MONEY SPENT AT HOME.

Most of the money advanced by the United States to the nations in Europe engaged in war with Ger-many is spent in this country for the products of our farms, mines and factories

Under the arrangement made by the secretary of the treasury and approved by the president, these allied governments communicate their requirements for materials and supplies to a United States commission through their own designated purchasing agents in this country and the commission then renders its best efforts to obtain advantageou terms which are submitted to th purchasing agents.

By these means competitive bidding against the other allies and against the United States is avoided and the same terms and the same treatment our own government receives is accorded to our allies.

It is expressly stipulated that no obligation or liability upon the United States shall be created by this arrangement. Our government is simply lending its assistance to our allies in the spending here of the money we loaned them. protection thus granted them is de served, for they are doing the work which, if they do not do, must be done by America at the expense of American lives and American money

K. OF P. GRAND OFFICERS

Leslie B. Crouch, grand chancel-lor of the state of Oregon, and Walter B. Gleeson, the grand K. R. S., bred his stock, unless he advertised made an official visit to Alpha lodge K. of P. last evening. This was the first visit of the grand chancellor to Roseburg, and he was loud in his praises of the city and of Alpha lodge. A large attendance of knights welcomed the distinguished visitors. welcomed the distinguished visitors. After the routine work of the lodge was completed the grand chancellor addressed the members in a speech which for sound sense and eloquence has not been equalled in this lodge room for many years. His description of the benevolent work of the order was a revelation to many of the members and expressions of surprise and pleasure at the extensive charities of the Knights of Pythias were freely uttered by the lodge men present. He was followed by Walter G. Gleason, the grand K. R. point a committee of five stockmen S., whose humorous revelations of to formulate plans for organizing a his experiences in his office were much appreciated. The officers are ter meeting with hearty approval of on an extended trip for official the convention, Messrs. afternoon session of the stockmen's convention was called to order at 1:30 o'clock by Chairman A. C. Marsters, and C. M. McAllister, field man for the Portland Union Stock Yards, introduced. The gentleman entered into the merits of the situation in southern Oregon, ex-plaining the necessity of organization in order to accomplish desired results. He told of traveling three or four days in Josephine county and seeing only one here of Herefords. He also stated that one reason why stockmen do not realize the importance of better cattle is that they do not attend the stock shows, and that lovers of good cattle are also up against the scrub sire everywhere found. He urged the gentlemen present not to let the day go by without perfecting organization for mutual benefit and bettering of stock in the county. The speaker averred that if the war in Europe continued years longer the breeders there will be compelled to turn to the Unit-

More About Hogs.

Prof. Potter's address in the afternoon on the swine question was listened to attentively, and he gave some insight into the constant tendency of a rising market when he said that in 1916 more than 44,000,-000 were marketed in the United States against something like 36,-000,000 in 1917. The Portland mar-ket was short about 100,000. Prof. Potted stated that the problem was up to the American producer, and in this case especially the Oregon breeder, to hold his own and prevent further depletion of herds. It is necessarily a war-measure, and better hogs also should be produced in order to save on feed.

Discussing the feeding problem Prof. Potter gave it as the experience at the O. A. C. and of Willam-ette valley farmers that barley was quite satisfactory, although the present price of that commodity was lowering the profits to be realized. He advocated using available stubble fields, waste fruits, skim milk and clover or alfalfa pastures to bring the cost of production of finished animals to as low a figure as possible. It was clearly shown that hog ed States for their foundation herds raising on the farms will increase when the conflict is over, and this the annual income. The relative valfact is going to create an unparallel- ues of barley, middlings, bran, oats ed demand for pure bred cattle of all and green feeds were considered, and it was shown that farmers cannot get best results in fattening hogs by feed ing grain only, but supplementary rations were required to produce fat in as short a time as possible. Green pasture was a great help in this work, and skim milk and buttermilk were also highly spoken of. These combinations get required results in least possible time and therefore increase profits.

Prof. Potter told his hearers that good breeding stock can be had at a small advance in price over what hogs will bring in the open market, and he urged breeders to get rid of scrub stock and raise only pure bred animals.

The question of certain brands of prepared feeds came up for discussion, and it was stated that those ure to look at, and since corn is one proprietory feeds changed in qual-of the very best products for feed- ity so often that the college made no attempt to keep up with the situa-tion, but none of the feeds referred to received any laudable endorsement from the O. A. C.

Asked which breed of hogs were believed to be quickest developed, Prof. Potter said that it was generally concedeed that Poland Chinas were quickest maturing breed of hogs. E. E. Faville, editor of the West ern Farmer, was an entertaining speaker, and kept his audience in best of spirits while stocking their minds with good hard facts relative to the stock industry. Habit, think ing and service were things that counted. The farmer who fails to think never gets very far. So in studying breeding problems he urged stockmen to see that ancestry and parentage is all right and the progeny will take care of itself. He took a rap at profiteers in the statement that as soon as the new food regula-tion went into effect Friday prices on some staples jumped one third, but the producer was not getting the benefit of the raise. The thing for the farmers and stockmen to do is to get together, quit their quarreling and bickering and pull together for a common good.

He advocated that the stockmen get something good for foundation herds, Devon cattle, for instance, and make Douglas county famous for that breed, and the same condition might be obtained in regard to any

prevent him from buying a railroad ticket out to another place at any time, and knockers generally were classed with any other undesirables. Swine Breeders Organize.

On motion of Wm. Kletzer, of Yoncalla, a committee of five breeders was apopinted by the chair to draft plans for organizing a swine breeders organization. Messrs. Kletzer, C. A. Brand, C. E. Banning, Gus Lindbloom and Geo. Marsh were selected for the work, and soon returned with with a report that met with instant favor and was unanimously adopted. The gentlemen who signed the membership roll and paid their fee, were: J. B. Large, Wm. Kletzer, C. A. Brand, E. H. Russell, C. A. McAllister, Wilfred Brown, H. E. Gurney, E. Banning, W. I. Dixon, Geo. Marsh & Son, J. A. Snyder, W. E. Davenport, Watson C. Lea, C. J. Hurd, G. A. Lindbloom, Sam Miller, J. E. Pelton, B. R. Banning & Son and A. C. Marsters.

Officers of the association were then nominated and elected, and are: Wm. Kletzer, of Yoncalla, president C. A. Brand, of Roseburg, vice-president; C. J. Hurd, Roseburg secretary-treasurer. Joe Snyder, G. H. Lindbloom, Watson C. Lea and Sam Miller were selected as directors of the association.
