HUGHES' EFFECTIVENESS.

None of the thousands who heard it has failed to use extreme expressions in describing the effectiveness of Mr. Hughes' speech of acceptance upon an audience whose environment of temperature would have furnished an excuse for apathy.

In addition, the speech has made its appeal to numberless thousands who have since read it in the quiet of their homes and offices. These are the tests of public utterances.
Speeches which touch both the ear and the mind are the speeches which make for effectiveness—and Mr.
Hughes has shown, in his first and in his successive utterances of the campaign, that his years on the bench have only served to strengthen his powers of clear and effective statement, his ability to arrest attention and his capacity to carry conviction.

In this last particular Mr. Hughes possesses a marked advantage—we trust the comparison is not too in-vidious—over his opponent. Mr.
Wilson is able to charm the ear often; sometimes he arrests attention; but it is most infrequent that he carries conviction. The artist who strives for effect or who loses himself in the intricacies of technique rarely produces a canvas that endures; but he who pours out his soul upon his palette paints pictures that live on and that move generations to whom the painter is but a name. To be effective is to be sincere.
And Hughes' effectiveness is the fruit of his sincerity.

THE MAN BEHIND THE SPEECH

The chief value of the Hughes speech of acceptance lies not so much in the information it contains as in the picture and impression it gives of the American people of the man behind the speech. In the usual election as never before, we shall vote for men—not words. In the three years just past we have learned the futility of voting for empty promises. We have had a demonstration of the uselessness of empty phrases backed only by a weak and vacillating personality. The American voter today is reading between the lines to find the quality of the man, and when he read the Hughes speech he was impressed with the sincerity, the dignity and the stability of the speaker.
It was a straightforward state-

No. 13—Croquettes

"One chicken mystery" was a waiter's order given to the chef within the confines of a big metropolitan hotel recently. To the layman this vernacular of the kitchen probably requires a translation. A "chicken mystery," as explained by the waiter, is a portion of chicken croquettes inasmuch as the exact contents of the croquettes is always a "mystery" to the hotel guest, be he sophisticated or not.
The waiter's expression contains more truth than humor, and because of this fact many people prefer to let chicken, beef or any other kind of meat "mysteries" offered on the menu card, remain unsolved. As part of a home repast, however, croquettes are, as a rule, found most acceptable. Personally, I have become quite a "croquette enthusiast," not only as far as meat is concerned, but also in using vegetables. As an instance, I will give you my Lima Bean Croquettes recipe, which I should love to have you try at your first opportunity as I feel sure they will soon become popular with your diners.

Lima Bean Croquettes

Soak one pint of dried lima beans over night. Cook until soft, changing the water twice. When quite tender, rub through a colander. To this pulp add one small onion grated, one cupful finely grated bread crumbs, one tablespoonful chopped parsley, two tablespoonfuls melted butter, two eggs beaten, salt and pepper to taste. Mix well, pour into cylinders, dip in beaten egg, then in cracker dust and fry in deep fat.

Chicken Croquettes

Boil one cup of cream and add a lump of butter the size of an egg, mixed with a tablespoonful of flour. Allow it to boil thick, and then cool. When cool mix into it a teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of celery salt, a little minced parsley, a heaping cupful of bread crumbs and a pint of either roasted or boiled chicken chopped fine. Then beat up three eggs and mix in. Flour your hands and make into small cakes; dip in egg and bread crumbs or cracker dust and fry in deep fat.

Lamb and Rice Croquettes

Allow an ounce of butter and a small minced onion to simmer in oil. Add a tablespoonful of sifted flour; stir the mixture until it becomes frothy. Add half a cupful of milk and season with salt and pepper. Allow it to boil, stirring it all the time. Add a cupful of cold lamb chopped fine and a cupful of rice. Mix well and spread on a plate to cool. When cool make into cakes, dip in beaten egg and roll in cracker dust. Fry in deep lard about two minutes. Serve hot.

ment of the facts and discussion of issues, without any of that impusive extravagance of utterance which has so often led Mr. Wilson into humiliating retractions and reversals.
There was not "play to the galleries". It was the thought, the feeling and the language of the statesman, rather than the mere politician.
It was gratifying and encouraging, therefore, to those millions of Americans who have become tired of speeches made merely to catch votes and who earnestly desire as the head of this nation a man who will represent sound economic policies at home and who will maintain the rights and prestige of the United States and its citizens in every land and on every sea.

BURGLAR SENT TO COUNTY JAIL

Glendale Officer Apprehends Transients Attempting to Rob Store.

Wm. Goldfelly was brought to this city this afternoon from Glendale from which place he was committed to the county jail by the city recorder on a charge of attempted burglary. According to the story told by the officers, Goldfelly and a companion were apprehended while robbing a store in Glendale, the prisoner being captured while his companion escaped. The transient was taken to the recorder's court where he was sentenced to the county jail at Roseburg for 30 days.

The man was brought to this city by Mr. Tuttle, of Glendale, and was placed in the county baetle. The man is a transient and had been in Glendale only a few hours before his capture.

FEW HUNTING LICENSES ISSUED

Clerk Office Expects to Do Rushing Business Last of the Week.

As yet the number of hunters-licenses is very small compared with former years. At the present time there has been issued only three hundred and nineteen licenses to residents. Of this number were 98 single licenses and 161 combination licenses issued from January 1 to July 1. During the month of July 70 singles were issued and 44 combinations. Since the first of August there have been only a very few permits issued but it is thought that the number will be greatly increased from now on.

The season opens the 15th and during the last few days of the week the clerk's office expects to do a rushing business. Hundreds are preparing to go to the woods after the hunting season is opened and are putting off getting their licenses until the last moment. Of this number the greater part are expecting to remain in the woods for some time and will purchase combination licenses as they are much easier to carry and are not so apt to become lost.

LIFESAVER FALLS FROM CLIFF

MARSHFIELD, Aug. 8.—Lloyd Lockey, 23 years old, a member of the Coos bay coast guard station, was badly hurt as he was going to the lookout on Coos Head. While walking a board walk along the edge of a precipice he lost his footing and fell 26 feet to the rocks. He laid there until the next watch came and heard his cries for help.

It was necessary to cut the brush away to get down to where Lockey was lying helpless, and he was hauled up with ropes. His hip is broken and he is probably otherwise injured. He was taken to the hospital at North Bend.

SHELLS COST $10,000,000 A DAY

LONDON, Aug. 8.—As a preliminary bombardment in the Somme battle, July 1, $50,000,000 worth of shell were fired by the British alone. We are firing away money at the rate of $10,000,000 a day. Our artillery never ceases against subterranean German fortresses, one of which I lately explored. These are a tribute not only to the intense industry of the Germans, but also to the irresistible superiority of the British and French troops, said Lord Northcliffe.

PRISONERS' FATE A MYSTERY

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Apprehension exists as to the fate of the British prisoners taken at the time of the surrender of Kut-el-Amara to the Turks.
Lord Robert Cecil said in the house of commons that repeated inquiries had been made through the American embassy at Constantinople to ascertain the whereabouts of these prisoners, but that no reply had been received from the porte.
This, he said, inspired considerable misgivings, as the prisoners were compelled, after the fall of Kutel-Amara, to cross the desert at the worst season of the year.

NEW BEND FOUNDRY IS BUSY

BEND, Ore., Aug. 8.—The new foundry building of the Huffschmidt-Dugan Iron Works is completed and in use, and the first castings to be made in it have just been finished.
The building is of brick, 40 by 60 in size, and replaces the original wooden building erected last spring, which was destroyed by fire in June. The new building is an improvement on the one destroyed in many ways, having an elevator and a separate core oven, as well as being wholly fireproof.
Plenty of business is coming in for the iron works, the orders now looked insuring continuous work for the next three months. As soon as conditions justify a machine shop will be added.

TIMBER BREAKS BOY'S SKULL

MARSHFIELD, Aug. 8.—Howard Fry, son of Richard Fry, aged 18, high school student, was injured fatally, probably while working with his father at Loon lake constructing a building. A heavy timber fell on the boy, fracturing his skull, dislo-cating his shoulder and breaking his collar bone. He was brought 25

RETURN FROM NEW YORK CITY
J. F. Hutchason, the insurance agent who returned a couple of days ago from the convention of Mutual Life representatives at New York City states that he found conditions throughout the east in a very prosperous condition. Factories, he says, are running day and night and are unable to secure enough laborers.
Salaries are good and the eastern states seem to be enjoying the greatest prosperity.

GRANTS PASS, Aug. 8.—William Osborn, a resident of Raymond, Wash., was killed and his wife seriously injured when their automobile backed off the grade near Wolf creek and overturned. Osborn's neck was broken. The Osborns were returning north after a trip through California.
The dead man has a brother, J. E.
Osborn, at Raymond.
