Largest Ship In the World Under Unique Bulkhead Test

A UNIQUE test has just been carried out abourd the Imperator to determine the strength of her bulkheads under extreme conditions. The Imperator, which is the largest slilp in the world, is receiving the unishing touches at Hamburg. The vessel is divided by numerous longitiducial and transverse bulkheads which reach to the second deck, high above the water line. To improve the strength of these steel walls several of the compartments have been completely filled with water. The water was then pumped out, the largest fire engine in Europe being used for this purpose. The accompanying illustration shows the imperator as she appears to day with the great fire engine being lifted to her deck. The engine seems to be about the size of a watch charm in comparison with the enormous bulk of the great liner. The test proved that the bulkheads could readily with stand any pressure exerted against them.

Sailor, the Famous Dog Col-lector of Money For Orphans.

6) by American Press Association

There died recently at Southampton, England, a dog known to many transatlantic travelers. Those young folks who have crossed the ocean on liners landing at Southampton in recent years must surely have seen him and if so will recognize his portrait. This dog was a Newfoundland, and his name was very appropriately Sallor. With his collecting box strapped across his shoulders Sallor used to watch the coming and going of all steamers at South-ampton. His mute appeal for funds to aid the Seamen's orphanage was very effective, and during his career he col-lected nearly $2,500 for that institution. Sailor was eight years old when death ended his life of usefulness.

Columbus and the Egg.

The true story of Columbus and the egg is like this: After Columbus returned from his perilous voyage many of the conrtiers, who were jealous of him, taunted him with the words. "Anybody could have done what you did just by sailing steadily westward." "To be sure," said the navigator, but I'll show you something you can't do." Calling for an egg, he asked them to make it stand steady on its smallest end. They all tried in vain. Then Columbus took a knife and with a stroke flattened the end so that the

The Dream Ship.

Sister and I have the grandest time
At hight when we go to hed.

We keep as quiet as can be.
So never a word is said.
But we play that our bed is a beautiful book.
And we sail to foreign shores.
Our ship is the finest vessel affoat,
With never a need of ours.

We visit strange lands, and we see strange sights
Where kings and queens all dwell.
And they wear the lovellest ciothes of gold.
And wanderful tales they tell.
Then we well from dishes diamond bright.
But back to our homes we awfify sail
When we turn our boat about and make for the spot where Dreamland lies.
