No. 12—Summer Drinks

Continuing my last article on seasonal refreshments, I will devote to day's department to some of my most popular buffet offerings in the way of Summer drinks—summer alcoholic and summer non-alcoholic.

Pallas Punch

Soon after I became afflicted with Pallas Pictures I tried this punch on Gus, my German gardener and he proclaimed it a wonder. As a little celebration in honor of my new engagement at my bungalow, I served the punch for the first time and named it Pallas Punch, after the brand of motion pictures in which I would appear in the future. The formula is quite simple. One cup of strong tea is poured into a bowl containing several large cubes of ice. Add half of two lemons, one-fourth wine glass of raspberry syrup, one teaspoonful of sugar, one-half wine glass of brandy, one-half of orange, one pour of a good rum and one quart of lemonade. A quart or more of these water may be added to suit the taste.

Pallas Pie

Named after the popular Danish farthing and introduced by the title of a real Danish book, this exciting glass half full of ice. Add one teaspoon of sugar, one of salt lemon, one whole egg of the white of an egg, two tablespoons of milk and a dash of lime juice. Shake well, strain into tall glass and dilute with table water to taste.

Monty's Neck

This is a liquorless offering, "Monty" is the name of Dustin Farnum's horse, and while some might call this drink a Horse's Neck, I insist upon calling it "Monty's Neck" after that beautiful animal actor. A whole lemon is peeled in one long string and placed in a large glass so that one end hangs over the edge. Two cubes of ice and a dash of raspberry are added, the glass is filled up with water and a stirrer well. A simple little drink, but very refreshing.

Hot Peppermint

Use a large glass half full of ice. Add one teaspoon of sugar, one teaspoonful of acid, one whole egg and one whole egg. Put glass with table water and shake well.

Pineapple Julep

Take one quart Sparkling Mountain water in a small punch bowl. One-fourth wine glass of each, raspberry syrup, maraschino, Bee-Keeper Gin, orange bitters. Add four oranges sliced, two lemons sliced, one ripe pineapple sliced and quartered. Four tablespoonfuls sugar, one quart table water. Place a large square of ice in bowl. Dress with fruits and serve in stem glasses.

THIRD YEAR OF WAR BEGINS TODAY

Details of Coming Peace Must Be Worked Out.

QUESTION OF FINANCES IS IMPORTANT

If Russians Are Able to Reach Harvest Fields of Austria Germany May Be Starved Out.

By J. W. T. Mason.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The warring nations of Europe are at their last stand, as they enter today upon the third year of the conflict.

Two years of prodigal expenditures of enormous losses and indecisive victories and defeats have led up to the final phase of the great struggle which discloses neither side able as yet to dictate terms to the other. The allies and the central empires have not even decided among themselves as to the details of their own terms. This must be the principal work of their statesmen during the third year of the war. The two years of conflict have demonstrated that in a war as complex as is the European struggle, other forces beside those controlled by the military play an increasingly important part in the final outcome. The present war map, showing the German lines extending far into enemy countries, and showing also the loss of Germany's colonial empire, is but one element that must enter into any discussion of peace. Lines on either side may hold, but once the enemy establishes a definite superiority in man-killing power, this fact will have a new bearing on peace negotiations.

Three other influences are at work in the final phase of the war: financial, economic and food. Financially, Europe at large is approaching a limit of impossible taxation after the war, to pay the interest on the money now being so readily borrowed under the influence of patriotic fervor. Belligerent statesmen are entering upon the third year of the war with serious financial misgivings that will probably stimulate interest in peace as new borrowings of billions become necessary. It is practically certain that in some of the warring nations, thinly disguised socialistic seizures of property will have to be made, to pay the war bills, even if the war doesn't last a day longer. If peace continues to be evasive far into the third year of the war, there will be few countries that in the end will be able to avoid widespread confiscation. Economically, the two years of warfare have not been disastrous for any of the principal belligerents. Workmen's wages, in general, have risen higher than the increased cost of living. The dispatch of so many millions of men to the front and the use of so many millions more in munitions' factories, have caused a scarcity of ordinary labor throughout Europe.

The central empires, however, will feel a serious economic strain when the war is over, because their supply of raw materials is rapidly becoming exhausted. The allies have been able to import raw materials continuously during the war while Germany and Austria-Hungary have had to live on their reserves. How to purchase raw materials from abroad in sufficient quantities to provide for the millions of Teuton soldiers returning to workshops and factories after peace is declared, will present a serious problem for Berlin and Vienna to solve.

For two years, the supply of food in Teutonic countries has been constantly dropping. The enforcement of a low dietary scale upon the Germans has undoubtedly had some depressing effects, but there is as yet no evidence that actual starvation of the mass of the people is imminent. If the Russian armies, however, can reach the grain fields and cattle pastures of Hungary and Galicia before the August harvesting is over, the Teutons may yet be starved into surrender. But as the third year of the war begins, it seems as if the Russian offensive started too late to accomplish this objective.

Referring to the passage of anti-trespassing laws in this country, Commissioner Gordon adds, "I believe the day will come when it will be done and those of us who are compelled to think of those things should do all we can to hasten its coming."

ISLANDERS WOULD WELCOME TRANSFER OF DANISH WEST INDIES

This photo shows the principal street, type of buildings, natives and countryside of the principal town of the little group of islands in the West Indies. The majority of the islanders are said to favor annexation to the United States, believing that Uncle Sam would bring greater prosperity to the islands.

BRIDGE WILL BE PAVED SOON

That the work of paving the Deer creek bridge on Jackson street would begin within a short time was stated today upon good authority. The bridge has been filled in under the north approach with earth taken from the several excavations going on within the city and is now in readiness to receive the hard surfacing. An Albany company will figure on the job and it is expected that they will be given the contract.

The bridge will be refloored before the asphalt is put in place as the old floor is rough and in poor condition. The asphalt will be placed about two inches thick over the wooden base and will be rolled as smooth as possible to eliminate vibration. The work will be hurried as much as possible as while it is being done traffic must be suspended and all vehicles will be required to go out Douglas street to the wagon bridge near the fair grounds and then turn back to town by the way of Second avenue south.

RARE DEATHS ARE DUE TO VICTIMS' CARELESSNESS

That carelessness on the part of drivers and pedestrians is primarily responsible for the alarming increase in fatalities at railroad crossings, is the gist of an address by Alex. Gordon, of the California state railroad commission, made recently before the convention of the boards of supervisors of California.

With reference to trespassing, he says:

"In 1914, 5,396 persons were killed in the United States and 6,176 were injured while trespassing on railroads and these figures are about the same as those reported for the previous years. During that same year there were 165 trespassers killed and 217 injured in California. In the last 25 years there have been over 212,000 people killed in the United States in railroad accidents, and of this vast number, over 122,000 were trespassers. This record would be bad enough if those who suffered were tramps and 'hobos,' but when we find that 75,000 of the total killed were citizens of the locality in which the accident occurred, and 13,000 were children under 15 years of age, we must admit it to be absolutely disgraceful.

"The grade crossing problem is one which is met with, more or less, in all countries, but trespass accidents occur only in the United States. In Europe the property of the railroads is no more used for public thoroughfares than are privately owned ranches and farms in this country, and even Canada, with more excuse than the United States for permitting trespassing in and around railroad tracks, has rigid, anti-trespassing laws which are Shower baths are few and far between in dry and dusty Mexico, but the boys with Pershing in that country are not to be stumped by the absence of running water. At one camp they have constructed a bath house of tree limbs covered with leaves and herbage, a pipe has been sunk into the ground and a pump fitted on top. One soldier pumps water up into the barrel while his tent mate stands under the improvised shower and enjoys the "Niagara."
