ELKS LODGE HAS BIG INCREASE

LOS ANGELES, July 14.—Only two contests developed in the election of officers of the grand lodge of Elks, which held its first business session of the reunion yesterday.

A parade of electrical floats decorated with the colors of the Elks wound up a day of entertainment, which was spent at Santa Monica and other beach resorts.

showed great presence of mind when she started for aid, leaving her step-father crazed with the shock of the fall and grief over the death of his daughter and powerless to aid himself.

Neighbors immediately started for the scene of the accident after phoning for a physician, and upon arriving at the spot found the father lying unconscious at the side of his daughter, seemingly exhausted, after a vain endeavor to revive the girl.

The injured man was taken to the home of his daughter at Canyonville and the body of his daughter was taken to the home at Glendale.

Mr. Hansen is well known in this county, having been engaged in business at Glendale for several years. He has four daughters, two of them being married, one living in Canyonville and one at Los Angeles, and a son who is living at Glendale.

Bessie Hansen was 17 years of age and was well known in this city and in the section in which she lived. She was a beautiful girl, a leader in the younger circles and loved by all who knew her.

The car which was driven by Mr. Hansen was found in a badly wrecked condition, the fenders were bent and torn from the machine.

The road at the scene of the accident makes a sharp turn, a cliff rising on one side while it is almost a straight drop to the creek on the other.

Mr. Hansen was also severely scratched and bruised as was Miss Van Storm. The latter, however,

First Victory in Over Nine Years of Legal Battle.

IS NOT YET SURE OF HIS LIBERTY

Specialist Declares Thaw Had Delusions of Persecution, and is Not a Sufferer of Maniacal Insanity.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Harry K. Thaw, this afternoon, was found to be sane by the jury in the court of Justice Hendricks, which heard the evidence in the trial through which the slayer of White sought permanent release from Matteawan.

Mr. Stanchfield asked: "Has Thaw shown here in court any evidences of paranoia?" Mr. Stanchfield asked.

"I don't think he has," Dr. Flint said. "Only to me he does not act like a sane man."

Dr. Flint went on to explain that he did not think Thaw ever was a "persecuted paranoiac," but declared he had delusions of persecution. In this disease, he added, the delusions change from year to year.

"But there were no indications while he was on the stand in this trial?" Mr. Stanchfield asked.

"No indication that would be evident from what he said," the witness replied.

Paranoia Not Indicated. "If you didn't know his history," Judge Hendrick interrupted to ask, "would you think him a paranoiac from the indications he has given here?"

"No," Dr. Flint answered. According to Dr. Flint, Thaw is not and never was suffering from maniacal depressive insanity. The alienist declared if he had been sent to Matteawan for that, he was incarcerated for an ailment he did not possess. He said he did not consider paranoia curable.

BRITAIN TO FOLLOW LEAD United States Must Be First to Recognize Mexican Government.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Great Britain intends to follow the lead of the United States in the matter of recognizing a government in Mexico. This was explained to Miguel Diaz Lombardo, minister of foreign affairs in the Villa faction, in a conference yesterday with Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador.

The decision to follow the lead of the United States, it is understood, grows out of a desire to avoid such a misunderstanding as occurred when the British government recognized General Huerta.

BUSINESS REVIVES IN BELGIAN TOWN BURNED BY GERMANS

Along the river front at Dinant today; little shops among the ruins.

Business is almost dead, but not quite, in what was once the beautiful little Belgian village of Dinant, burned by the Germans in their onward march last August. These pictures, just received from Belgium, afford some glimpses of the unhappy city as it looks today.

LONDON, July 14.—The first authentic pictures of the little Belgian town of Dinant taken since the Germans burned and occupied the city in their onward march last August have just reached London.

After the Germans had got through bombarding the town and fire and explosion had spent themselves it was found that the streets were choked with the ruins of numberless houses. Dinant could no longer boast of being one of Europe's most beautiful little cities. After many months the streets have been cleared of their debris. Following their occupation the German military authorities called upon the inhabitants to produce brooms, spades and shovels, and organized the inhabitants into bands in order to clear away the destruction that had been wrought.

The bridge across the Meuse river had been restored to traffic, the nave of the church has been re-roofed, and the two towers have been temporarily capped. A few men a greater number of women, children and babies still live among the shattered ruins of their former homes. A walk through the streets recalls alternately memories of Pompeii or Mes-sina, so complete has been the destruction in certain parts, and yet here and there a building will be little damaged amid the surrounding ruin. Great gaping holes and gaunt rows of window spaces let through the brilliant summer sunshine, and between the masses of masonry which still stand a few of the inhabitants have succeeded in erecting little shops or dwellings.
