OLD ADAGE APPLIES TO ARMY AND NAVY

Men Must Have Seasonable Recreation—Football is Attraction.

MARINE ALL STAR TEAM

Have Twice Defeated University of California—Captain Is Johnny Beckett, U. of O. Man—Other Stars.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.—"All work and no play" etc., applies in the army and navy just as much as it does on the farm and any other place where it used to fit.

With the football season on teams have sprung up in every branch of the service and in almost every division of Uncle Sam's forces. There is not a Saturday that the army or navy is not represented in the important contests around San Francisco, and it is a military team that appears to be first in the run for the California championship.

The United States marines stationed at Mare Island have a team of all stars which has twice defeated the season. It is really "some" team.

The captain is Johnnie Beckett of the University of Oregon, two years captain of the All Northwest team, three years placed on the All Pacific team and twice member of the second All American team. Then there is Hollis (Shy) Huntington, of the University of Oregon, who was pronounced the best quarterback in the northwest in 1916. Clifford Mitchell, All Pacific star in 1915, who also hails from the University of Oregon. Henry Shields, of the University of Michigan; Clinton Gardener, of the University of Utah; Archie Mercereau, of the University of Minnesota; L. E. Tebeau, of the University of Mississippi; Thomas J. Coolman, of Washington state college, and other stars from practically every school of importance this side of the Mississippi river.

Beyond all shadow of doubt that aggregation of educated huskies that is now undergoing the rigors of military discipline at the local naval station could give any football team in the health and breadth of these United States the toughest little battle ever," says the San Francisco Examiner. "It is doubtful if there is an eleven in the country, outside of some military posts in the east, that could hand the marines a real drubbing. Trouble is there is no way of proving such a statement for the members of this marine eleven are studying the game of soldiering, not football as Uncle Sam has another championship in view for them."

Athletic sports in the army and navy are being fostered here under the direction of the war and navy department commission on training camp activities which is pushing "outside of camp activities" to keep the American spirit booming. It is for the continuance and furtherance of this work that the war camp community recreation fund is now being collected under the direction of a national committee headed by John N. Willis.

DOCTORS RENDER PATRIOTIC SERVICE

(By Associated Press.)

PORTLAND, Or., Nov. 5.—Three hundred young men have been saved or reclaimed for the navy in the past eight months by means of operations by naval surgeons or patriotic Portland physicians, the local navy recruiting office has announced. These men would otherwise have been rejected and lost to their country's service. The operations are free.

Among correctable diseases which are grounds for rejection are hernia (rupture) that are not malignant, hammer toe or still worse, haemorrhoids, pedis, tonsilitis. Any other condition remediable to operation is cured for by the physicians. Defective teeth are attended to by patriotic dentists, free of charge, except for expensive crown or bridge work.

URGENT NEED FOR RED CROSS DRESSINGS

Further instructions regarding the necessity for rushing work on the surgical dressings have been received by the local chapter of Red Cross, says the Eugene Register. A letter from Lucy C. Hilton, director of the women's bureau of the northwestern division at Seattle, reads as follows:

"Under date of October 29, we sent you night letter of repeat from Major Murphy from France, in which was clearly stated the immediate and urgent need of millions of Red Cross standard dressings.

"We feel confident that we have only to bring this matter to your attention to meet with your full co-operation, and that you will do all in your power to get more and more surgical dressing workers together and increase the activity of your chapter and auxiliaries to the greatest possible extent, both as to the number of workers and the output.

"In order that we may better organize this tremendous need, Major Murphy also informs us that cases are numerous where an entire box of dressings is need on one patient.

"Please make it clear to your workers that in doing this work they are rendering real service, and one which will mean the life or death of our own men.

"We beg you to give this matter the greatest possible publicity that your chapter's output may be increased fourfold within the next month.

"In doing this, however, please do not discontinue other work."
