STRUGGLE FOR VILNA STILL ON

Germans Make Terrific Attack
East of the City.

TEUTONS SUCCESSES OFFSET BY DEFEATS

Von Hindenburg Hurls Nearly Half Million Men Against The City—Heavy Artillery
Freely Used.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 18.—A terrific battle for the possession of Vilna has begun, and the Germans are making a smashing attack to the east of the city. Several Teutonic detachments have pushed their way to the Novovilesk-Molodechno railway, and are now attempting to pierce the Russian lines. The official statement today emphasized that the struggle around Vilna is the greatest on the present front stretching from the Baltic to Galicia.
The German successes in the Vilna region have been offset by severe defeats in the southeast. At some points the Austro-Germans are fleeing in disorder before the Russian offensive.

Hindenburg Must Capture Vilna.
PETROGRAD, Sept. 18.—Von Hindenburg is hurling four hundred thousand men, supported by heavy artillery, against the Slavs in his attempt to capture Vilna, Dvinsk and Riga. It is officially admitted today that these assaults have forced a retirement in this region and about Pinsk, but it is stated that elsewhere the Germans are defeated.
Eleven hundred prisoners were taken on Wednesday. From Berlin comes the statement that continuing his forward progress, von Hindenburg today captured Widay, south of Dvinsk.

GERMAN SPIES
INFEST ENGLAND

Scotland Yard Constantly on Lookout For Them.

CAPTURE EFFECTED BY CLEVER METHODS

American Passports Are Carried by Teutons in Order to Obtain British Military
Secrets.

By Wilbur S. Forrest, (United Press Staff Correspondent.)
LONDON, Sept. 6.—(By mail.)— The admittedly thorough and efficient German spy system is up against a most thorough and efficient stamp in England.

One of the unhealthiest obstacles for agents of the enemy's intelligence department is the anti-spy section of Scotland Yard.

Official reports, just issued, show that ten alleged spies of various nationalities, all of whom were declared to be working for Germany, were hanged before any one of them had been in England three weeks. Four readily confessed.

This list, however, represents but a fractional part of the most recent fruits of the British dragnet. On two occasions, it is unofficially declared, the authorities in London cleverly maneuvered to round up dozens of spies who had been operating in London in the guise of British army officers. The method was as simple as it was effective.
The war office is said to have informed all army officers in the metropolitan area to refrain on a certain day of recent date from traveling on any trains of the great system of underground railways of the metropolis. The order was strictly obeyed. Every officers' uniform that boarded an underground train that day contained a spy. The spy bag was full that night.

Several days later, the war office is said to have repeated its warning, this time instructing officers to keep off of the motorbuses that travel by hundreds on London's busiest streets. The result was similar. The spy bag was filled again.

But this is only one of the many methods through which spies are caught in England. Another is chemistry.

It was chemistry that told the British authorities that what appears to be an American passport is not always the real article. A government chemist informed the authorities that the great and powerful red seal of the American state department had been forged by the enemy: that the secretary of state's signature had been photographed from a genuine American passport in Germany and applied to a spurious document carried later by a spy in England. It was the chemist's proof, linked with other features that followed, that caused the spy to confess that he was furnishing the forgery to obtain military secrets in England.

This forgery is today in the hands of the British authorities for comparison with other suspicious looking documents bearing the seal of the United States.

Americans traveling through England to or from continental countries will henceforth be subjected to the most thorough examination and surveillance by the British authorities.

American passports in England, in future, if there is the least doubt of their validity, must bear the test of the government chemists.

"Americans must not feel ill toward the British authorities if necessary precautions are taken to prevent the use of spurious American passports in this country," said a high official of the war office to the United Press. "They must realize that Germany is not above forging the official seal of the American state department and has, perhaps, forged scores of these documents in an attempt to safe-conduct their spies into England and other belligerent countries. Every American citizen entering England in the future must come with a clean bill of health easily proven and above all, with a passport that will defy the analysis of our chemists."

Scotland Yard is assisted in "spy slighting" by all branches of the government and even by the boy scouts and girl scouts.

A striking case of spy detection originated in the general post office where a girl censor had a premonition that a certain letter she was reading was "not just right".

She handed it over for inspection. A chemical test brought to light writing between the lines of the apparently harmless letter and the trap was set for the spy. He fell into it a few days later. He was tried and convicted and was executed in London Tower.

A loyal Britisher and his wife from northern Yorkshire decided to spend a week-end at Torquay, a little watering place near Plymouth on the British south coast. They were "caught" by a boy scout taking a few harmless snapshots of the waterfront. The scout reported the incident to the authorities. The Yorkshireman and his wife were immediately arrested. They proved their innocence of spying, without a doubt, but they paid $250 fine as a warning to "amateur photographers".

The girl scouts serve in the same capacity as the boys. They are helping to make England an unhealthy place for spies.
