WAS IT A GOLD BRICK?

The contention advanced that in the Adamson law President Wilson has been stouly upheld by some of our readers and by others has been seriously questioned. Striking collateral evidence of the gold brick character of the legislation is now afforded by the course of prominent railway men who are working both secretly and publicly for Mr. Wilson's election. Judge Lovett, formerly E. H. Harriman's right hand man, now chairman of the board of directors of the Union Pacific, was the first to issue a public interview strongly supporting Mr. Wilson for re-election. And his example has now been followed by F. D. Underwood, president of the Erie Railway, who reviews and approves of practically every step the Wilson administration has taken. As was related at the time in these columns, when the board of railway managers met immediately after the passage of the Adamson bill they agreed not to oppose Mr. Wilson's re-election and many of them argued that, while they had opposed the Adamson bill, on second consideration they were convinced it would prove to the advantage of the railways, because with the government fixing freight rates, hours of labor and the schedule of wages, the next logical step would be compulsory service and the roads would fare better at the hands of the interstate commerce commission than as the result of collective bargaining with labor unions and brotherhoods. The course of Judge Lovett and President Underwood conclusively proves the accuracy of the contentions set forth.

JUST POLITICS.

Two spectacular utterances from the Wilson administration are confidently looked for before the election. One, it is expected, will consist of a proclamation that as a result of the Mexican conference all differences with Carranza have been adjusted and that the Wilson policy has solved the entire Mexican difficulty. The other, according to the plans of the democratic managers, will be a fine old-fashioned specimen of tall twisting, the twist being, of course, the British Non. It will, it is promised, take the form of "a sharp note" to the allies, replying to their joint note regarding the inspection of American mail. Both the Mexican proclamation and the tall-twisting notes have been prepared, under the immediate supervision of Crown Prince McAdoo, according to the Washington corres-

DUNNE WILL STAR WITH WOLVERINES

One of Coach Yost's best bets on his strong Michigan team this season is Left End Dunne, who starred with the Wolverines last fall. Dunne is very fast for his weight and a flash at getting around. He is the son of Gov. Edward Dunne of Illinois.

ponents, but it is felt that the psychological time for their publication has not arrived. If full effect on "the German vote" is to be exerted, the allies must be afforded no time to reply, and in view of the directness of Carranza, the uncertainty of his temper and his general contemptuous attitude toward this country and its president, there must not be sufficient time for him to spill the beans after the Mexican proclamation is issued. It is explained that the necessity of preparing the two documents so far in advance grew out of the decision of the president's son-in-law to take the stump.

YOUNG MEN FOR HUGHES.

According to reports from Harvard University, the students there are overwhelmingly in favor of Hughes as against Wilson. And this in spite of the advocacy of the president by the venerable president, emeritus, Elliott. It merely demonstrates how the young men of this great seat of learning will cast their ballots and how they do their own thinking. The students also of Princeton University are strongly in the majority in support of the republican candidates and the policy of the republican party, and if there is one place in the Union where this would not be suspected, it is Princeton, where Wilson so long held sway and whose influence is supposed to still predominate. And these are not isolated cases, for the same reports come from almost every university and college throughout the land. The young men are thinking, and they are the ones on whom the responsibilities of this government are to be thrown. It is they who must bear the burdens of unwise legislation and untangle the knots of misrule and misgovernment of their predecessors.

Of course such men as the presidents of the big railroad systems, the Erie, the Northern Pacific, and others who have come out in their support of Wilson, will not be classed as Wall street operators by the democratic press which is constantly raising the hue and cry that Wall street is espousing Hughes. Nor will McAdoo or Lovett, both of whom are closely affiliated with the Wall street system. They will be called patriotic, loyal citizens and given a laurel wreath.

Since when has the Oregon Agricultural College become an adjunct of the democratic national and state committee. This inference could be made from the tenor of an article sent out by it and which exploits the recent speech of Senator Chamberlain to the students of that college. It is released for publication today.

The wonderful weather of today brought out a large number of people from some of the most distant parts of the county, and merchants report a most satisfactory business all day, and especially was this noted with the business houses who are regular and liberal users of printers' ink.

With bluestem wheat selling at $1.56 in Portland today, farmers here who are bringing in wheat think they should have more than $1.05 for wheat they are hauling now. It is said there should not be at the highest over 25 cents difference in the price, and that would make the wheat of this section worth at least $1.25 per bushel.

RARE OLD FLAG WAS MADE AT TIME OF THE REPUBLIC'S CRADLE DAYS

Relic of our nation's youth.

A flag that has been authenticated as one of the first in the history of the nation was discovered recently by Irwin Booklen of Jamaica, L. I. It is in the Booklen family's possession for some while, but only recently they realize that they had a treasureable relic. Its design shows it to be almost contemporary with the illustrious flag of Betsy Ross.

GLENDALE NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Coolidge and baby daughter, of Albany, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Coolidge's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jones in this city.

Rev. Dr. J. W. Knott, left on Wednesday for Ketchula, Idaho, on a visit to his son and family in that city.

Hon. B. L. Eddy, who is a candidate for state senator from the 5th senatorial district, will speak in this city on Tuesday, Oct. 24. Mr. Eddy is one of our leading lawyers. He fills all of our requirements of a high standard of morality. He will magnify this important office if he is elected, and by his persuasive eloquence will bring dignity to a place he is so well qualified to fill. His election is sure.

Chas. A. Brand, of the Overland Orchards, who is a candidate for representative, is pressed by his business at this season and will not be able to make a general canvass of the county in his campaign, yet we feel assured of his election, as he is so eminently qualified to fill the position, and with B. L. Eddy in the upper house and Chas. A. Brand in the lower house, our representation in the legislature will be of the highest standard of intelligence and of integrity. They will be elected by large majorities.

Politics are engaging the attention of all voters, and that there will be surprises when the election returns come in we are sure. There is no mud-slinging, or misrepresentation, that we can note among our candidates, because they all are good men and fair minded American citizens. We still must proclaim our Jacksonian principle of rotation in office, and our desire to see new men get a chance to show their fitness to hold offices of public trust.

E. H. Lenox, who has filled the clerk's office for 8 years acceptably, was a city and valley visitor this week. He is one of tried and true county officers, yet we feel sure our republican candidate, Chas. W. Clark, will make a worthy successor to E. H. Lenox.

Hon. J. K. Howard is calling on voters in this city today. It is noted with surprise that Mr. Howard will not include Glendale in his speech making, as he has lived here for eight years. W. H. Gore, of Medford, is his opponent for the position of joint representative from Jackson and Douglas counties. He will get a big vote.

Forty days of delightful weather. The roads are quite dusty, with cool frosty mornings. Everybody is busy, and there is no illness in our valley. We think "the good time coming" has arrived.

Mrs. Izara Stewart is negotiating for the purchase of the Taylor property in this city.

Ethel Clarke, the little granddaughter of Mrs. Sydney Jacques,

Al Henriksen, the well known and prominent resident of Oakland, has been lying quite seriously sick at the Grand Hotel for the past three or four days, and is still confined there waiting for relief before he can start home. It is the old trouble with his spine that is bothering him.

Harry Winston and family were among the prominent residents of the county seen on the streets of the city today.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Carl D. Shoemaker will be glad to learn that the condition of their little son, Milton, appears to be improved since midnight, and it is trusted that the dreaded crisis has passed favorably. He has been very ill since the first of the week with
