL I MARRY? SHALL I EVER BE DIVORCED? DOES ANOTHER SHARE THE LOVE THAT RIGHTFULLY BELONGS TO ME? IF SO, WHO? IS MY DISEASE CURABLE? WHEN SHALL I LEAVE HERE? AM I LIABLE TO ACCIDENT? SHOULD I INVEST MY MONEY? IN WHAT SHALL I INVEST? HAVE I ANY ENEMIES? CAN I TRUST MY FRIENDS? IN WHAT TOWN OR STATE WOULD I BE MOST SUCCESSFUL? HOW CAN I SELL PROPERTY? HOW CAN I HAVE GOOD LUCK? HOW CAN I SUCCEED IN BUSINESS? HOW CAN I MAKE MY HOME HAPPY? WHERE AND WHEN CAN I GET A GOOD POSITION? HOW CAN I MARRY THE ONE I CHOOSE? HOW CAN I MAKE ANYONE LOVE ME? HOW CAN I CONTROL ANY ONE?

The professor tells all of these things and many more. He is ever ready to help those with small capital to find a quick and sure investment. If your business is unsuccessful, if your health is not good, or if you are in trouble of any kind, you should see this truly gifted medium at once. He has helped thousands on the road to success, and he can and will help you. He not only tells you what your life has been and will be, but also how to better your condition in every possible way. Thousands of people are failures today simply because they do not see these things for themselves, or are not following the right trade or profession. Prof. Vance has made a life study of these things, and he is now prepared to show you how to make a thorough success of your life. His fee is reasonable and within the reach of the caller, no matter who, and if he does not make you a feasting that is superior to any you have ever had, he will positively refuse to accept any fee whatever.

THE PANICS OF 1893 AND 1907

DEMOCRATIC PARTY RESPONSIBLE FOR THE DISTRESS WHICH MARKED ITS ADMINISTRATION.

FACT IS CLEARLY SHOWN

The Financial Disturbance of Five Years Ago Not Due to Adverse Republican Legislation Nor to Any Cause for Which the Republican Party Must Answer.

With an audacity which can only be explained by the desperate situation which makes a resort to even the most improbable of theories a political necessity, the Democratic campaign text book charges the Republican party with responsibility for the panic of 1893 and the hard times that ensued. "The Republicans have been trying to make the country believe," says the text book, "that the panic of 1893 was brought about by the Democratic bill which was passed in 1894." And then the text book writer proceeds to make merry over the absurdity of charging an effect in one year to a cause that did not transpire until the year after.

Well, here are the facts: The last year of the Harrison administration, 1892, was the most prosperous the country had enjoyed up to that time. Labor was fully employed, capital was actively seeking investment, and the farmers were getting a good price for a big crop. So far as industrial and commercial conditions were concerned, there was not a cloud in the sky. Republican speakers and newspapers tried to persuade the people that they should let well enough alone and that Democratic success might bring disaster. But they would not listen. The prices of some things were pretty high. The Democrats declared it was because of the high tariff and promised that if put into power they would revise the tariff "in the interest of the plain people." There was little expectation throughout the country that Harrison would be defeated, and business boomed right up to election day. But Harrison was defeated.

How the Panic Came. And then what happened? Why, instantly, men who had money which they were about to invest locked it up in the vaults and said "We will just wait a while to see what happens." Manufacturers engaged in producing protected articles, realizing that as soon as the Democratic congress could get at it their protection would be reduced, immediately began to cut their output to current demands. Who could blame them for refusing to go ahead and pile their warehouses full of goods which might have to be sold in competition with similar products made in countries where the factory wage scale was one-half or one-fourth of the factory wage scale which they had been paying? Jobbers and wholesalers cut their orders to the manufacturers in the same way and for the same reason. Retailers all over the country bought their supplies from day to day, fearing to be caught with high-priced goods when the low-priced flood came.

And so it happened that although the Wilson bill was not actually passed until late in 1894 the panic began the day after the election of 1892. It was not what the Democratic president and congress had done, but what everybody knew they intended to do that wrought the havoc. Indeed if the Wilson bill could have been passed the day Cleveland was inaugurated the damage to the country would have been far less than that which actually occurred.

The Danger of Uncertainty. This country is big enough and rich enough and resourceful enough to adjust itself to nearly any tariff law, no matter how bad it may be, if it only knows what it is. But during all the long months of debate over the bill the business of the country was, as it were, hung up in the air. If man had known that the duty on articles in which they were interested was to be reduced ten per cent they could have figured accordingly. If they had known the duty was to be reduced 50 per cent or 100 per cent they would have had some basis upon which to adjust themselves. But they did not know what the reduction would be, so they had absolutely no basis upon which to do their figuring. They simply had to wait and wait and wait, keeping just as close to shore as they possibly could until the long agony was over. That is the analysis of the panic from 1893 to 1897, and no matter how vigorously the Democratic text book may dispute it, it cannot deny or refute it.

Two Kinds of Panics. There is some reason, of course, why the unthinking should charge the responsibility for the panic of 1907 upon the Republican party, because that party was in power when the panic occurred. But it is to be remembered that there are two kinds of panics, one due to loss of confidence in measures and the other due to loss of confidence in men. A political party is justly chargeable with a business disturbance due to bad measures or the fear of bad measures; but it is not chargeable with responsibility for a disturbance brought about by the conduct of men. It was the fear of injurious legislation that brought upon the country the disaster of 1893-7. And therefore these disasters are chargeable to the Democratic party. But the money stringency of 1907 was due absolutely to the frenzied maneuvering of a group of men operating entirely outside of politics and having no connection whatever with the government. It was nowhere charged that the panic of 1907 was brought about either by legislation which the Republican party had enacted or that it was threatening to pass. Neither then nor at any time since then has any Republican measure been charged with having brought it about, and the only new legislation which was demanded as the outcome of it was the emergency currency law, the need of which had never before been demonstrated so plainly, and which was promptly passed.

These are the facts in relation to the panics of 1893-7 and of 1907. That Democratic legislation was directly responsible for the former cannot be successfully denied. That Republican legislation was responsible, directly or indirectly, for the latter can not be successfully maintained.

WHY ROOSEVELT BOLTED.

From Clay Center, Kan., Republican: Taft was fairly nominated by the Republican national convention at Chicago and is the rightful nominee of his party. Had Roosevelt been the nominee, it would have been the duty of Republicans who affiliated with the party to support him. Taft stands in that same relation and logically should command the support of all who claim to be Republicans. Roosevelt bolted his party; not because Taft was not the rightful nominee, but because of disappointed ambition and bitter desire for revenge because of his failure to get the nomination.

A bolter and ingrate and a traitor are synonymous terms in his case and the people will see to it that he is properly punished for his treachery. No traitor ever succeeded in accomplishing his ends.

History has never recorded an instance where a traitor did not meet his just deserts. It will be the same with Roosevelt.
