THE BOND ISSUE CARRIED.

Roseburg yesterday placed herself in the very front rank of progressive American cities. The overwhelming avalanche of votes cast in favor of the railroad bond issue is significant not only of the progressive character of our citizens but of their desire to help themselves.

The splendid victory is not attributed to any one man or any group of men. It speaks for the intelligence of the people. The victory belongs to the rank and file of the voters. They were guided solely by their own best judgment and they acted almost unanimously on a proposal which means much to the future welfare of the city itself and its citizens.

The cry of taxes made no impression on our people. All of us who worked and voted for the bonds are ready to pay any additional tax which may be imposed because of our vote. We all believe that the tax will be more than offset through community growth and prosperity. If the voting of the bonds gives employment to just twenty men who are now unemployed, the wages paid to these men will equal the amount of our interest charge on the bonds. The wage money will be spent here and will circulate through all the channels of commercial activity.

With one or two exceptions the opposition to the bond issue came from property owners who have retired from active business and who depend upon rentals from their property to carry them along. To this class of persons the tax argument appealed most strongly, because as they figured it, every additional dollar they paid in taxes was just so many dollars taken away from their rental income. But in this they were in error. A landlord fixes his rent to cover all charges against his property. The tenant pays the bill. The tax argument was a bug-a-boo which failed to attract any attention in this election. It was relegated to the ancient archives from which it originated.

The carrying of the bond issue means a new era for Roseburg. In connection with the railroad and mill work a large auxiliary electric power plant will be built. It will generate power vastly in excess of the amount necessary to handle the Kendall saw mill. What then is the motive prompting the expenditure of this capital for the erection of an auxiliary plant which has a capacity several times as great as is required for the needed power at the saw mill? There is but one answer to this question. Other development work in this valley is contemplated of which we as a city and individuals know nothing.

In another column of this issue of The News will be found the notice of two car loads of machinery having been received here by the Portland Cement Company, an organization which for the past three or four years has been in the grip of internal dissension. A re-organization has been going on for some time and events of the past few weeks indicate that operations are about to be resumed.

The bond issue was the hair in the balance. Roseburg will not be a deserted village. Its business interests will thrive, its industries in contemplation will have large payrolls and its citizens will be contented and happy. What more can any community want?

For those who opposed the bond issue the people have the most kindly feeling. There was no bitterness, no personalities in the campaign. It was a straight-forward, honest campaign on both sides. The bond issue won and the opposition will join hands with the majority and assist in every way to a speedy completion of the road to the timber. Today Roseburg is a united citizenship. Let us continue so!

A CHANGE NEEDED.

It is evident that a change is needed in the naturalization laws of this country, or in the treaties regarding this subject between ours and foreign governments whose subjects take out their papers and become citizens of the United States. It is stated that Italy has issued orders calling all her reserves in foreign countries to the colors, and this call is said to be applicable to all the naturalized Italian citizens in this country under penalty of possible loss of property, or arrest in case a visit to the old home is ever made. If the call is not obeyed. This is not right, and as soon as this war is over steps should be taken that will secure to the naturalized citizen the same immunity from trouble or arrest as possessed by the native born. It is true that the naturalized sons of nearly all the warring nations can be found in the camps or trenches of their former countries, fighting as though they had never forsaken their allegiance, and it is equally as true that one can find native born Americans in some one or other of the armies. These men are as a rule soldiers of fortune, and their enlistment is voluntary, carrying no obligations to their government for protection. It is the mandatory call of a foreign government to the naturalized citizens of another, that needs attention and revision.

FIRST, AS USUAL.

Five minutes after the polls closed last night, The News bulletin board had the total vote of the four wards, and the majority in each for the bond issue. Fifteen minutes later an extra edition of The News was on the streets and several hundred copies distributed gratuitously to the waiting public. The thanks of the people who were so vitally interested in the question amply recompensed for all the extra expense and trouble incurred.

WOULD BE FITTING.

It has been suggested that the citizens of Roseburg celebrate the result of the bond vote, and the actual beginning of work on the new road, by digging the first spade of earth, or driving the first spike, on the Fourth of July. There certainly could be no more fitting combination than that of national patriotism and civic pride. The first spike, on the Fourth of July, would let the surrounding country know that Roseburg was about to do things.

One of our citizens who was opposed to the bond issue made the statement a number of times that if the bonds carried he was going to deed his property to the city immediately rather than to let the city take it away from him inch by inch through increased taxation. Fortunately for that man the records show that all his property stands in his wife's name, or today he might have been forced to fulfill his threat.

Brother Hayner, of the Sutherlin Sun is quick to note anything in The News that he can misconstrue into a slur of his city, and when anything nice is said he clips and credits it to another paper of this city, as for instance, the item relating to the

To those people who are afraid of taxes we recommend a vacation in Curry county ninety miles from Gold Beach where they have no taxes—and nothing else.

Old Man Roseburg and Old Man Prosperity seem to like each other pretty well after all. At least they formed a pretty substantial partnership yesterday.

Everybody pull for a bigger, a better, a more prosperous, a more populous Roseburg. Let factional differences end. They subserve no useful purpose.

 say that "he would be the first one to be suspected of the crime."

A few days later Mr. Beemer and he moved a portion of the burned barn and under this burned lumber they found the foot-print of a man. This track was peculiar in that it had a row of small nails on the inside of a row of larger ones on the outside.

Mabel Barton was the first witness called after the noon recess. A question put to the witness by the prosecutor about what she knew of a letter having been received by Edna from Roy, was objected to by Cardwell. The state contended that Mabel had invited Edna to spend the night with her and that she replied that she would if she did not receive a letter that afternoon from Farnum, but after the arrival of the mail Edna told her that she could not go with her that evening as Roy was coming down. On account of Mr. Cardwell wishing to look up some authorities on the subject raised, Miss Barton was excused and will be recalled at a future time.

C. W. Clark, the next witness, testified to having taken a number of pictures in the vicinity of the old Morgan home and the Beemer barn. Mr. Clark was not cross-examined by the defense.

Verna McGee was the third witness called. Miss McGee was dressed in a white middie waist and white skirt. She was a school mate of Edna Morgan's and testified to having been on intimate terms with her. She stated that the last time she saw Edna was on the evening before the fire near the barn which was afterwards burned. The next morning she, in company with Mrs. Wilson, went to the scene of the fire. After leaving the Beemer place they returned to the Morgan home where a number of ladies had congregated. She stated that Edna belonged to a basket ball team, but that she never entered into the sport very energetically. When the witness was asked if she could notice any difference in Edna's shape she replied that she noticed that her breasts had developed considerably.

Helen Ferbrache, who said she lived five miles and about 5 or 6 tenths from Glendale, was the next witness. It was at her mother's home that Edna stayed for a few nights until her father telephoned for her to return home for fear of a neighborhood scandal.

This witness told of Edna constantly wearing a loose coat in school and of Edna's reluctance in joining her companions in play at school. Cross examination developed the fact that Edna had a severe attack of whooping cough and that she could not exercise without severe pain to herself.

Mr. Morgan Recalled by State.

The first question asked Mr. Morgan upon being recalled, was if "he had ever bought any oil of tanzu," to which he replied that he had not. A bottle of this oil was then shown him and he declared he never saw it. The defense asked him if he ever bought any ethensia and he said he never had.

Mr. Beemer was recalled and asked if any old corsets or other rubbish was in the barn. He said that he had never seen any around the place.

Sheriff Quine was recalled and stated that on the morning of the 19th of December he, in company with Mr. Couterrri and Fred McGregor went to the scene of the crime. He stated they first investigated and followed some horse tracks which lead off from the road up to a small dump of brush.

The sheriff described the print of this hoof as being made by a bare-foot horse and being extremely clean. After measuring the print they went to the Farnum home and had Roy lead the horse out of the barn, and found the prints were identical, with the tracks in the road.

The sheriff described the horse as one weighing 1100 pounds. He said there were two sets of tracks leading from the Farnum home to the Beemer barn. The jurors asked a number of questions relative to the hoof print and one of them stated that it was a very peculiar shaped foot and one easily recognized. The sheriff stated that he secured some black hair from the trees where the horse had been tied. In the Morgan home the sheriff secured a pair of shoes and a bottle of oil of tanzu and some ethensia. The sheriff had showed the bottle of oil to Farnum and he said it contained oil of tanzu and admitted having bought it of Darby at

THE NEWS FIRST AGAIN

The superiority of the service The Evening News gives to the people of this city was demonstrated again last night, for just five minutes after the whistle blew announcing that the bond issue had carried The News Extra was on the street giving a detailed account of the election with complete returns from every ward. The papers went like hot cakes and the edition of five hundred was soon exhausted. If you will read The News from day to day you will follow the events of the world and keep in touch with what is going on at home. Tell your friends about The News.

$5,450 Per Day Spent to Fortify Goodyear Tires

Our experts say: "If Goodyear tires were built like some others, our saving would be $1,635,000 per year—$5,450 per day."

The difference would hardly be visible when the tire is complete. But it would probably cost our users a million dollars monthly.

Better Still

But, instead of skimping Goodyear tires, we are building them better still.

Goodyear Fortified tires, for many years, have embodied five costly features exclusive to these tires. We still employ them all.

We spend on experts $100,000 yearly to find new betterments to add. In the past year alone we have added improvements which cost us exceeding $500,000 per year.

Lower Prices

Yet Goodyear prices are constantly coming down. Our last big reduction—on February 1st—made three in two years, totaling 45%.

In view of those facts, don't you think it worth while to get Goodyears? Most men do. Goodyears have long outsold any other tire. They are selling now much faster than we can build them. Any dealer will supply you.
