SCHOOL PARADE MAKES GREAT SHOWING

No Trouble or Work Spared By Teachers or Pupils.

BOY SCOUTS APPEAR IN NEW UNIFORMS

Parade of School Children is One of the Most Attractive Features of the Three Days of Carnival.

The pleasant weather this morning was the finishing touch which was all that was needed to make the school parade one of the most successful features of the carnival. Although no prizes were offered, no efforts were spared by teachers and pupils to make their parade as effective as possible, and the different schools drew much applause in passing. They formed in line opposite the station, marching toward Cass, east on Cass, and on Jackson to Douglas where they disbanded at the courthouse.

Prof. F. B. Hamlin, as chairman of the parade, had charge of the placing of the schools and all minor details, and the parade started soon after ten o'clock. Mr. C. W. Parrott, Grand Marshal for the parade, led on horseback, setting the pace. Immediately following was the Roseburg Concert band, playing march music. Next in order came the Queen's float in which were Queen Jessie, her maids and pages, the decorated auto in which the king was seated, and the float for the children's queen. The little queen, Miss Verus Houser, did not participate in the parade today on account of the sudden death of her grandfather, Mr. R. G. Houser, yesterday. Her throne was occupied by Miss Maurine Buchanan. Following this float were the 3 grade schools, Benson, Fullerton and Rose, with the High School bringing up the rear in a long serpentine. Miss Mary Aitken's primary pupils led the Benson school, the little tots marching in fours, each row carrying the Odd Fellows emblem, the three links, in red white and blue. At a signal the band stopped and the children raised their symbols which brought applause from the onlookers. The remaining grades of the Benson school were uniform in carrying flags and wreaths. A pretty effect was secured at a given signal by a halt, when the flags were crossed and the wreaths raised on high. The teachers of the various grades walked beside their pupils.

The boy scouts followed, accompanied by their scout master, R. S. J. Hamilton, all in uniform. Then came the Roseburg Juvenile band, led by Bandmaster Wright, also in uniform, and rendered very splendid march music. The two bands were necessary, for the line of march was too long for all to hear the music of the foremost band.

The Fullerton school was headed by a bevy of girls dressed in red frocks and carrying a banner in the Fullerton colors, red and white. Following were the other grades distinguished by caps in patriotic colors and pure white.

The formation of the marchers when seen from above spelled out the word Fullerton very clearly, the letters alternating in red and white.

The Rose school carried out their name by appearing in the march with a bewildering mass of fluttering tissue paper roses, entirely carried out in pink. A group of boys dressed in white, led this school. They carried a banner bearing the inscription "Rose" worked out in pink roses on a white background. Long streamers of roses suspended from this and were held by the white clad youths. The remaining grades of the school marched in order, beginning with the primary pupils of Miss Parrott. Several May pole effects were noticeable for their loveliness, the others marching in twos, connected

WHO IS THE KING OF THE CARNIVAL?

The News makes the following prediction upon the identity of King Fragaria: That he is in the clothing and furnishing business in this city. That he is a member of the Trotters Club and an enthusiastic dancer. That his name is A. A. Wilder. Are we right? Will tell you tomorrow.

by strings of the pink roses upheld on the poles which all carried. This was the most elaborate feature of the parade, and, as the children, almost without exception were dressed in white from head to toe, the effect was very pretty.

The high school turned out in splendid force for their serpentine march through the streets as a grand finale to the parade, and the faculty proved true to their colors, bringing up the rear. Cries of "pickers" were heard from the marchers as they espied an occasional student among the onlookers, for all had been expected to join for the glory of the school.

This parade never fails to excite a great deal of interest, for there is scarcely a citizen who is not interested in some child in the schools.

ILLNESS OF EMPIRE BUILDER NECESSITATES CONSULTATION

MANTAKESLIFE OF WIFE AND DAUGHTER

Kills Himself Before Arrival Of the Police.

DOMESTIC LIFE WAS APPARENTLY HAPPY

Friends and Neighbors Can Give No Other Reason For The Act Than Temporary Insanity.

SALEM, Oregon, May 26.—W. L. Patterson, a prominent cigar dealer of this city killed his wife and daughter early this morning, after which he shot himself through the temple.

According to the story of neighbors who live near by the Patterson home, three shots were heard before the final shot with which Patterson killed himself.

After the first two shots Patterson was seen on a sleeping porch fondling his daughter, Helen, aged eight years. Shortly after this the third shot was heard.

Patterson was then seen in the rear of the yard fully dressed feeding the chickens. After finishing this task he returned to the house and undressed and shot himself in the right temple just before the city police arrived at the home.

Relatives of the family are positive that Patterson must have gone suddenly insane as they were seen together last evening, and to all appearances were happy. Patterson is said to have worried greatly over financial affairs, and this perhaps was responsible for his condition.

Ideal Weather Conditions Makes Second Day of Carnival Enjoyable for Crowd of Out-of-Town Visitors.

The record crowd which thronged the streets of the city today began to gather from the surrounding country early in the day. Every road leading into the city was filled with automobiles and other conveyances, filled with people bound for Roseburg and the Strawberry carnival.

The clouds which obscured the sun early this morning soon were dispersed, and shortly after 11 o'clock Old Sol smiled genially upon the city and its happy crowds.

Every neighboring town within a radius of many miles had sent representatives to the county seat of Douglas county and many took this occasion to renew acquaintanceships made at this time last year.

At nine o'clock this morning the Juvenile band started the festivities of the day by a band concert at the display building on the depot grounds. The boys have been giving splendid music and have made wonderful advancement under the leadership of Prof. Wright, and the citizens of the city can well be proud of the organization. At ten o'clock the school children's parade started.

The judging of the strawberry exhibits also took place at ten o'clock this morning. While the weather has not been at all favorable for the development of berries during the past few weeks, the carnival committee by hard work managed to have a splendid display of the luscious fruit and it was very evident from the number and character of displays seen that the growers made every effort to carry away the prizes offered by the carnival committee. The prizes were awarded to the following exhibitors:

The award of prizes was made this morning by W. S. Brown, of the extension department of horticulture of the Oregon Agricultural college. The first prize on the half crate of berries was won by Wm. Pemberton, the second prize by J. C. Claypool, and the third by Wm. Austin.

For the single box entry J. C. Claypool won first honors, C. M. Anderson, of Melrose, second, and Wm. Pemberton third.

On the artistic displays the first prize was won by W. A. Sussmlich, of Wilbur. Mr. Sussmlich is an artist of exceptional ability and seeing the lack of an emblem for the strawberry carnival, formed a design in which three letters, R. S. C. are entwined in a beautiful manner. He submitted the plan to the committee, and it will undoubtedly be officially adopted. The exhibit which he submitted consisted of this design worked out in strawberries. The "R" in green berries, the "S" in ripe red berries and the "C" in white blossoms. The monogram was centered on a background of moss surrounded by strawberry plants.

The second prize was given to Wm. Austin who had constructed a balance scale of the luscious berries and in one of the pans had placed a handful of berries while in the other which was overbalanced was a mortgage, the piece was entitled "the mortgage lifter". His son, Merl Austin, took third prize with an anchor constructed entirely of strawberries.

The members of the committee have purchased several boxes of berries and are giving out numbers of them to each visitor.

There was scarcely a moment during the entire day when the strains of stirring music could not be heard floating in the air and this did much to keep the crowd in a splendid humor. At 1:15 the Roseburg Concert band gave a splendid concert at the depot grounds and were kept there until after the arrival of the train from the south which brought a large delegation of citizens from Riddle, Myrtle Creek and Glendale.

Splendid Balloon Ascension.

The weather was ideal for the aft.

GRAND LODGE AT EUGENE NEXT YEAR

Promise to Return to Roseburg as Soon as Possible.

RESOLUTION OF THANKS ARE ADOPTED

Banquet and Reunion of Past Grand Officers is held at Umpqua Hotel and Social Hour Greatly Enjoyed.

With the closing sessions of the Grand Lodge and the Robekah Assembly, the sixty-first annual session of the Grand Lodge of Oregon I. O. O. F. was adjourned until the third Tuesday of May, 1917. According to officers who have been in the Oregon Grand Lodge for the past twenty or thirty years, the 1916 convention at Roseburg has proven the best within their recollection. The number in attendance, the great enthusiasm manifest on every hand, the fellowship and friendliness of the strangers who mingled together as brothers and sisters, and the hospitality of the residents of Roseburg, together with the splendid entertainment furnished, have all combined to make it an event which will linger in the minds of not only the members of the lodge itself, but it will be held in memory by the people of Roseburg for years to come as one of the greatest of gatherings of its kind that they have ever known.

Among the concluding business of the Grand lodge session was the selection of the place of next meeting. Eugene was the city selected for the meeting next year, the delegation from that city having extended a hearty invitation to the sixty-second session.

The committee on resolutions returned the following report which was unanimously adopted:

We, your committee on thanks, beg

KENDALL DELAYED.

Mr. C. L. Seelman last night received a message from Mr. S. A. Kendall to the effect that the illness of his wife would prevent his starting for Roseburg as soon as he had hoped, but that he would be here not later than the last of next week.

leave to submit the following report:

Resolved, That the thanks of the Grand Lodge be and are hereby tendered to the Order of Odd Fellows of Roseburg, the Commercial club, and citizens of Roseburg, who contributed to the comfort and pleasure of the members of the Grand Lodge of Oregon, with their liberal supply of beautiful roses and delicious strawberries, while in attendance at this, our 61st annual session.

Resolved, that it has been a source of great pleasure to this Grand Lodge that we have been honored during all the sessions with the presence of Brother Geo. E. Kellough, P. G. M. and Grand Representative of Washington, and extend to him an earnest invitation to visit us again.

Resolved, that we feel a deep appreciation of the liberal and favorable press mention given us by the press of Roseburg and Oregon.

Respectfully submitted,
W. C. TWEEDEALE,
HANSON HUGHES,
BYRON E. MILLER,
G. A. POGUE,
D. J. KIRK,

Committee.

In the evening the reunion and banquet of Past Grand Masters, Past Grand Patriarchs and Past Grand Representatives was held at the Umpqua hotel. The long tables of the spacious dining room were filled by the lodge men who indulged in the delicious repast served by the management. During the meal the local I. O. O. F. orchestra furnished music and also rendered several selections later in the evening. Many humorous stories were told of happenings in former conventions or occurrences of which they had heard. The social hour was enjoyed until seven thirty when all went to view the Musevite parade in which a number of Odd Fellows were captured and taken to the I. O. O. F. temple where the degree was conferred upon them.

At 8 o'clock the Sutherland lodge conferred the initiatory degree at the Armory. The work was especially well done and greatly enjoyed.

The delegates and visitors have expressed themselves as well pleased with the convention here and are determined to return as soon as possible. Many of the Grand Lodge officers promised that they would vote for a return to Roseburg at the earliest opportunity and in the meantime they would pull for Roseburg whenever they were afforded the chance. Although many of them had to leave on account of expired leave of absence, the greater part of them will remain for the carnival.

MEXICAN OUTLAW CHIEF KILLED

NAMIQUIPA, May 26.—(via wireless.)—American troops today killed Candelario Cervantes, the outlaw chieftain, south of Las Cruces.

Cervantes was the leader of the bandits who terrorized that section for months. He was killed when he attempted to rush a party of engineers who were repairing the road six miles south of Las Cruces. It is estimated that 20 bandits attacked the party. Three Americans were wounded, one dying shortly afterwards. The news of the assault was flashed to the garrison at Las Cruces, and two cavalry detachments galloped in pursuit. The engineers returned the fire of the bandits, and they fled in disorder toward Wacoa. The detachment under Captain Cashmar overtook them, killing two and wounding many. The mayor of Las Cruces identified the body of Cervantes. George Hulitt of the seventh infantry killed both Mexicans and was wounded himself. It is believed that Cervantes encountered the engineers unexpectedly.
