

CRAWFORD OUT

Says He Will be Candidate For Governor.

PLATFORM IS VERY COMPREHENSIVE

Declares Against Single Tax—Believes in Liberal Support of Schools—Laws Should be Enforced Against All.

Attorney General Crawford has announced himself as a candidate for the republican nomination for governor of Oregon. His announcement is sent out in the form of a platform which covers many items and which declares first against single tax.

His announcement follows:

Announcement.

When one makes application for the nomination for the high office of governor of the state, those whose votes he solicits, wish, and are entitled to know something at least of the applicant's views upon current events and governmental functions.

Therefore, with this announcement of my candidacy for nomination on the republican ticket for the office of governor of Oregon, subject to the approval of the voters, I respectfully submit to the consideration of the electorate, the following suggestions tending as I believe towards better government for Oregon:

Since the products of field and forest are the foundation of all prosperity and a large portion of our lands are farming and grazing, the imposition upon such lands of the entire burden of taxation would be intolerable to the farmer and to workers who own their own homes. Therefore the single tax propaganda should be rejected.

As the struggle for existence bears heaviest upon the laborers of the state, I would suggest exemption from taxation and execution of all household furniture and personal property to be chosen by the household to a reasonable amount, and that a constitutional amendment be adopted to effectuate the same.

Believing that cheap transportation is a great factor in the development of a state, and that nothing is more conducive thereto than good roads, and a federal court for the district of Oregon, having territory that the balance of the Oregon-California railroad grant, amounting to something over two millions of acres, originally granted in aid of the construction of a railroad, north and south through the state, is forfeited on the ground of non-compliance with the conditions of the grant, I would suggest that all the influence which can be brought to bear by the state administration and our delegation in congress, should be exerted to the utmost to have the forfeited lands or the proceeds thereof donated to the state of Oregon for the construction of good hard surface roads.

General intelligence of the people being the assurance of free government and personal liberty, liberal support should be given our schools and colleges, to the end, and at the same time keep our taxes within reasonable limits, the common school fund should be sacredly guarded and it may not be too late to save a portion at least of the seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars worth of indemnity school lands which have during the last few years been practically lost to the state, the yearly interest of which would amount to over forty thousand dollars per annum, to be used in the support of schools. Also the whole influence of the state should be brought to bear to have congress appropriate and pay the award of over one hundred and ninety three thousand dollars, secured by the Attorney General from the Court of Claims in favor of the state against the United States, which sum goes to the school fund of the state and would produce over eleven thousand dollars per annum interest, to be used in the support of schools. Good judgment and constant vigilance are necessary to prevent depletion of this fund.

All departments of the state government should be conducted on the

ANOTHER POLICEMAN.

SALEM, Or., Jan. 12.—Under a recent ruling of Labor Commissioner Hoff, and upheld by Attorney General A. M. Crawford all policemen in the state are subject to the provisions of the eight hour law. As a result Mr. Hoff will soon notify the different municipalities of the state that policemen cannot be employed more than eight hours out of 24. (Under this ruling the city of Roseburg will have to employ another officer in the event the town is to be policed during the entire 24 hours.)

most economical plan possible without destroying efficiency and if so conducted and good business management used, many thousands of dollars can be saved annually in the administration of public affairs. At least a fifty thousand dollar reduction can be made yearly.

Believing that the general public is entitled to receive some benefit from the natural resources of the state, and having over three millions of undeveloped water horse-power in our streams, such measures should be adopted that will promote its development for the greatest public good. Accurate information is the foundation for wise legislation and intelligent public control, and to this end I would suggest a demonstration power plant in co-operation with the federal government, on the same plan that experimental farms are conducted in the interest of agriculture.

The laws of the state should be so administered that no discrimination exist; that justice be measured out to rich and poor alike; that labor receive a fair living wage and capital a fair compensation for its investment. The people of Oregon do not and should not object to a "square deal" all around. The construction of roads where possible should be prosecuted during the winter months, and the establishment of industries which operate during the entire year should be encouraged that labor may be employed during the slack season. Would advise legislation along progressive lines and support of all beneficial measures regardless of by whom proposed, whether enacted by direct vote or the legislative assembly, and all laws will be rigidly enforced to the end that good order be maintained and life and property safeguarded, and as far as possible by the civil authorities alone. My duties as attorney general during the last few years have given me intimate knowledge of the needs of the various departments, and if my administration of the duties of that office has been such as to warrant it, a continuation of your confidence will be gratefully appreciated.

The case of the State vs. C. G. Ambrose, charged with non-support, came up for hearing in Justice Masters' court this morning. After hearing the evidence Justice Masters dismissed Ambrose with the understanding that he is to contribute $20 per month toward the support of his six children. Mrs. Ambrose and children are at present living at the home of the former's parents. The trial came near ending in a fist fight encounter, when Mrs. Ambrose's mother attacked Mr. Ambrose and drove him to the wall with a couple of right swings. The encounter was only quieted when Sheriff Quine interfered and persuaded the angered woman to desist. Ambrose was badly frightened, and left the courtroom immediately following the encounter. Sheriff Quine secured a position for Ambrose this morning and will take pains to see that he contributes the amount specified by the court toward the support of his children. Mrs. Ambrose claimed that her husband neglected to provide for her, and that she was repeatedly confronted with poverty. Upon several occasions, Mrs. Ambrose said she was obliged to seek assistance from her mother, Mrs. Bildwin.

REBEL LEADERS

Prepare For Attack on Mexico City.

Federal Troops Flee To Safety of The American Side of the Border When Rebel Army Enters.

(Special to The Evening News.)

PRESIDIO, Tex., Jan. 12.—"We are on our way to Mexico City," said General Villa, the ex-rebel leader whose army captured the last federal protected city in Northern Mexico, Saturday, and drove the remnant of the Huertista forces into and across the Rio Grande to United States soil. The rebels were hardly in possession of the border town of Ojinaga before the leaders were planning for the march southward to attack the Mexican capital. Fifteen hundred men left last night en train for Chihuahua City. There, Villa said, the troops would be given a week's rest, supplied with new outfits and started toward the capital. Villa plans to have a detachment leave through the week until only 300 are left as a permanent force to garrison Ojinaga. Forty-five hundred refugees including the federal troops who met defeat at Ojinaga, now occupy temporary quarters at Concentration Camp here. They were without means of shelter and had no clothing excepting what they wore at the time they fled to the protection of the United States Saturday night and Sunday morning. There is much sickness among them, but no deaths have occurred since they crossed the Rio Grande. United States army pack trains are now rushing supplies for the refugees from Marfa the nearest railway point. All fugitive soldiers will be held as prisoners until the war is over. Governor West Feeds Unemployed at Salem Today.

WORN PROVIDED BY THE GOVERNOR

Forty of the Ninety Men Are Taken to the Various State Institutions and Are Given Work at $1.50 Day.

(Special to The Evening News.)

SALEM, Jan. 12.—Ninety eight unemployed men, who marched from Portland to Salem to demand work of Governor West received the surprise of their lives when the chief executive bought their breakfasts and provided jobs for forty of them. At seven o'clock the governor crossed the street from his residence to the basement of the first Christian church where the army was camped, and routed them out. He sent them to a restaurant for breakfast. When they returned wagons took forty of them to various state institutions where they were put to work clearing the land and doing other work. They will be given $1.50 a day for eight hours. They will be charged $1 a week for board.

Federal Judge Holt, Who Feels He Has Outlived His Salary

HAVING reached the age of seventy years, Federal Judge George G. Holt of the United States district court of southern New York concluded that his salary was not high enough to suit him, and he offered his resignation. He had held the place for ten years, and he considered that the money end of the job wasn't enough to attract him further. Judge Holt will retire and spend the remainder of his days in leisure. As the judge has been drawing a good salary from Uncle Sam for many years and has been reaping lucrative fees as a commissioner in bankruptcy and in his private law practice, it is likely that he will manage to worry along somehow after his voluntary retirement.
