 GERMANS WRONGED MOST.

That Imperial group of gangsters known as the German war party have committed unspeakable wrongs upon the world. They have devastated Belgium and deported the Belgians. They have trampled over France and despised the French. They have rained death on England and hated the English. They have invaded Russia and betrayed the Russians. And so on to the end of the bitter chapter.

But no nation has been so permanently and irreparably wronged as Germany; no people so completely ruined as the Germans. Belgium has been given a position of imperishable fame in the world's history. So long as the stars shall shine no one will ever call the French "a decadent people." Russia has started on her long journey toward freedom. England had written a new and glorious chapter in her history. Italy is at least a real centralized nation. America has become the world's greatest champion of liberty. But Germany— If the war should end tomorrow she is a ruined nation; her people are hopelessly disgraced. Like a blind Samson she has pulled down the fair temple that has taken her five hundred years to erect. Germany has become an outcast nation. Her colonies are taken from her; her commerce swept from the seas; her language from the schools; her goods debarred from the world's markets. (It does not matter what laws are passed, "made in Germany" will be sufficient to damp her merchandise for many a year.) Her reputation for art and culture has become a byword. The bloody footprint of the Hun will be seen on every page of her former glorious record. When her symphonies are played men will hear the shrieks of murdered children and ravished women. When her culture is mentioned men will think of Edith Cavell. When her religion is spoken of the world will sneer. Never was there a nation so completely ruined. Never a people so destitute of everything worth while.

If there is any class or people that has reason to hate these autocratic murderers it is the German people. Our German friends can never again speak with pride of their "fatherland." They can never speak their native tongue without being sure that the very cadence of it will cause some one to shudder. It is a terrible loss to a man when he can no longer be proud of the land of his birth, and to be proud of Germany today is to condone her dastardly deeds. The right-thinking German must feel as one would if his father had turned outlaw and his mother a harlot. Surely the German people have been terribly wronged. Such wrongs as can never be righted.

MOBILIZATION OF BRAIN POWER.

Mobilization of the brain power of the nation's young men is the latest plan of Secretary Baker. While the general public has not as yet awakened to the grave danger of the depletion of its supply of trained men in science, the war department does realize it, and is exerting every effort to avert such a calamitous contingency. The department is exceedingly anxious that the nation's supply of trained leadership be not cut off at its source of supply. Hence, the encouragement given the young man to remain in high school and in college until such time as he reaches draft age or until the government, actually needs his services.

To hold the younger men in college is the purpose of the formation of the new students' army training corps, to be established in every university and college in the land having 100 or more male students who will join. In Secretary Baker's own words: "The purpose of the plan is to provide for the very important needs of the army for highly trained men as officers, engineers, doctors, chemists, and administrators of every kind. The importance of this need can not be too strongly emphasized. The plan is an attempt to mobilize and develop the brain power of the young men of the country for those services which demand special training. Its object is to prevent the premature enlistment for active service of those men who could be extended the period of their college training multiply manifold their value to the country. If, however, the need arises for the services of these men in the fighting line, the terms of their enlistment are such that they can be called by the president on a day's notice. But for the present it will be the policy of the government to keep them in training until their draft age is reached."

It is recognized that a high percentage of the eager, patriotic youth of the land is impatient to be right out on the firing line. This is a more exciting and more obviously useful service than remaining in college and preparing for leadership in war science later on.

But it is really a greater service. Again let us quote the words of Secretary Baker in his recent statement announcing the formation of the Students' Army Training Corps:

"The importance of this plan for combined military and college training, if we are to meet in the future the urgent needs of the army for highly trained men, is so great that the war department earnestly requests the colleges, councils of defense, and other patriotic societies to co-operate in bringing it to the attention of the young men of the country and in urging them to do their part to make it a success."
 The youngest who enlist in this corps—none can actually enlist until he is 18 years old—are enlisted men in the United States army, subject to active service at the call of the president. The policy, however, it is announced, will be not to call any until they have reached 21 unless in case of extreme emergency. Those engaged in the higher types of scientific work, such as chemistry, medicine and engineering, will be allowed by special arrangement to remain in college until they have finished their courses.

The whole plan is in the best interest of the country and it should have the moral support of every patriotic citizen. It is shortsighted to encourage youths to enlist untrained for service which at present the government is most demanding of them and thus, for the most part to cut themselves off from the training which would mean vastly more valuable service later on. Any who discourage the youth from receiving the training the war department wants him to have is doing just so much for the cause of the enemy.

DEFENSE SOCIETY URGES WAR TURKEY

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Charles Stowen Davison, chairman of the board of trustees of the American Defense Society has sent to President Wilson the following brief, prepared by Henry W. Jessup, a well known New York lawyer, pointing out why the United States should declare war against Turkey and Bulgaria immediately:

"The American Defense Society deems it expedient at this juncture to make a statement very respectfully urging the government to declare war on Bulgaria and Turkey. Unless this is done American troops cannot be placed at the disposal of the commander-in-chief of the allied forces to be sent against nations with which we are not at war. If American aid is needed in any of these connections it can only be afforded after a state of war shall be declared to exist.

"Turkey's savage and brutal treatment of her oppressed peoples, has put her outside the pale of civilized nations and the United States has just cause for declaring war on Turkey. She has paid no respect to the American flag and is reported to have destroyed American missionary property, including its hospital and dispensary. Prior to the news of this occupation a cable was received through the state department announcing that further telegraphic information might not be possible, that the Turks were at the gate and that all the missionaries had left except two Americans, one a physician and the other a minister, who stuck to their posts for the purpose of preserving the mission plant. The government has not as yet received a satisfactory explanation for this outrage from the Turkish government."

"The American Defense Society also thinks that the moral effect of a declaration of war will be important, and it is urged that an expedition landed north of Jaffa could cut off the troops now being sent to attack General Allenby in the Holy Land. "Only when Turkey is defeated will she reform," says the chairman in closing.
