

NEW RIDING TOGS.

What the Debutante Will Wear This Spring.

IT'S SMART FOR COUNTRY WEAR.

Decidedly rakish are the newest riding habits for country wear. The skirts or even the bifurcated skirt are gone, and now the young girl wears breeches like her brother's and a very masculine coat.

To complete the costume there are a long coat, a smart looking collar and cuffs and a silk velours hat.

The Wedding Ring.

It is just a plain gold band. It is of no value compared to that gorgeous sapphire with its coruscating diamond which the young girl proudly flaunts upon the third finger of her left hand. But think of what the wedding ring betokens. Its value is not its intrinsic worth as an article of jewelry. It is the tacit yet eloquent symbol of the golden round of womanly duty lovingly performed, year in, year out, in sickness and in health, with devotion unending and asking no reward but the knowledge of loving, faithful service. As well think of the old flag, borne through the hell of battle, as nothing more than faded, tattered bunting. It is the emblem of lives laid down for the love of country. "As a lover lays a kiss at the feet of his beloved." Even so the wedding ring is the token of a life given daily, hourly, for the sake of all that a woman holds most dear in this human world.

Gown of French Serge.

IN DRESS OF WINE SHADE.

Shades is the material of which this lovely afternoon gown is fashioned. The bodice is cut low, and a vest of beaded net relieves the somewhat somber effect of the wine shade.

The Height of Fashion.

If we should see a ragged, ill-shod woman in the street shivering with cold and misery and her neck bare almost to the shoulders, we would do our best to help her cover them warmly. But she would be in the height of fashion! If we were to offer any neck covering to the smart women who are foolish enough to go about with bare necks, but partially covered chasms, we should get no thanks, quite the reverse. They glory in their

ATTORNEY GENERAL GIVES OPINION ON LAW

SALEM, Or., Jan. 8.—In an opinion to District Attorney T. A. Weiske, of Condon and a number of county treasurers, Attorney General Crawford today interpreted the new tax law. He said the law provides that all taxes shall be due April 1. All unpaid taxes will bear interest or penalty of 1 per cent a month for five months, or until September 1, at which time all unpaid taxes become delinquent. At that time there will be accumulated 5 per cent penalty will be added to the total amount, making 15 per cent penalty due at that time. Then that full amount will draw 12 per cent interest until paid.
