

BRASS BEDS!

NEW ARRIVALS

Good assortment of patterns. Each simple in design and strong in construction. For a time the over-rolled, fancy designs in Brass Beds killed their popularity in many stores. These nightmares still remain; a fearful lesson in how not to make furniture. Two things are required in the right sort of Brass Bed; first, simplicity and harmony of design, which is art; second, strength in construction. Judge these new samples on our floor by these tests, but do not wait too long to judge the popularity of the patterns for this year Brass Beds are coming into their own.

In a recent issue the Albany Democrat has the following to say regarding the conviction of Brown Howard, of Roseburg, on a charge of bootlegging: "Howard formerly resided in Lebanon. He has been convicted various times on similar charges in Linn and Lane counties. Prior to going to Roseburg he resided in Harrisburg and at Springfield. Recently he was convicted on a bootlegging charge at Yoncaña, where he made his home temporarily."

The people of Edenbower, thanks to their own energy, now enjoy the privilege of a sidewalk all the way from the postoffice there to the city limits of Roseburg. This improvement was built with money raised by socials given by the ladies of Edenbower, and by private subscription, and has cost approximately $300. The work of laying the walk was pretty much all done voluntarily by the men of the neighborhood, so we understand. The walk affords a great convenience to school children, many of whom from Edenbower attend the city schools.

A Roseburg minister had a narrow escape from an ignominious arrest Monday. The minister loves the salmon and trout so much that on week days he will fish and angle by the hour. Monday he tried the South Umpqua below the dam. Seeing a number of men near the dam he fished alongside of them. Perhaps it was his special providence, perhaps it was intuition, or perhaps it was simply impulse, for he moved on, down stream seeking another hole. Not five minutes had passed when the fish wardens descended on the luckless ten and placed them under arrest.
