County Judge Rice says that the young boy, Wolford Symons, who in last evening's News it was stated was paroled by him was never brought before him. It appears that the railroad detective turned the boy over to his father upon his promise to take him to the reform school which he failed to do.
H. A. Symons, father of the young boy who was arrested yesterday for breaking into a shooting gallery at Cottage Grove, arrived here this morning. Mr. Symons, who at one time was an officer at the reform school in Chehalis, Wash., says he has had considerable experience in dealing with wild boys, but finds his own boy to be too much for him to handle. He says he is willing that the boy be taken to the reform school, as he thinks that is the only thing that can be done. The boy will be brought before Judge Rice late this afternoon and his case disposed of at that time.
