WHO IS THE LOSER?

We had a caller one day this week. In the person of a subscriber who was a year and some months in arrears. Along with a number of others, we had sent him a letter, asking him to bring in a load of wood on this, and we would credit it on the subscription and pay the difference, if any, in cash. Evidently he took offense, for he came in, paid up and scheduled the paper. Now we ask in all fairness, had this man any grudge coming? Suppose the situation were changed, and he had been furnishing us with any milk or butter or fruits, week by week for a year or more, and when he came for his pay and offered to take it out in subscription or printing, we became offended, paid him up and refused to have any further dealings with him, although perfectly satisfied in every respect. Now, what would have been his opinion of us in this matter? Would not he have thought that we were very easily offended, or even intended to eventually try and evade the payment of the bill? No publication likes to lose readers, but all agree that the general effect of having one quit, because of having been prodded for delinquency, is like sticking one's finger in a basin of water, and looking for the hole, after the finger has been withdrawn.

Another demonstration has just been made of the remarkable utility and value of the wireless apparatus with which the ocean steamers are today equipped. Almost on the very spot of the Titanic horror of last year, one of the big trans-Atlantic liners was found to be on fire, and the flames were in a short time beyond control. All this time her wireless operator was sending out the call for help, quick help, the call that is not passed up on the high seas. Fortunately the call was picked up by not less than eight large steamers at distances varying from fifty to one hundred miles, and every one of these put on full speed toward the point of the disaster, reaching there in time to rescue the greater number of the passengers and crew, after incurring tremendous risks in doing so. The details of the catastrophe and the thrilling rescue, will be found in the news columns.

DOLL SHOP A SUCCESS.

Second Performance is Well Attended and Well Received by Audience.

The second night of the Doll Shop was even better than the first night and the attendance about the same. The musicians knew their cues and the spot light operator was at his best. The credit of the successful closing of the engagement of the Doll Shop is due to Miss S. Walker, the ladies of the Guild who worked so faithfully with her and to all those who took part in the various specialties of the two acts. It is no easy matter to act the part of an inanimate doll. It requires training to take expression from the face and to hold oneself rigid or in one position. Just praise has been given to the members of the cast who have worked hard for the past three weeks in preparation for the two night's play. Little Florence DeVaney knew her part well and said her words distinctly. Maurine Buchanan sang sweetly her song, "I Can't Forget You, Honey". Stella Krohn has a pretty voice and her song "Hessie and Her Little Brown Bear" was well received by the audience. Roy Bellows is intimitable as a Dutchman and when he sang "Under the Anhauser Bush" the spectators were in an uproar. Mrs. Nathan Fullerton, as a little boy, sang prettily "Oh, You Beautiful Doll". The Ballet of the Paper Dolls was neatly executed and showed great talent and preparation by the young ladies who composed it. It was in this ballet that Miss Florence Litburn sang the song "I'm the Queen of the Dolls". She has a charming voice and her rendition of the part was exact. Jim Goodman, made up as the rag doll, also took part in this number and sang "I'm the King of the Dolls".

Miss Mildred Wilson, who has a powerful and bewitching voice, sang most charmingly "In the Days of Old". As the refrain was being sung Mrs. Clark Bargar, representing the modern as against the former days, appeared on the stage in an exquisite gown of black silk made up in the very latest fashion. The number was colored and when she appeared again she wore another modern gown, this one of pink silk and slit at both sides. It portrayed the ultra fashions of today and was a striking contrast to the Colonial gown and make-up of Miss Wilson.

The Minuet was done beautifully again last night and received long and merited applause. Mrs. Nathan Fullerton and Mr. E. E. Stewart sang and danced with grace and ease the popular song "Kiss, Kiss, Kiss".

"The Garland Fantasy" danced by twelve of Roseburg's young ladies was beautiful and received well deserved applause.

Miss S. Walker executed a gorgeous dance. She appeared at her best last night and displayed in her wonderful dancing the pride that she felt in the success of her undertaking in presenting the Doll Shop.

Miss Florence Meinrosh sang charmingly the pretty song of "Pink Petty from Peter". She also danced gracefully a Dutch jig, her heavy wooden shoes added to the effect of the number.

Miss Mildred Wilson appeared in another number and again pleased her audience in her rendition of "Carmena".

Miss Gertrude Rast danced beautifully to the music of "Senora" and was deluged with applause.

The chorus and drill, "The Toy Monkey" was splendidly given and was received with proper appreciation. It was a difficult number well learned and rightly interpreted.

Misses Lucy Bridges and Arce Black displayed exceptional ability in their duet and dance, "Baby Doll".

The "Sailors Hornpipe" dance by four of Roseburg's pretty girls was beautiful and showed splendid training.

The chorus and jig danced and sung to "An Irish Smith" was a pretty number, the costumes and the steps adding greatly to the effect.

The parts played by Miss Allie Black, as the Fairy; by Miss Lucy Bridges, as the Baby Doll; by Miss Constance Moore, as the Irish Doll; Miss Gertrude Hildeburn, as the Dutch Doll and Miss Margaret McClallen, as Topsy, the black doll, were all taken with exceptional grace. Miss McClallen, as Topsy, created mirth uncontrolled throughout the performance.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Dr. Brooks, president of Albany college, addressed the high school Thursday afternoon on the subject of "Personality". His address was very profitable as well as entertaining and was much enjoyed by the high school students. If Mr. Brooks comes back to this city the high school pupils will be very glad to hear him speak again.

The high school faculty this year is composed of F. C. Fitzpatrick, principal and teacher of mathematics; Miss Kidder, English; A. C. Crews, commercial; Miss Hornbrook, asst. English; Miss Horner, history; Miss McElvain, languages and asst. commercial; Miss Ueland, science and asst. mathematics; Mr. Alchison, manual training; Miss McCullum, domestic science, and Miss Smith, study hall. The teachers are very efficient in their various branches and are all well liked by the students.

One very great disadvantage of the present high school building is the lack of assembly room. The room formerly used for this purpose was remodeled this summer, a partition taken out between it and another room and the seats re-arranged so as to give a larger seating space. But owing to the large number starting to school this fall, all the seats were taken and the seniors were given a separate room in which to assemble.

The high school basket ball team under the direction of Coach Finley is rounding into good shape. The team this year will be very strong and a number of good games may be expected.

A STUDENT.

FIGHTING CLUB

Is Organized at Umpqua Hotel Last Night.

WILL FIGHT REFERENDUM

Officers Are Elected; Many Local People Are Eligible To Membership—Prof. Straub Spends Day Here.

Members of the University of Oregon Alumni formed a fighting organization for the university measures in the November referendum election last night at the Umpqua hotel. Professor John Straub was a guest from the university, and furnished direction and advice.

M. B. Gorman, the county engineer, was chosen president, and E. P. Strong, secretary. Well known people who are eligible to membership are Mrs. R. E. Smith, Dr. G. J. Pacher, W. W. Cardwell, O. P. Co-show, A. F. Kerr and wife, Albert Abraham, Dr. George E. Huick, Regent J. W. Hamilton, Miss Helen Hamilton, Miss Bessie Klidder, Miss Vera Horner, W. S. Fisher, J. V. Rust, E. F. Strong, Claude Bartrum, Tiller; Benj. Huntington, Yoncalla; Leslie Miller, Drain; Prof. Alfred Powers, Oakland; C. L. Chenoweth, Oakland, and a number of others.

The measures of the University are worthy of the most careful consideration, for that institution is really the poor man's college. There is no tuition, and living can be had very cheaply. A surprising number of the students work their way through college.

The next regular meeting will be held Tuesday evening in the Commercial Club, probably. A full attendance is commended.

Wants You To Register.

Editor News: I wish to say that registration for the November election on October 18, and that I desire to urge every person who is friendly to the University of Oregon measures to register before that date. So far as effective educational work is concerned the state university must have the appropriations, which are now held up by referendum.

The referendum was started, apparently, as a matter of spite work. The state grants, the editor's associations, and every newspaper in the state with the exception of three, have placed themselves on record as favoring these appropriations. Those few things indicate the merit of the measures. E. F. STRONG.

MORE LIBERTY Should be Extended to Country's Prisoners. AMERICAN PRISON ASSOCIATION Meeting Called at Indianapolis This Morning—Women to Play Important Part in The Several Sections. INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 11.—A new, more liberal note on the care of prisoners was sounded by speakers before the annual meeting of the American Prison Association, which convened here today. Wage systems and honor systems for prisoners, prison schools and educational work, the employment of prisoners following their discharge, paroles, up-to-date medical inspection and care, the mental factor in crime and prisoners' aid were among the subjects to be discussed during the three daily sessions which will be held next week through to Thursday. At the formal opening session this evening former Vice-President Chas. Warren Fairbanks of this city is to preside. Following addresses of welcome by Chairman Fairbanks, Governor Samuel A. Ralston, of Indiana, and Mayor Samuel L. Shank, of Indianapolis, James A. Leonard, president of the American Prison Association, will read his annual address. He is superintendent of the Mansfield, O., State Reformatory. Governors of many states and the leading wardens and reformatory heads in the United States and Canada are expected among the thousand delegates and visitors who are here to attend the meetings. Vice President Marshall is scheduled for an address Monday afternoon. Governors Cox, of Ohio, Eberhart, of Minnesota, Bleas, of South Carolina, Ferris, of Michigan Hatfield, of West Virginia, Dunne, of Illinois and McCree, of Kentucky, are to speak. Women will play a prominent part in the discussions during the Prison Association's meetings. Mrs. Maude Ballington Booth, of New York city, Mrs. B. A. O'Sullivan, superintendent of the Andrew Mercer Reformatory, Toronto, Canada, Miss Elizabeth Kite, of Vineland, New Jersey, and Mrs. Jessie D. Hodder, superintendent of the Women's Reformatory at Sherborn, Mass., are on the program for addresses. Miss Julia C. Lathrop, director of the Federal Children's Bureau, was unable to attend the convention. The opening session tonight will be held in the hall of the House of Representatives at the State House, and afterward Governor and Mrs. Ralston will hold a reception in the executive parlors. A mass meeting at Tompkins hall will be tomorrow's feature, with addresses scheduled by Vice President Marshall, Professor Charles R. Henderson, of the University of Chicago, and Mrs. Maude Ballington Booth. The National Prisoners' Aid Association will hold its annual meeting Thursday afternoon.
