WARRUINOUS TO COUNTRY LIFE

Englands Famous Country Places Are All For Rent.

OWNERS FIGHTING OR CUTTING EXPENSES

Splendid Opportunity for American Millionaires to Acquire English Country Home at Bargain Price.

By Wilbur S. Forrest.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—(By mail.)—This is the open season for castles, manor houses and mansions in England.

The traditional English country gentleman is quitting. He's hanging out signs which say: "For Sale", or "For Rent".

Country life in England, for which England is famous, is one of the real victims of war. The country gentleman has forsaken the fox hunt, the shooting and fishing, coaching and golf.

Country life in England, for which England is famous, is one of the real victims of war. The country gentleman has forsaken the fox hunt, the shooting and fishing, coaching and golf.

If an American millionaire, out running something in castles or manors, would visit the real estate agents in England today he would find the English castle and manor market overstocked with a still heavier supply of mansions and smaller varieties of aristocratic strongholds.

If this American millionaire doubted that the business of being an English country gentleman is getting unpopular he could motor two hours from London and find a great mansion with 4600 acres that abound in choice hunting and fishing.

ENGLISH COAL SUPPLY IS SHORT

LONDON, Aug. 28.—England's supply of coal for her munition factories and navy is again threatened. The situation in the Welsh coal fields took on a more serious turn when more than 30,000 of the 293,000 miners in Wales walked out.

English Believe Germans Sincere. LONDON, Aug. 28.—The Daily News declared editorially that President Wilson had not only struck a great blow for peace, but that he had won a diplomatic victory of historic importance.

he could return to London, re-enter his motor and spin for an hour to the north of the Metropolis where he would find a magnificent Elizabethan mansion, of 18 bed and dressing rooms, salons, halls, spacious dining and drawing rooms, with its 2800 acres divided into a wilderness of shrubberies and lawns, old cedar avenues, terraced walks and timbered parks, its lodges, stables and garages—for sale at a bargain.

A trip into South Downs, one hour from London, would find a stately mansion of the old Sussex Yeoman style with its adjoining lodges, cottages, timbers, parks covering 500 acres.

Another short jaunt from London would find another great Elizabethan mansion advertised for sale cheap as follows: Twenty bed and dressing rooms, stabling, garages, all other appurtenances with shooting lands of 3,500 acres, a deer park of 200 acres—for sale at a bargain.

These are only a few of the "For Sale," or "For Rent" signs in the British Isles today.

PEACH WEEK IS PROCLAIMED

Governor Urges People to Help The Growers.

EAT AND CAN THEM BY THE BOX

Concerted Movement Launched in Oregon and Washington So the Fruit Will Not Go to Waste.

Governor Withycombe has issued a proclamation setting aside the week of August 30 and September 4 as "peach week". The governor of Washington has done the same and the commercial bodies of the Northwest are joining in a concerted movement to arouse public interest in the observance of the week.

"Buy them by the box! Eat them; can them; pickle them; preserve them; find out just how valuable a fruit the peach is," is the advice that is going to go out broadcast to the people of the Northwest in connection with the movement.

The movement is launched to overcome the most critical situation that the peach growers in the Northwest have ever met. The general peach crop of the United States has been the largest in years, and the eastern markets all through the country are demoralized.

Many Prices Fall Below Cost.

The most the growers are able to get for their product has not exceeded the cost of production at any time, and in a great many cases far below that cost. In large peach sections of Washington the growers face the alternative of either getting the cost of production or losing their entire expenses and labor in raising the fruit.

There has never been a time in the Northwest when the peach crop was of a better quality than this season.

In spite of the lowest prevailing prices for a long time, the amount of peaches consumed has been relatively less this year than in past seasons. No great movement has taken place to can the peaches—there has been little buying by the box, while the consumer has been more satisfied to purchase the fruit in dozen or sack lots and carry home. In this way a much higher price has been paid than if the peaches were bought by the box.

That the proclamation of the governor will meet with hearty co-operation from the people of this county goes without saying, for never before has the crop of the delicious fruit been so plentiful and of so good a quality as it is this year.

FRENCH AIRMEN REPULSE GERMANS

PARIS, Aug. 28.—The French flying squadron guarding Paris, frustrated an attempt by four German military aeroplanes to raid the city today. In a skirmish in mid air, a shot brought down one of the enemy machines. The pilot and observer of the German aeroplane were killed, their charred bodies being found in the wreckage of the machine which was nearly consumed by fire.

The aeroplanes were sighted as they approached the northern limits of Paris, flying high, and the French squadron rose to meet them. The invaders turned back toward the German lines. The French aviators pursued them and overhauled one machine which was lagging behind, destroying it. The French aviators opened fire with rifles and rapid fire guns, and the German aircraft was soon ablaze.

peach trees at all comes the report that the trees are loaded to capacity in spite of the fact that they were thinned to the very limit early in the spring. Again many of the young orchards which have up to the present year been fruitless, are coming into bearing and this adds to the volume of the fruit usually counted upon.

With the elings coming on the thrifty housewife will find plenty to do to keep her busily engaged in the kitchen from early morning and the whole house will be saturated with the pungent odors of allspice, cloves and other spices which enter into the canning process.

APPEAL FILED IN HUNTER CASE

Plaintiffs Not Satisfied With Decision of Skipworth

RALPH DUNNIWAY IS STILL ON THE JOB

Wollenberg Still One of the Plaintiffs in Spite of a Statement He Made Before Last Decision.

A notice of appeal from the decision which Judge Skipworth recently handed down in the case of John Hunter and eight others against the city of Roseburg was filed by Ralph Dunningway in the county clerk's office today.

The notice of appeal is very brief and covers but a trifle over one page of double-spaced typewritten matter. It merely states that an appeal from the recent decision is taken from each any every part of the decree.

This means that the case will not come up for hearing in the state's highest tribunal until some time in October, as the court has reserved for the summer months, but as it is a matter which affects the welfare of a municipality it will be given an early hearing after the convening of the court.

Pending the settlement of the matter in the courts the work of securing the right of way and mill site will be pushed as rapidly as possible by those who have this matter in hand, so that when the supreme court finally passes upon the question of an injunction which the plaintiffs are trying to secure, they will be able to commence work at once.

The history of the case is so fresh in the minds of all of the citizens of the city and county that a repetition of the facts are unnecessary. Those who have charge for the city have expressed themselves that they have no fear of the ultimate outcome of the affair as the case has been decided upon the merits of the questions involved in each instance and careful consideration given to the legal technicalities by the court at all times and the best that the plaintiffs can hope for is to delay the proceedings of the bond issue and sale until late in the fall.

Some time before the decision of the supreme court The News carried an item to the effect that in case the decision of the lower court was affirmed by the supreme court, Hyman Wollenberg would withdraw his support from the suit and would do everything within his power to hasten the work which had been undertaken and which was voted so decisively by the people of this city.

Reffron, bishop of the Winona diocese, who was shot twice yesterday by a half-crazed priest, declared that the bishop had a fair chance to recover. A bulletin issued by the doctors said the patient was resting easily, but that the outcome of his injuries would be in doubt for several days.

Bishop Heffron was in the midst of the celebration of mass in the private chapel of St. Mary's college when L. M. Leches, a priest, entered. In the half lighted church the intruder was able to creep forward to the side of the bishop and fire one shot from a small-calibre revolver before his presence was noted.

BELIEVED THAT EAGLE CARRIED OFF LOST CHILD

SEATTLE, Aug. 28.—After a search of two days for the 18-month-old Florence Kelly, who mysteriously disappeared on Thursday while playing on the beach at Fauntleroy park almost under the mother's eyes, the police are inclined to believe that she has been carried off to the mountains by an eagle. Frank Dulcett, of the police department says he saw eagles flying around near the place where the baby disappeared for the past few days. It is known that there are thousands of eagles in the Cascade and Olympic mountains, and that they make frequent flights to Puget Sound.
