BUSINESS OF NATION FALLS UPON WOMEN

Drafting Men From 18 to 45 Years Will Throw a Greater Burden Upon Them.

THE GAPS MUST BE FILLED

With the Various Pursuits Open to Them Women Have Been Gradually Acquiring Knowledge—Buyers of Bonds.

With the affixing of the signature of President Wilson to the man power bill, all men between the ages of 18 and 45 have been drafted into the service of our country. That means that more than ever before the business of the land will fall upon the shoulders of the women.

Like their sisters overseas the women of America must step into the ranks, to fill up the gaps left by their husbands and brothers. Preparation for this mighty change has been made in greater or less degree throughout the entire country.

Not the least revolutionary of the changes has been the granting of women of executive powers in war financing. Where a few years ago women bond sellers were a negligible quantity, their number has grown during the past twelve months to more than half a million. And where in days before the war women who bought bonds were few and far between, today women number more than one-third of the United States bond owners.

The evergreen berry harvest this year will show an increase of more than 100 per cent over last year, according to J. W. Shumate, who has been purchasing large quantities of berries on their farms.
