GEORGE WASHINGTON.

Every land and every era has its great national hero, its leader who at some period of crisis, and for some cause was elevated to the head of affairs and so shaped and adjusted them, that his personality became inalienably associated with his time and his country. The passing years or centuries may have brought others to the front with evanescent glory, but, like the lesser peaks of a mountain range, they sink from sight, with increasing distance, until only an Everest, an Illampu or a Chimboraz can be discerned. Down through the pages of mythology and pagan history where Jupiter and Hercules undisputed reign, memory lingers longer on the names of an Alexander for the then known world, a Caesar for Rome of all time, a Peter for Russia, a Napoleon for France and a Washington for the new world and America. Of all these, Washington will best stand the scrutiny of the ages to come; with but little more than one hundred years behind him, and that century filled with epochs of advance in every phase of human activities, his everlasting fame has not been obscured or overshadowed by any of the brilliant minds or heroic deeds that have made up the history of the world in this intervening space. What loftier panegyric can be written than this from the tongue of one not of his own country? "In the production of Washington it does really appear as if nature was endeavoring to improve upon herself, and that all the virtues of the ancient world were but so many studies preparatory to the patriot of the new. Individual instances, no doubt there were, splendid exemplifications of some single qualification. Caesar was merciful, Scipio was continent, Hannibal was patient; but it was reserved for Washington to blend them all in one, and like the lovely masterpiece of the Grecian artist, to exhibit in one glow of associated beauty the pride of every model and the perfection of every master. As a general he marshalled the peasant into a veteran and supplied by discipline the lack of experience; as a statesman he enlarged the policy of the cabinet into the most comprehensive system of general advantage and such was the wisdom of his views and the philosophy of his counsels, that to the soldier and the statesman he almost added the character of the sage. A conqueror, he was tainted with the crime of blood; a revolutionist, he was free from any stain of treason, for aggression commenced the contest, and his country called him to the command. Liberty unsheathed his sword, necessity stained, victory returned it."

President Wilson is going to have harder work to bring over the members of Congress to his way of thinking on the repeal of the toll exemption act, than he has had with any other proposition as yet. Democratic leaders themselves are not united on the question, and it is not certain that votes, enough can be mustered to repeal the bill.

Reno the home of easy divorce, has been having some other kind of tremors besides the domestic ones. Old Dame Nature took a hand and shook them up a little with a small quake, it may have been a slight admittance.

Winter tourists in Los Angeles have been wishing that they had not forgotten to pack their overshoes and raincoats. From all reports of the rainfall there, cork belts and bathing suits would have been necessary accessories.

Today will probably see the end of the Thaw case, doubtless some of our older readers may remember something about it, as it started a number of years ago.

It is about time to begin asking the question, have you registered yet? If not, get busy, and this applies to the ladies as well.

THREE INDUSTRIAL CLUBS ARE ORGANIZED BY COUNTY SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT

Officers Are Elected—Other Clubs Will Be Organized As Fast As Possible.

Superintendent O. C. Brown visited three schools yesterday, and in each organized industrial school clubs. The first one was in the Cloake district No. 111, Miss Agnes Grinstead, teacher. An active club was formed with the following officers: President, Kenneth Cloake; vice-president, Ardelle Clarke; secretary, Katherine Clarke; treasurer, Mark Wright; advisor, A. Cloake.

The Kruse district No. 71 was next visited, Miss Clara Anderson, teacher. Here a club was organized with officers as follows: President, Eula Davenport; vice-president, Jennie Davenport; secretary, Dewey Kruse; treasurer, Guy Foster; advisor, Geo. Kruse.

The last school visited was the Melrose school, John Kernan, principal. Miss Pintney, assistant. Here quite a number of patrons had assembled to witness the Washington Day program, and to be present at the organization of the club. An excellent and appropriate program was rendered, after which Supt. Brown gave an address on "The New Education".

A club was then organized with the following officers: President, Alfred Anderson; vice-president, Julia Bloomberg; secretary, Lenore Scott; treasurer, Arnor Swanson; advisor, W. A. Imitie.

Much interest was here manifested by the patrons, and it was voted to organize a Parent-Teachers Association to co-operate in making the club a success.

Mrs. Garrison, Wife of War Secretary, Is a Fine Cook.

Mrs. Lindley M. Garrison, the handsome and talented wife of the secretary of war, is, like most of the cabinet ladies, a fine cook.

Among the many elegant wedding gifts presented to Miss Jessie Wilson when she became the bride recently of Francis B. Sayre was a cookery book consisting of recipes contributed by prominent women of the official Washington set.

Mrs. Garrison, whose culinary taste runs to desserts, contributed the following formula for plum pudding, which appears frequently during the year upon the Garrison table:

One pound of stoned raisins, one pound of currants, one-half pound of chopped suet, one pound of sugar, one-quarter pound of almonds chopped fine, one-half pound each of lemon and orange peel, two five cent loaves of stale bread crumbed fine, one nutmeg grated, one-half teaspoonful of anise, two carrots grated fine, two apples chopped fine, four eggs, one-quarter pint of milk, one-half teaspoonful of salt and one cupful of best brandy. Boil seven hours, putting the puddings in small tin pails well greased and fastening lids tight. Set away until wanted; then boil two hours before using. Serve with hard sauce.

Mrs. Garrison, too, takes a keen interest in the affairs connected with her husband's official position as well as in her household and social duties, and she is following with much concern the Mexican situation.

Speaking of this turbulent country, one is reminded of the self sacrifice which has been demanded for the past few months of the American woman in Mexico. If she is not possessed of a goodly income life is a constant struggle against fearful odds, all phases of living having become frightfully expensive. Clothing, which has always been ridiculously high, has become almost prohibitively in price, and with the precarious condition of the postal mail service she cannot hope to receive articles from the United States either by mail or express safely and within a reasonable time, if at all.

In short, the American woman in Mexico, says a traveler who has spent many years in the country, under the existing conditions is not an object of envy.

Smart New Blouses.

There has been no abatement in the vogue for lace and net waists during the past year, and record breaking sales are indicated for the coming season, particularly on the medium and the popular priced numbers, says the Dry Goods Economist.

With sheerness such an important item, many of the new spring models have the sleeves unlined, but the body of the waist shows a tow cut lining both back and front. This leaves the neck and the arms partially uncovered, the tint of the flesh showing through the lace.

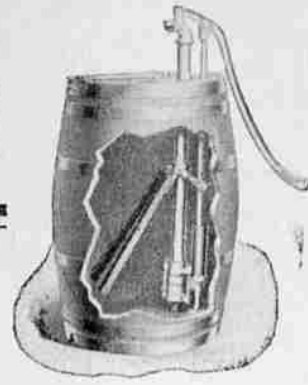

When entire linings are used pale pink chiffon or net is particularly desirable, as this suggests the flesh tint. The tea studies are also becoming popular, especially those that have the fringe of yellow.

The front finish of the neck is changing somewhat from the sharp V outline. It is being widened at the sides and finished in a shallow point in the center.

Frosting Glass.

A frosting that is a very good imitation of machine work may be applied to glass. The process is as follows: Make a saturated solution of boiling water, epsom salts and powdered alum. Put in all the salts and alum the water will dissolve. When it is cold strain through coarse cheesecloth to get rid of sediment. Wash the windows and wipe dry; then apply the solution with a brush or sponge. Several applications may be necessary. Allow each to dry before putting on a second coat.
