

SHOULDER TO SHOULDER WOMEN AND MEN WORK IN BRITISH INDUSTRIES

Two types of boilermakers—the old and the new.

As a rule boilermakers are not considered ladylike, but this plucky woman has thrown tradition to the winds and entered on a career in a boiler factory in Glasgow. Clad in working togs deserted by a huskier boilermaker when the call to the colors sent him to the front, she is shown in this picture working a hydraulic riveter, assisted by a man.

FORMER W. U. OPERATOR HERE

E. L. Bentley, formerly manager of the Western Union office in this city, arrived here this afternoon for a short visit. Mr. Bentley is now connected with the Realty Syndicate Co., of Los Angeles and is engaged in selling real estate in Richmond, Cal., where the company has large holdings.

SCHOOL MEETING ON SATURDAY

Voters of school district No. 4 comprising the schools embraced in Roseburg should not forget the meeting to be held next Saturday to vote on the budget and levy which is estimated to be needed to care for these schools during the coming fiscal year. The directors have made the estimate of ten mills as being sufficient to meet all obligations. The meeting will be held at the assembly hall of the high school in the old armory at two o'clock in the afternoon.

DEUTSCHLAND STARTS FOR HOME

No Foreign Warships in Sight As Sub Reaches High Sea.

NEW LONDON, Nov. 21.—The merchantman submarine, Deutschland, started on her second return trip to Germany this afternoon at 2:35. Two tugs escorted the sub to the three mile limit, but she sailed under her own power. Several sailors of the crew stood on the deck and waved their hats to the crowd of people which lined the shores on either side of the sound. The mothership Willehad was crowded with cheering Germans who waved a farewell to their countrymen. Captain Kloe was at the wheel of the sub and Captain Koenig stood alongside. The submarine left the outer harbor and entered the sound shortly after three o'clock and reached Wright and Fishers Island at 3:24.

Harth Off Again On Another Trip

For the third time within the past month Harth is compelled to rush off to San Francisco to stock up again and replenish the many gaps made in our stock by the continuous heavy selling. This time however, holiday goods will figure prominently on his trip, for Harth is planning to make an extraordinary large and fine showing for holiday trade. But goods have to be bought right in order to sell them for less than ordinary prices. Right here is where Harth's superior advantage comes in. Buying for spot cash, discounting all bills, and in large quantities, satisfied with a very close margin, but figuring on selling quantities, enables him to under-sell everybody in his line. Before he left, Mr. Harth gave implicit instructions to keep the good work going, and to close out all broken up assortments in every line without any concern as to price consideration. It will be done—and at once. We haven't time to change the windows again today, so come in, find out for yourself.
