RE-UNIONS ARE HELD BY FORMER CLASSMATES

Various reunions of the former university and college class mates have been enjoyed during the past few days while teachers institute was in session and many old school friendships have been renewed and pleasant memories revived of college days. Last evening ex-students of the Month Normal gathered at the Empava hotel and partook of a delightful banquet. At this memorable occasion there were 29 banquetees and during the course of the meal informal speeches and class songs enlivened the hours. A pleasing feature was the array of gorgeous pink carnations and greenery bedecking the table. Expressions of keen enjoyment were heard on all sides and the affair was declared to have been most charming.

Oregon Agricultural College graduates last evening gathered at the Palace of Sports where joint reunions were served after which the merry group repaired to the Empava hotel and indulged in a joyous informal reception. Among the prominent educators of O. A. C. who were present were Miss Ruth Corbett, instructor of food conservation, front. Resider of the educational department and P. C. Harriman, of the field industry department.

Twenty-five former classmates of the University of Oregon gathered today during the luncheon hour at the Empava hotel and held a reunion. Impromptu speeches were delivered by Dr. H. D. Sheldon of the school of education, P. of C. his topic being "University from inside looking out." Mrs. Josephine Moorhead-Lilburn talked on the alumni. Mrs. Gorrill of Oakland, on the "Co-Eds of Fifteen Years Ago," and a speech on every day studies by Alfred Powers, of the extension department. Anthony Jauregui, of Oakland, was named toastmaster and handled his task in a clever manner, introducing the various speakers with well chosen words of introduction. This event was declared to have been delightful and every moment was thoroughly enjoyed.
