UNCLE SAM AS A MOTHER.

Uncle Sam looks after his soldier boys in camp as carefully as a hen with one chick does after her first spring. When it comes to the health of the army nothing is too small to take into account. The perniculous microbes in a microscopic in size, but it could do a lot of damage if let alone.

The grounds about the camps are kept free of rubbish and decaying matter. Garbage cans are covered and screened. Traps are set to catch flies. The instructions given the men are explicit and leave no room for personal views as to sanitation. War is being made upon disease as scientifically as upon the Kaiser.

In some of the camps the drill grounds are oiled. It was discovered that the dust stirred by tramping feet caused respiratory troubles. So the order went out, "No dust." And there is none.

Talking of feet, the government pays a great deal of attention to the "number nines" of the troops. Orthopedists examine bad feet, prescribe exercises, and give treatment. As a result the disability is often removed and the feet restored to normal.

Special attention is given also to shoes. The army shoe is in itself a panacea for almost 75 per cent of the ills the foot is heir to. As a result of this sensible shoe the corn crop in some camps is a total failure. Minor ailments also disappear. Service in the army will save thousands of our boys from the sufferings that come in middle age from wearing ill-fitting shoes in their young manhood.

Another matter that comes under the keen eye of the medical authorities is shaving. A general order has been issued requiring all barber shops to wash their hands with soap and water before attendance upon each man. Towels used for one patron can not be used again until laundered. Cups and brushes must be scalded after each shaving.

A recent survey of the physical condition of the men at one of the camps shows by comparison with the data taken at their coming that they have gained from a half inch to an inch in height and from five to twenty-five pounds in weight. This is a convincing demonstration, both to the men themselves and to the home folks, of the value of substantial and nourishing food, regular hours, sanitary environment, and regular exercises. Stopped shoulders have been straightened, chests flared out, sagging "tummies" made hard and able to hold their man in the pace where nature intended them to be, and steps that once dragged listlessly move with a springiness and vigor that indicate the healthy man.

If your boy is in the army, to 1 he is in better health than he has ever been in his life. He is being looked over outside, and one might almost say inside, as he has never been before. And if anything is wrong with him it will be put right if science and skill can do it.

BOOZE AND SHIPBUILDING.

The published statements in the daily press crediting Chairman Hurley and Bainbridge Colby, of the United States shipping board, with expressing the opinion that a "bone dry" nation would decrease the efficiency of shipyard workers on the Atlantic coast 25 per cent, has created a profound sensation in industrial circles in Seattle. The fact of the matter is, Seattle is indignant—thoroughly indignant. Seattle shipyard labor, business men, and professional men in all walks of life are a unit in voicing emphatic disapproval of Chairman Hurley's declaration and roundly score Mr. Colby. Practically every shipyard owner and superintendent in Seattle expressed undisguised disgust at Mr. Hurley's statement.

Hamilton Kendall, a prominent Seattle shipbuilder, has the following to say in reference to the efficiency of men who do not use intoxicants:

"Meeting the superintendent of one of the most important shipyards on the Pacific coast as he was passing the yard hospital, I requested his criticism of the Hurley-Colby comment: 'To silly to contradict,' he answered, 'if we had booze in this city, we would need four hospitals like that one if we kept up the pace we are now setting in ship building. We're building ships faster than any other ship building center in the world today, not because our men are any stronger or more capable than shipyard workers elsewhere, but for the simple reason that our men are 100 per cent efficient six days a week. Our men are an efficient Monday as they are Saturday and we have a crew of active, clear-brained, steady-nerved men Monday instead of an inefficient force of workers getting over a Saturday night spree.' He pointed toward the shipways, where hundreds of men were working at a nerve-racking pace. Every man seemed to feel the winning of the war depended upon his individual effort. 'Do you think a thousand beer-befuddled brains could duplicate those workers? Not much! I've handled labor in wet towns all my life and I tell you there is as much difference in the efficiency of labor in a dry and wet town as between daylight and dark, and Seattle is one of those places where it is daylight.'"

Lewis bookings and occasionally there is some company which gives a free performance, bearing all the expenses and charging no admission. This was the case with Maude Adams, who played at camp, bringing her entire company at her own expense.

And between bigger attractions there are good motion picture plays. The soldier wants to be amused, the colonel reasons, and the tragic drama and depressing pictures do not produce the right mental attitude.

This summer a stock company is producing light drama for the men. There are constant changes of program and this will be continued until fall when the Orpheum theatre season opens.

One Carload Every Two Minutes 15,000 POUNDS MEAT A MINUTE GOING TO ALLIES One Hog Out of Every Four Being Sent Abroad. Shipments of meat have been going to the allies for some time at the rate of 15,000 pounds a minute. As the shipments are kept up during a ten hour day they amount to 9,000,000 pounds daily. The meat goes to soldiers of the United States and the allies and to the civilian population of all the countries at war with Germany. Chicago Tribune, June 5, 1918

These statements were made by a prominent representative of the United States Food Administration.

No industry in the country has played a more important part in helping to win the war than the American livestock and meat-packing industry.

Swift & Company alone has been forwarding over 500 car loads of meat and meat products per week for overseas shipment.
