GLENDALE NEWS

The Easter entertainment at Olive church, drew a large congregation. The Easter cantata, "Death and Life," was well rendered and other numbers on the program elicited special commendation. The choir of the Presbyterian church and the young people of the city had charge of the exercises, and our young people certainly have talent that under direction can produce splendid results.

Mr. and Mrs. Fara Harris, of Holmans valley, were city visitors on Saturday.

A. V. Trump, a Portland business man, spent Sunday in this city.

Mrs. Cutsforth, of Riddle, is visiting at the home of her son and family in this city.

Chas. Cook and wife, of Wolf creek, were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. McNicholas, in Glendale.

Capt. T. F. McGinnis returned from an extended business trip to Portland last week. We regret to hear that Mr. and Mrs. McGinnis will leave this city after the school closes and will make their home in a northern city. They, with their interesting family, will be missed in this community, where they have many friends who sincerely regret their going.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stafford, of Eugene, who have been visiting at the Pollock farm, returned to Eugene on Tuesday.

Frank Maxwell has resigned his position as section foreman and will leave for Portland soon. Mr. Maxwell has a host of friends who regret his going.

Work on the Pacific highway from the Cow creek bridge to Stage Gulch pass, will commence in two weeks. The right of way is being secured for the same.

Rev. Dr. J. W. Knott, and R. M. Eberle, of this city attended the Presbytery of Southern Oregon, which was held at Medford last week.

Sam W. Starmer, candidate for the nomination for sheriff on the Republican ticket spent two days in this valley last week. Mr. Starmer went out to Galesville, on the Cow creek road Saturday and returned to Roseburg Sunday evening.

James Thomas, the Anchor, postmaster, was in Glendale Friday. He reports a rush of farm work on account of the delay caused by inclement weather.

Mrs. E. E. Wall and two daughters, who have spent the winter with relatives in this city, left for their home at Medford on Saturday. Later on she will go to Kennet, Calif., where her husband is superintendent of a large mine.

Jacob Cline, one of our leading citizens, is just recovering from a two weeks' illness. We are pleased to note his recovery.

Mrs. A. T. Reynolds, of Portland, was the guest of her sister, Mrs. F. C. Ladd last week.

Miss Alva Wilson returned to Eugene on Sunday to resume her studies at the university.

SARAH FLOWER, born at Great Harlow, England, in 1805, married William Bridges Adams, a civil engineer, in 1834, and for his sake gave up the dramatic ambitions and career to which she had looked forward.

"Nearer My God to Thee" was written by her in 1840, and first published by the Rev. William J. Fox, at London, in a Hymnal for his Church.

Later, the air to which it is now sung was adapted to it by Lowell Mason from one of Sir John Andrew Stevenson's "Irish Melodies." It will be remembered that President McKinley, just before his last farewell, said, "It is God's way. His will be done, not ours," and whispered, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and on the Sunday following, in many churches (as on Thursday at the funeral services) this great hymn was sung by thousands, not only in Protestant churches but by Catholic cathedrals, and notably at a Memorial Service ordered by King Edward VII, in Westminster Abbey.
