

SUPPLIES ARRIVING AT AMERICAN CAMP IN MEXICO

This picture was taken at the American camp at Colonia Dublin, Mexico, on the arrival of a Mexican train from the border. The supplies are distributed from here to the smaller camps.

JUDGE WOULD BE GOVERNOR

DENVER, Aug. 8.—The democratic state assembly met here today to nominate presidential electors and a state ticket, Julius C. Gunter, former justice of the Colorado supreme court, was practically unopposed for the nomination for governor. Six adherents of Woodrow Wilson will be named as presidential electors.

By obtaining a ten per cent vote in today's assembly candidates are "designated" for places on the ballot at the state primary September 12, when the real fight is staged. The various candidates named by the different parties will be finally voted on in the general election of November 7.

Delegates for today's assembly were elected July 29 in the county assemblies. Mass primaries July 22 elected the delegates to the county conventions.

Candidates for congress are to be nominated in the congressional assembly which will meet immediately following adjournment of the state convention.

A WAIST FOR EVERY FIGURE

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—"A waist for every figure."

That's the order tacked up in the factory of every waist manufacturer in Chicago, they admitted today. The makers showed the result of the order at this week's fall style show of the Chicago Garment Manufacturers' Association, at Bismarck gardens.

And of course there a figure (2) for every waist, too; and quite high they are in some cases. The "two-in-one" collar stands out most prominently in the making of waists "for every figure".

The new collar is one that turns up or down, sometimes called the "hip" and "low collar."

"It's turned down for the young women and up for the woman who isn't young," waist manufacturers explained to their buyers today.

Sleeves for fall waists are made full with a plain, military, attached cuff.

Georgette crepe and crepe de chine are the prevailing materials. White, flesh, navy blue, black, tan, brown, and a few greys will be the colors worn.

FIRST PLAY FROM GREAT STUDIO

"The Raiders," the Triangle-Kay Bee feature in which H. B. Warner is starred, is the first production offered on the Triangle program which is shown at the Antlers tonight, may be said to be the product of the new quarter-million dollar studio of the New York Motion Picture Corporation. All the scenes made in the principal interiors required in the drama were staged at the new plant which is located at Culver City, a few miles from Los Angeles.

Among the scenes in "The Raiders" are a number made in a stage setting that is an exact reproduction of the New York Stock Exchange. In making the scenes more than five hundred people were used at one time, selected from more than two thousand who applied for the work. So thoroughly did the mob enter into the spirit of the panic scene that several men were knocked down.

"The Raiders" affords an unusual opportunity for George Ellwell, who is a product of Producer Ince's supervision. He plays the part of the "fresh" office boy in the Wall street drama and shows much promise as an actor of juvenile parts.

VOTE REACHES 100,000

Four hundred thousand employees of 250 railways voted upon the question of calling a strike to enforce their demands. Representatives of the Railway Trainmen's brotherhood met representatives of the railways this morning at the headquarters of the Engineering society where the result of the vote was announced. The conference adjourned until tomorrow when negotiations to avoid the strike will be resumed.

RETURN FROM TRIP TO COAST

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Moore returned this morning from a trip to Portland, Rockaway and Salt Air beaches. They attended a claim meeting in Portland and then went for a short vacation to the well known Tillamook beaches. While there they met several Roseburg people including James Clough and family, the three Allison brothers and their families, and Carl Shoemaker. They report that Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Heister, who were employed here at the Palace theatre here for several months, are now at the theatre in Tillamook.

WHISTLE CAUSES SPECULATION

A prolonged whistling from the roundhouse at six o'clock last evening caused a great deal of speculation and some excitement on the streets last evening. It was thought by many that the long blast was the signal for the calling out of the much expected strike and this rumor quickly spread throughout the city within a short time. Upon inquiry, however, it developed that in blowing the whistle for quitting time in the evening, the apparatus became caught in such a way that it could not be released and it was several minutes before the steam could be shut off and the adjustment made.

MAY NATIONALIZE RAILROAD

WINNIPEG, May, Aug. 8.—Investigation of Western Canada's railroads, with a view of possibly nationalizing transcontinental lines, at least so far as the handling of mail is concerned, was started here today. Alfred H. Smith, president of the New York Central line, Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the Canadian board of railroad commissioners, and Sir George Paish, well known British statistician, formed the commission of investigation.

AMERICANS PREFORM WONDERS IN RUSSIA

Hospitals Equipped With Every Modern Device Many Lives Saved.

ROYAL DECORATIONS GIVEN

Contagious Diseases Which at First Flourished Are Now Practically Stamped Out.

PETROGRAD, July 9.—(By mail.)—The Stars and Stripes today flap in breezes wafted across fields in the United States as the land of the Holy Bible. The flag flies free over the door of an American hospital where pretty American girls and able American doctors care for Russian sick and wounded. The hospital is at Khoy, 45 miles south of Julfa on the frontier between Russia and Persia. To the northwest of Khoy the icy dome of Mount Ararat stands lined against the skyline, 17,000 feet high, or nearly 2,000 feet higher than Mount Blanc. Here Noah's ark is supposed to have rested after the flood.

To the southwest of Khoy lie the slopes where Abraham and Isaac tended their flocks. There too is the scene of the most famous of all crimes, the murder of Abel by his brother Cain.

There is no railroad from Julfa to Khoy and the dirt road is very bad. It takes four horses to pull a carriage. At first the way lies in a desert with barren mountains on both sides, but gradually, as one approaches Khoy, the terrain smooths itself out and richer soil, aided by irrigation, gives vegetation a chance; and here one still sees groves of sheep grazing just as they did in the days when Abraham begat Isaac.

In a valley of orchards and gardens lies Khoy, surrounded by its mud walls. Low mud houses along narrow, crooked streets surrounding gaily decorated and colorful bazaars which form the center of the place, compose the city, while just outside is the conspicuous building of the Russian consul. Opposite this is the American hospital with its Yankee flag flying, a building long, broad and squat.

The hospital staff, including Dr. Hazlett, Dr. Dickey, Dr. McClintic and several American nurses, originally was at Kiev, but when the Russian retreat from Galicia began all hospitals were evacuated to points further east. At first the Americans tended wounded at a temporary hospital near the Kiev railway station, but upon being assigned to the army of the Caucasus they moved there. From there they went to Khoy to be nearer the Russian front line operating in the region of Erzerum.

At first there were many contagious cases and the beds were crowded with sick refugees from Armenia, Syria and other districts. There were many children too, to be looked after, many of them in the most pitiful condition. One Syrian girl mentioned by the American commercial attaché, Baker, who visited the hospital, had been found by the wayside in a dying condition, her legs below the knees frozen, vermin filling her hair, and covering her body. She was scarcely more than a skeleton, in rags and starving. She was the last of a family, the victims of Turkish massacres, and she had escaped only by seeking refuge in the mountains. Both legs were amputated above the knees and her life was saved.

Conditions rapidly got better in Khoy and vicinity, the contagious disease being practically stamped out, so, Drs. Dickey and McClintic,

KHIVOSTOFF, AGAIN IN MINISTRY, HELPS KILL LIBERALISM IN CZAR'S DOMAIN

Alexis Khivostoff.

The return to the ministry of the interior of Alexis Khivostoff, as reactionary an official as exists today among the subjects of the czar, marks the death of liberalism in the Russian government.

and Nurse Miss Lee were transferred to a field hospital at Kazvin and later to Hammedan, Central Persia. Dr. Hazlett remained in charge of Khoy. Russian and American ladies are now nursing the sick and wounded side by side, at Khoy, Russian and American surgeons in charge. Over the roof the starry banner of Uncle Sam and the white, blue and red tricolor of the Little White Father are rippling side by side. And, to show his appreciation of their work, Grand Duke Nicholas has given the order for imperial decorations for each American doctor and nurse.

VON PLANTA GOES TO PITTSBURG

Engineer F. M. von Planta, who has been in this city for several months as a representative of Mr. Kendall, left this afternoon for Pittsburg where he will spend some time attending to business matters. He does not know how long he will be absent, but will be ready to return at any time it is decided to start work on the railroad from Roseburg to Rock creek.
