TITANIC DISASTER BASIS OF REMARKS

Noted Speakers Assemble—Numerous Recommendations Will Be Made Regarding Operation of Ocean Craft.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Lessons from the Titanic and Volturno disasters were drawn today in the opening sessions of the International Conference on Safety at Sea. The United States was represented at the gathering by Representative Joshua W. Alexander, of Missouri, chairman of the House Committee of Merchant Marine and Fisheries, chairman of the delegation; Eugene T. Chamberlain, commissioner of navigation, secretary; and Captain George B. Cooper, United States navy, treasurer. As had been expected, one of the first matters which came up for consideration today was the recommendation that wireless apparatus be required on all ships in foreign trade that carry fifty or more persons, including passengers and crew. In this connection it was deemed advisable, according to a report read at today's session that wireless on all ships should be able to transmit messages at least 100 nautical miles, and that auxiliary power supply for working the wireless must be provided independent of the vessel's main electric power plant, to send messages at least 10 miles for four hours or more.

On the question of requiring at least two operators it was expected that some differences of opinion would arise. Such a recommendation, it was thought, would pass in regard to ships maintaining a constant service and carrying 100 passengers or more, or a watcher would be recommended or cargo boats. All these recommendations were heartily supported by the delegation from the United States. It was expected that some sort of resolution praising Captain Inch, or the burned Volturno, would be unanimously agreed upon to commend him for his gallantry when his ship burned at sea some weeks ago.

The story of the Volturno disaster was expected to be vividly retold in support of recommendations for better fire fighting facilities on all boats. The complete United States delegation appointed by President Wilson is made up of the following: Senators Fletcher, of Florida, and Burton, of Ohio; Representative Alexander, of Missouri, Commissioner of Navigation Chamberlain, Captain E. P. Berthoff, of the revenue cutter service, Rear Admiral W. L. Capps, Captain George S. Cooper and Captain W. H. G. Bullard, U. S. N., Homer L. Ferguson, North Carolina; Albert G. Smith, New York; Andrew Furness, California, and George Ehler, supervising inspector general of the steamboat inspection service.

BLOND IS LOST

Drug Store Beautifiers Increase in Price.

NEW TARIFF OFFENSIVE TO WOMEN

Tariff On False Teeth and Talcum Powder Reduces—Hair Switches and Other "Beautifiers" Are Increased.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—There's mighty little hope for the drug store blond and the artificial beauty, in the new democratic tariff law. If not naturally beautiful or entrancing and the ancient and masculine partiality for the girl who glances as a "good looker" doesn't change, it's good night for yours. One thing seems evident and that is that the democratic tariff framers did more to discourage the use of face paint and cosmetics and gasty nose powders than all the mothers clubs and reformers organizations could have accomplished in a hundred years. Of course if your beauty can't be washed off the tariff doesn't affect you. But if you got the color of your cheeks or hair from a drug store, and depend solely on artificiality for your beauty and attractiveness, you'd better make up your mind to ask ather or hubby for a bigger allowance or prepare to be a "wall flower" henceforth.

With the exception of false teeth, talcum powder and brushes, everything from "switches" to cosmetics will cost more than heretofore because of increases in import duties. Paint and pastes, lotions and lozenges, powder and perfume, sachet-smell and switches—in fact, practically all the beautifiers so dear to the feminine heart, have had the import duties increased—and therefore they will be dearer. The beautifiers which haven't had the import raised, haven't had it lowered, so they'll cost as much if not more. Those democratic tariff framers, if they are all to be judged by their attitude toward artificial beauty, are as straight-laced when it comes to face powder and rouge, as the most incorruptible Puritan preacher who ever, from the pulpit, denounced ill-furbelows and feathers. Tadding all the increased duties on various accessories and applying an average 50 per cent and girls will have to pay from 2 to 2 1/2 per cent more than formerly.

NOTICE.

A meeting of the members of the Roseburg Gun Club will be held on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in Clark Brothers studio. It is desired that arrangements be made for a Thanksgiving turkey shoot. Let all members be present.

NAPLES, Italy, Nov. 12.—The Italian government today unaided itself in the reception accorded to Rear Admiral Badger, commander-in-chief of the division of the Atlantic fleet, which is visiting Italian ports. The admiral's flagship, Wyoming, dropped anchor today in the Bay of Naples, following an exchange of salutes. Officers from the royal navy immediately boarded the Wyoming to pay their official respects to Rear Admiral Badger, who soon after returned the call, accompanied by his full staff. Every minute of today was taken up with an elaborate program of entertainments and receptions in honor of the American naval commander-in-chief and his officers. The crew of the flagship as well as the officers and crews of the American battleships Arkansas and Florida, which have been in port since November 8, were entertained ashore by Italian naval officers and crews. The Wyoming leaves early tomorrow.
