TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

ASBURY PARK, Oct. 29.—The primary subject of the National W. C. T. U. convention, which convened here today for a week's session, was to devise means to promote national prohibition by a constitutional amendment. Mrs. Lillian N. Stevens, of Portland, Me., national president, in discussing the convention topic today said that she hardly hoped that this goal would be reached as a direct result of any action which could be taken by the present convention, but that a definite plan of campaign would be mapped out, which, pursued persistently by the national organization, would ultimately effect the desired amendment of the W. C. T. U.

Among the means being considered to bring before the national congress the importance which the women attach to the prohibition amendment, the most prominent is that of petition. This method will be practiced even more extensively and thoroughly than ever. Mrs. Stevens said today that the Webb-Kenyon bill has proved of great aid to the police officers in enforcing the laws against the transportation of liquor.

"In my own state, Maine," she said, "I have had ample opportunity to watch the progress of police regulation. Before the Webb-Kenyon law was enacted shipments of liquor lay around the railway depots and warehouses and the public couldn't touch them. Now these shipments are seized, held for the time required by the law and then turned into the sewer. Of course, it hasn't by any means cut off drinking liquor entirely, it never has—that's why we want national prohibition."

"We expect to have another Hobson in congress when the regular session convenes to present our memorial for the amendment, and push it through. It probably will not pass, but we'll continue to fight for it. Moreover, we shall keep up the fight in the several states, and will cherish any local territorial gains just as much as formerly." Mrs. Stevens and other leaders in the national body expressed great pleasure at the stand taken by President Wilson and members of his cabinet.

"The influence of such men as Mr. Wilson, Secretary Bryan, Secretary Daniels and Secretary McReynolds cannot but have its moral effect upon the men of the nation," she said. High tribute was paid to the press of the country, which, Mrs. Stevens said, is now much more willing than formerly to publish facts and fiction stories which either reflect upon or directly attack the liquor traffic and interests.

Because the national convention directly follows the world W. C. T. U. convention at Brooklyn, scores of foreign delegates to the latter meeting were present today. The total attendance of delegates and visitors was expected to be more than ten thousand. The number of voting delegates, figured on a basis of one for each 500 paid-up members, was about 800.

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 29.—Having completed their fall battle practice, the battleships Rhode Island, Nebraska, New Jersey and Virginia of the third division of the Atlantic fleet, steamed out of Hampton Roads today for Mexican waters. Rear Admiral Clifford Boush was in command of the division. Upon arrival of these warships in the Gulf of Mexico Rear Admiral Fletcher will assume charge and Admiral Boush will transfer his command to the returning ships of the second division, the Louisiana, South Carolina, New Hampshire and the Michigan. Upon his return to American waters Rear Admiral Boush will be assigned command the fourth division of the Atlantic fleet.

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 29.—Delegates to the Southern Commercial Congress were divided today as to the effect to be exerted on immigration as a result of the operations of the Panama canal. Two addresses by S. Davies Warfield, president of the Southern Development Association and T. V. Powderly, chief of the Division of Information of the Immigration Bureau, developed the lengthy discussion among the delegates. Great enthusiasm was aroused by ringing speeches from Gen. Bennett H. Young, commander-in-chief of the Confederate Veterans, and Representative Henry D. Clayton, Senator Brady, of Idaho, discussed the trans-Mississippi territory and the benefits it expects to receive from the Panama canal.

The afternoon session was given over to a conference of commercial executives, presided over by M. B. Trezevant, president of the American Association of Commercial Executives. Harry A. Wheeler, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, urged a get-together spirit among American business men to increase foreign trade. Other speakers were Bruce Kennedy, president of the Southern Commercial Secretaries' Association and Lucius E. Wilson, former president of the Association of Commercial Executives. Tonight Secretary of Navy Daniels is scheduled to speak on "The Panama Canal and the American Navy." The newly appointed governor of the Panama Canal Zone, Richard L. Metcalf, will give some first hand impressions of the canal work. Clarence J. Owens, director general of the Permanent American Commission on Agricultural Co-operation, planned also to report informally on the result of the commission's investigation abroad of agricultural co-operative plans. Other speakers scheduled were Representative Thomas Hefflin, of Alabama, and Claude N. Bennett, manager of the Congressional Information Bureau, Washington.
