adulation over Wilson when only a few short months ago he berated him with all his power for daring to invade the senate and demanding that senators do violence to their consciences by supporting a measure that betrayed the platform pledges of the party? We built the Panama canal and we promised the people that we would exempt coast wise shipping from tolls and passed a law to that effect. Wilson insisted on a repeal of this legislation and Mr. Chamberlain with a spirit of independence, most commendable, smarted under the lash and on page

3842 of the Congressional Record of the 63rd congress second session said among other things: 'I do not propose to go back to my people and say to them that because the distinguished president of the United States happens to differ from me that I am going to yield my convictions, my judgment, my conscience to his views on the subject.' The senator also disagreed with Mr. Wilson about military preparedness. Not only he but many other distinguished members of his party including O'Gorman, of New York; Champ Clark, of Missouri; Bennet, of New York, and Tillman, of South Carolina, have said worse things about the president than ever we did at our very worst. 'The senator very frankly admitted that the Adamson bill was not really an eight-hour bill, but he says that very soon a bill will be enacted that will make eight hours com-

IRRIGATION CONGRESS TO CONVENE AT EL PASO

Will Discuss Question of Furnishing Funds to Finance the Farmer.

HELP FOUND NECESSARY

Many Settlers on Reclaimed Land Have Failed Through Inability to Secure Aid At the Proper Time.

EL PASO, Oct. 12.—Whether it is within the providence of the national government to furnish funds for settlers on the unsettled lands of the United States will be one of the vital questions discussed when the international irrigation congress meets here tomorrow.

It has been held that if the reclamation act of 1902, under the operations of which most of the reclamation work throughout the United States is being done, is to be made really effective, something more must be done under its operation than the mere building of dams and the digging of ditches.

In the early days of the reclamation of arid lands by means of irrigation under direction of the United States reclamation service, it was believed sufficient to build the dams, dig the ditches and provide the water.

It has since been found that this has not been enough to insure the success of the settler.

Too many of the settlers attracted to the reclaimed lands have failed through lack of capital. It is now believed that it is necessary not only to provide moisture for crops but to finance the settler on irrigated lands until he can earn his living and pay for his land while it is being brought under cultivation.

REFUSES TO ACCEPT AUTO

Argentine Republic has President of Democratic Ideas.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 12.—President Irigoyen, who was inaugurated yesterday, turned down the offer of an automobile, of which a friend wanted to make him a present. It wasn't so much the rejection of the gift, for in this respect most Argentines think he was quite right, as the manner in which he did that attracted attention.

The machine was the product of the only auto factory in Argentina, owned by Horacio Anasagasti. This individual's father was a close personal friend and political supporter of Dr. Irigoyen. He also gave large sums to the radical party, of which Irigoyen is the head. The son has known the president-elect since the former was a little boy. Recently he sent an automobile to the doctor, with a message to the effect that it would give him supreme delight if Irigoyen would ride in it to the capitol when he was inaugurated, a trip which the president-elect had already announced he would make in a street car.

In returning the machine to Don Horacio, the doctor sent this message:

"Any time I want an automobile, there are plenty of taxis I can hire in Buenos Aires."

pulsory. I'd like to cite him to the laws of Oregon on similar legislation. We wanted to limit the hours to constitute a day's work for working girls and we made it a criminal offense in this state to employ a girl longer than the hours provided and the Oregon law has been tried and is effective. If congress really wanted to pass an eight-hour law it could as well have done so as we did in Oregon.

"The people are awake. They read and study and not even the gilded sophistries of Senator Chamberlain will prevent them from doing that which is patriotic and wise. They are going to elect Mr. Hughes because he is controlled by no man or clique and because as president he will not only protect the honor of the nation but will lead us in that tremendous preparedness; that mobilization of national resources as will enable this country to meet the wonderful competition which will come when peace shall come to the warring nations of the old world."

GLENDALE NEWS

Chas. W. Clark, the republican candidate for county clerk, is interviewing the voters of this city in the interests of his campaign. Mr. Clark is a gentleman whom it is pleasant to meet. He is well qualified, to fill the office to which he aspires, and has no word to speak in any way, disparaging of his opponent, E. H. Lenox. If he is elected, we feel sure he will be true to his trust, and that he will work for the best interests of his constituency. His opponent, Mr. Lenox, has held office for 12 consecutive years. And in those years an accumulated salary of nearly $21,000.00 has been paid to him by Douglas county and in addition to that he has employed members of his family, and their salaries have helped to add to his family exchequer. A vote for Mr. Clark will be a vote for a new man, whom we think will not ask a life tenure of this office. MOLLIE
