

NOW LOCATED AT FT. CANBY New Quarters Are Pleasing to the Roseburg Contingent—All Conveniences

IS A BEAUTIFUL PLACE Boys Regretted Having to Be Separated from Their Roseburg Chums But Are Making the Best of Things and Working Hard

(By Bert Bates.) FORT CANBY, Aug. 6.—The sanitary troops "contingent" to Fort Canby from Fort Stevens embarked on the "U. S. Transport Rose" at 1 o'clock today with a carload of equipment, including several medical chests, typewriter, and all other paraphernalia necessary to the conduction of a fort hospital.

The engineer dock at Fort Stevens from which the transport departed for the trip to Fort Canby presented a busy appearance a few minutes before leaving time and to one not on the inside workings, it would have appeared that a trip across the water was being contemplated, judging from the large amount of material being loaded on the boat.

The sanitary troops immediately departed upon a tour of inspection of the barracks which the coast artillery boys were to occupy and secured details from that company to clean up quarters and get them in readiness for occupancy.

DEER SEASON WILL PROBABLY BE CLOSED

Owing to the long-continued dry weather the opening of the deer season will, in all probability, be suspended until a heavy rainfall. District Attorney Neuner, who returned from Salem today took up the matter of closing the season temporarily with Governor Withly.

DRAFT NUMBER ERROR. A rather serious mistake occurred in compiling the serial draft numbers for this county, and in the list published yesterday was one reading thus: 407 Gilliam, Lawrence, Dixonville, 198.

about in large numbers. The strip of land is very narrow and from the side on which the bay is located the ocean can be seen by looking across. A neat little village bearing the Indian name Elwaco, is situated close by on the river side while on the ocean side, about seven miles distant the famous Washington beach resort, Long Beach, lays.

Regular war times can now be seen when the boys departed from Ft. Stevens and the other Roseburg boys to which they had been comrades for nearly all their life, it brought the whole affair "close to home."

SEATTLE BOARDS RULE Many Married Men Refused Exemption—Second Liberty Loan Will Be Launched Probably In September.

(By Associated Press.) SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 8.—An extraordinary number of claims for exemption from military duty on account of a "dependent wife," have come to light here, and has led three of the ten Seattle exemption boards to pass a ruling that a "dependent wife" in itself is an insufficient reason for exempting a man.

Must Win, or Russia is Doomed. LONDON, Aug. 8.—Just before leaving for the front to take supreme command of the army, General Korniloff told the Petrograd correspondent of the London Times that the "first stage of the war is over, and the second phase of the conflict begins now."

Under the direction of Rev. J. H. Coan, of the South Methodist church the task of procuring books for our soldier boys has progressed rapidly and successfully and the citizens have responded nobly to the call for literature of every description.

STREET CARNIVAL IS GREAT SUCCESS Big Crowds Attend Foley & Burk Shows Last Night

EVERYTHING IN ORDER Carnival Spirit Prevailed—Lots of Things to Interest Those Attending—Ponies Admired—Winner of Prizes.

A beautiful summer evening, yesterday, was the setting for the opening of the Foley & Burk shows under the auspices of the local fire department. All of the attractions were in perfect order for the festivities, and the street parade in which boys and girls were to participate was practically on time and moved up Cass to Jackson and thence to Washington, where the show grounds begin.

Rose street from the Ford Garage north to Washington, and along Washington in front of the new high school building had been roped off for the benefit of the carnival, and there the crowd gathered to witness the various performances and take in the shows, of which there are a whole street full.

amusements are clean and devoid of any feature that could be criticized. The people connected with the shows are pleasant and agreeable, striving to please patrons, and the utmost courtesy was evident in every one. The shows were highly recommended to the fire department before the engagement was arranged, and the appearance of the aggregation here fully bears out all the good reports preceding them.

Rewards had been offered by the carnival people for the best doll carriage, and for the best vehicle entered by boys. The awards for the winners were announced by the judges as follows: For best decorated doll buggy, Little Virginia French, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vivian French, the fine big doll promised by Foley & Burk.
