TOYS AND LIFE.

(By Edgar A. Guest.)
You can learn a lot from boys
By the way they use their toys;
Some are selfish in their care;
Never very glad to share
Playthings with another boy;
Seem to want to hoard their joy
And they hide away the drum
For the days that never come;
Hide the train of cars and skates,
Keeping them from all their mates,
And run all their boyhood through
With their toys as good as new.

Others gladly give and lend,
Heedless that the tin might bend;
Caring not that drum heads break,
Finding not that playmates take
To themselves the joy that lies
In the little birthday prize,
And in home that house such boys,
Always there are broken toys,
Symbolizing moments glad
That the youthful lives have had,
'Neer, you'll never live a shelf
Dedicated unto self.

Toys are made for children's fun,
Very frail and quickly done;
And who keeps them long to view,
Bright of paint and good as new,
Robs himself and other boys
Of their swiftly passing joys.
So he looked upon a toy
When our soldier was a boy,
And somehow today we're glad
That the tokens of our lad
And the trinkets that we keep
Are a broken, battered heap.

Life itself is but a toy
Filled with duty and with joy;
Not too closely should we guard
Our brief time from being scarred;
Never high on dusty shelves
Should we hoard it for ourselves,
It is something we should share
In another's hour of care—
Something we should gladly give
That another here may live;
We should never live it through
Keeping it as good as new.

PROTECTION BEST ASSURANCE.

The National Federation of Federal Employees has issued a lengthy statement in which it asserts that it is the duty of the government to assure an opportunity for all to earn a living, and that there will be an acute congestion of the labor market after the war, when the millions of soldiers return. The spokesman of the organization is right in this respect. There was an extremely acute labor congestion immediately before the war. Unless something shall be done to head it off, there will be another after the war. Just at present we have on our federal statute books a tariff law which encourages Americans to buy goods made in Europe or Asia, thus closing American factories and sending our money abroad. That is an unsound and disastrous policy, as the officers of the National Federation of Federal Employees must know. You can't have jobs for everyone in America if you send your money to Japan and China to provide jobs for people there. With this war in full swing, American importers are advertising sales made in Great Britain. If England can make socks for us in the midst of this war, what will she do to our markets if the bars are left down when the war is over? American importers are boasting of the large shipments of goods they are now getting from Japan. How much larger those shipments will be after the war, unless the tariff bars are put up again! Congestion of labor is the proper expression to describe the situation that will exist, if we continue the destructive policy of buying where the costs of production are lowest. We must get back on a sound economic basis and the only way to do this is to send to the senate and house of representatives, and to the white house, men who believe in a "made-in-America" policy, not as a matter of temporary expediency, but as a matter of permanent principle.

If you buy a $100 bond of the fourth liberty loan you are lending the United States government enough money to feed a soldier in France a little more than seven months. Or you have furnished enough money to give him a complete outfit of winter and summer clothing, including shoes and stockings, and slicker and overcoat and blankets, with enough left over to arm him with a good revolver. You have done that much to beat back the Hun. It takes $35 more to arm him with a rifle with a bayonet on it, and if you buy a second $100 bond you furnish him this rifle and 1,000 cartridges for it; and there will be enough of your money left to purchase a good-sized bomb to throw in a dugout, or demolish a machine gun together with the Huns operating it.

CORPORAL R. B. PETTEY TELLS OF TRIP, FRANCE

Writing from France to his parents in this city, Corporal R. B. Pettey gives his impressions of what he sees in Europe, and says:

Just received your welcome letter this evening. It is the first one I have received from you for a long time. I have quite a bit to write this time, and I have been on a trip to the southern part of France since I wrote before.

A company was picked from this regiment to go to Lyons for the celebration of the 14th of July—the 14th is a holiday here similar to the 4th with us. We had a wonderful trip and saw some beautiful country. Lyons is quite a bit larger than Portland, and is quite different from the smaller towns in this country. It looked like all the people in France had gathered there for the celebration. There were troops there from all the allied armies. I don't know how long the parade was, but I do know that the streets were crowded so that we could hardly get through in places. The people threw flowers on us from the sidewalks and buildings, and even the aviators flying overhead dropped flowers on us as they flew over. It was no easy thing to march at attention for so long a time, but the trip more than repaid us for our extra drill and long hot ride. It took us about 24 hours to get there on the train, and about the same on the return.

While there I visited a cathedral which is certainly a beauty, but is not very old, being only about 80 years old, which is very young for this country. The town where we were stationed all spring had one old castle which was built in 1109, so you see eighty years is not a very long time here when speaking of the age of buildings. Several of us went to the top of an observation tower where they say Mt. Blanc can be seen, and I believe they said that Switzerland can be seen from there, too, but it was so cloudy or foggy that we could hardly see the edge of the city. It was well worth the one franc piece we paid to go to the top, though.

No, I haven't been to the front, yet, and have no idea when I will go. I may leave tomorrow and I may not go for six months. If training helps any I do ought to get along fine when I do get there, for I have been doing lots of training. We walk about three and one-half miles to the drill grounds and back every day that we drill. We generally have Wednesday and Saturday afternoons off and all day Sunday, but this doesn't happen every week, for we some times have to drill every day. We are getting plenty of good eats, the grub is always of the best and lots of it. When the cats are no good it is most always the mess sergeant or the cook's fault.

You asked about the Y. M. C. A. I think they are a wonderful organization, and so do all of the men. Their prices are a little higher than the commissary, but I heard the other day that they were going to sell tobacco and everything else just as cheap as the commissary, although at a great loss to them. They provide entertainments for us nearly every night in the week, and some of these are real good. Night before last their show was a whole lot better than lots of the shows I have paid good money to see in the states.

As ever, BRUCE.

WHY MUST I USE ONLY TWO POUNDS OF SUGAR A MONTH?

Seven whys for short supplies:
1. Our great war program has reduced our sugar-carrying fleet.
2. The sugar requirements of our overseas army are very large.
3. Our own sugar crop is less than we expected.

4. The small island, Cuba, must feed the world with sugar.
5. We have diverted 50,000 tons of sugar ships in order that Belgium should have food.

6. Germans have destroyed sugar beet fields and factories in northern France and Italy.

7. More than 50,000,000 pounds of sugar have been sunk off our shores by German submarines.

How to Save on 2 Pounds per Month. Seven ways for daily sugar saving:

1. Use fresh fruit without sugar.
2. Cook dried fruits without additional sugar; they already contain sugar.

3. Can more fruit without sugar; put up fewer jams and jellies.
4. Use less sugar in tea and coffee; you will soon learn to like it better.

5. Avoid such sugar luxuries as candy, cakes, chewing gum, sweet drinks and sodas.
6. Use honey, maple sugar and syrups and other sweeteners when available.

7. Cut out all desserts or other dishes that require much sugar.
