WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 21, 1918. CAMPAIGN LITERATURE.

Under date of July 2, 1918, Scott Ferris, Oklahoma congressman, chairman of the democratic national congressional committee, has put out a letter on the letterhead of the house committee on public lands, boasting of the record of the administration "during fourteen months of war," and enclosing a copy of President Wilson's last address to congress, which he begins with the statement: "If we are to wage the war at all, we should wage it vigorously." In other words, the chairman of the democratic national congressional committee himself raises a question of doubt as to whether we should be waging war. "If we are to wage war at all" certainly involves a question as to whether we should be waging war. The question of whether or not we are to wage war is of the past. We are at war. It is no time for the chairman of the democratic congressional committee to be issuing an implied apology for a state of war. We are at war. There are no "ifs" about it, and no "ifs" should be talked about by the man who is in charge of the democratic campaign for control of the next congress.

If Chairman Ferris had said, "If we are to have a congress at all, we should have a democratic congress," the statement would involve that there is some question about whether we should have a congress. If he had said, "If we are to have politics at all this year, it should be democratic politics," it would imply that there should be no politics. When he says, "If we are to wage war at all, we should wage it vigorously," it is an apology to every voter who is opposed to the war. Otherwise Chairman Ferris would have said, "We should wage the war vigorously," and let it go at that.

We are at war. The next congress should not be under the control of men who are disposed to apologize for that state of affairs, after they have as congressmen voted for war and ask for re-election on the ground that we are in war. This is no time for apologies, or for concessions to pacifist or delayist sentiment. We are at war. And the democratic national congressional committee is headed by a man who starts a campaign letter with the phrase: "If we are to wage war at all."

The next drive of local impertinence will be for the Salvation Army—and it ought to be a hummer. Their religion is one not only of words but of action—and its action that gets there on the western front.

Kaiser says the hardest part of the job is still ahead of him. Suppose it will grate a bit to have to haul up the white flag and surrender his sword, his thermos bottle and bunch of violets.

Germany, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey, are reaching the rearmament stage, and certainly not one of the lot can say anything about the other that is too bad to be true.

Notice that the Kaiser refused to see Count Luxburg. Don't blame him. That "spurious vorosenk" is a bit too suggestive.

Wonder if Willie ever thinks in the quietude of the Potsdam nights of what happened to Nicky?

Germany is now thinking of fighting Spain to decide which country invented influenza.

With such delightful August weather why consider a coast climate?

A great fighting combination—the British, the French and the American.

You have to hurry to catch a Hun these days—on the western front.

Our boys are going to them in the regular Yankee fashion.

BILL BOGARD WANTS ACTION, RIGHT QUICK

"Lieutenant Garland in?" asked a husky-looking citizen as he stepped into the tank corps temporary recruiting office in the Corbett building, says the Portland Telegram. "Absolutely," smiled the lieutenant. "My name's Bogard. I was talking to you over the long distance from Roseburg. Read about the tank corps in the Telegram. I want to enlist." "Want to fight?" the lieutenant jerked out at him suddenly. Mr. Bogard's answer, in two words, left no room for doubt. "Now, looka here," said Bogard belligerently. "Doggonit, I joined this because I want action. I dowanna stiek around in some training camp for a coppia years. Do I get action?" "You do," said the lieutenant, eyes twinkling. "You get all the action there is. You get more action than the front line trenches. You get right out where things are buzzing. How does that strike you?" "Fine. I am giving up two farms in southern Oregon to get into the scrap."

THE TANKS.

I take off my hat to the husky marines, And the Yankee crews sailing the brine, And the boys of the sky with the darling to fly, Are the grittiest lads of their time, And the tars who are manning the old submarines Measure big with the rest of the Yanks, All are heroes God knows, yet I get to my toes When they mention the men in the tanks.

And its listen to the guns And the music in the din, For the Devil gets the Huns When the tanks go in. I've felt that the men on the listening post Were the bravest of all of the brave, And the boys who could sneeze at the gas in the breeze Had the courage that goes to the grave, And the fellows that tunnel 'neath no-man's-land Are the nerviest guys in the ranks, But I can't keep still and I can't help thrill When they mention the men in the tanks.

And the shrapnel comes, And the Yanks just grin, For the Devil gets the Huns When the tanks go in.

INSPECTOR WARNS GROWERS TO SPRAY

It is evident that another application of arsenate of lead will be necessary for complete control of the codling moth or worm. The same condition prevails as last year with a continued hatch taking place, which will probably not stay until apple harvest. It was this late hatch that caused so much loss to the apples last season, County Fruit Inspector Earl Pearcy said today. Prune growers should closely watch their prunes if they have not already put on a Bordeaux application for brown rot. If any serious infestation is apt to appear this spray ought to be made. Weather has been quite favorable for two weeks for this disease to make its appearance.

POPULAR OPERA.

One of the most popular of all operas, Sardou's "La Tosca" is Pauline Frederick's latest Paramount photoplay. It is to be shown at the Antlers theatre commencing tomorrow. The story of the young singer who avenges her lover's torture and the insults to herself by stabbing old Baron Scarpia, chief of police and then, finding that her lover has actually been shot in spite of a promise to the contrary, leaps to her death from the parapet of the castle of St. Angelo, Rome, is too well known to be given at length, but suffice it to say that an excellent cast, Miss Frederick's superb acting and the direction of Edward Jose promise excellent entertainment for all.

RAILROADS SORELY IN NEED OF HELP

The railroads are sorely in need of help of all kinds and the government is now making an appeal to mechanics and laborers employed in non-essential industries to serve their country by seeking employment in war emergency work. There is no more patriotic duty to be performed than assisting in the upkeep of the railroads so vitally necessary to a successful prosecution of the war. Railroad building, bridges, equipment and roadbeds must be kept in good condition for the transportation of troops, military supplies, supplies for airplanes, etc. The railroad shops in Portland and vicinity are now in urgent need of the following men:

- Ninety-five machinists, 58 1/2 to 60c per hour.
Seventy machinists helpers, 33c to 35 1/2c per hour.
Ten machinists handymen, 45 1/2c to 53c per hour.
Fifty machinists apprentices, 19 1/2c to 24 1/2c per hour.
Thirty-three boiler-makers, 60 1/2c to 61 1/2c per hour.
Forty-eight boiler-makers helpers, 34 1/2c to 35 1/2c per hour.
Ten boiler-makers handymen, 42 1/2c to 49 1/2c per hour.
Ten boiler-maker apprentices, 19 1/2c to 24 1/2c per hour.
Twenty-seven blacksmiths, 54 1/2c to 61 1/2c per hour.
Twenty-seven blacksmiths helpers, 34 1/2c to 38 1/2c per hour.
Eight pipe-fitter helpers, 34 1/2c to 38 1/2c per hour.
Fifty-seven car repairers, 34 1/2c to 36c per hour.
Thirty car carpenters, 38 1/2c to 40c per hour.
Ten car carpenter helpers, 30 1/2c to 33 1/2c per hour.
Twelve painters, 39c to 48c per hour.
Ten molders, 38 1/2c to 53c per hour.
Three molders helpers, 31 1/2c per hour.
Six oxy-acetylene welders, 55c per hour.
Seventy-five laborers, 29 1/2c per hour.
Also freight truckers, coal chute operators, bolt cutters, tank truckmen, hoister helpers, tinners helpers, tool room attendants, airmen, pipemen, coach cleaners, car inspectors, rabbit men and fuel operators. All railroad shops are on an eight hour basis, but are working nine or ten hours, paying time and one-half for the overtime.

There is serious need for the following men on the railroad divisions in the Portland district: Two hundred carpenters for bridge and building gangs, $3.88 to $5.00, 10 hour day. One hundred fifty carpenter helpers, $3.25 to $4.00, 10 hour day. Fifty bridge laborers, $3.50 ten hour day. One thousand laborers for extra gangs and sections, $2.75 to $3.00, 10 hour day. Extra gang men live in cars, board furnished at approximately $27 per month. The above wage scale is authorized under U. C. government railroad order No. 27.

Early in July the Christian church extended a call to Rev. Howard Fagan and wife to conduct a revival meeting in the church here. The Fagans accepted the invitation and it is expected that they will begin early in October or soon thereafter. The Fagans are a most successful evangelistic team, having held meetings all over the northwest and California. They are booked for a September meeting in Portland, and it is expected that they will come directly from there here, though a definite time has not been absolutely fixed.
