SLUGS HIS WIFE

Unconscious Woman Found In Gutter on Fowler Street.

IS BEATEN BY BRUTAL HUSBAND

Ejected From Her Home and Told to Go-Mrs. Edward Noah is the Unfortunate Woman-May Be Investigated,

Beaten Into unconsciousness and then elected from her home by an irate husband, Mrs. Edward Noah, wife of a local blacksmith, was found lying on the sidewalk on Fowler street, near the corner of Douglas, by pedestrians shortly after seven o'clock this morning. When found, Mrs. Noah was scantily attired and was suffering from exposure.

A son of Owen Osburn, the druggist, was enroute from his home to the store of his father, when he noticed what he thought was the body of a man lying on the sidewalk at a point about 100 feet north of the intersection of Fowler and Douglas streets. Fearing that the form was that of a dead person, Osburn succeeded in attracting the attention of Jack Whitsett, janitor at the court house, who was on his way to work. Together the men went to the scene with a view of investigating the incident. The woman was unconscious, and not until she was half carried to the corner of Douglas street did she revive. After partially regaining her senses she was taken to the court house and later placed in the custody of friends. In telling her story to the officers today, Mrs. Noah said she was attacked by her husband early this morning, beaten into semi unconsciousness and ejected from her home. How she reached the spot where she was later discovered by pedestrians is more than she can tell.

Edward Noah, the man whom his wife accuses of the fiendish assault, was arrested here a few weeks ago on a charge of beating his wife and children. He was given a hearing in the justice court and was placed under bonds to keep the peace.

Now that he has exceeded the limit of decency he should be taken before the grand jury now in session in order that he may explain his actions. Noah is a raw-boned man of
