Why Make a Change at This Time?

WINNING THE WAR.

Germany claims to have democratized its government. It is one of the greatest revolutions of history has taken place over night. The mightiest despotism the world ever saw, suddenly disappears. In its place we have a democratic monarchy, conforming to President Wilson's demands. It takes a shell game artist at a county fair to do anything so neat.

Great revolutions like these, if authentic, are attested by indisputable evidence. Any constitutional change in the United States is the subject of long debate in public assembly, and is finally agreed to by vote attested and put on record by the lawful authorities. English liberties date back to Magna Charter. You can find an original copy of it in Lincoln cathedral today.

When has any proclamation of abdication of his imperial power been made by Emperor William II. of Germany? Under the German constitution, he has the power of making "defensive war." As he can set up the claim that any war is "defensive," he practically gives him the right to make war any time he wants to. Where and when has he abdicated this power? Let him come forward and present a signed proclamation giving up the right.

Under the German constitution, the Federal Council can authorize the Kaiser to make an "offensive war." As this body does not represent the people, the Council must formally by attested votes renounce this right, before the first step toward democratization has been made. The claim set forth by the German government that it has placed sovereign power in the hands of the people is too transparent to deceive a class of school children.

LESSONS OF THE INFLUENZA.

It is now generally realized that the epidemic of Spanish influenza is one of the most serious calamities that ever befall this country. We had been boasting how our soldiers were not going to suffer from disease as in early wars. We had learned better how to care for them. But it is now seen, we did not know it all. Also if the country gets through this epidemic without 100,000 deaths, it will escape better than now seems likely.

Some medical authorities think this fatal result could not have been helped, since the beginnings of the disease can not be distinguished from a common cold.

However, a great many people have been very careless. The story is told of one lady who was out on her porch one day talking with her neighbors. "Don't come near me," she said, "or I will give you this awful cold I've got. But I'm going out for a nice long ride this afternoon that will break it up." She did go out on the ride, but after she got home she had a severe chill, and in a few days she was dead.

The management of one large factory in a town where the disease has prevailed, showed how it can be handled. The owners were no doubt moved both by generosity to their help, and by the feeling that it was poor business to let the disease get a start. They provided doctors and nurses, and when one of their employees got the influenza, they sent him right home, and had a doctor and nurse call. The same thing was done when members of the families of the help were taken sick. As a result, not one death was reported in all the 2,000 families connected with that mill. If that policy could be followed everywhere, the influenza would not be very fatal. Of course the shortage of doctors and nurses has aggravated the situation. After our medical forces get back from France the danger will be less.

In his elaborate street car advertising, the Democratic candidate for Governor declares for more land for the "landless man." Just how sincere Mr. Pierce is in this matter is perhaps best shown by a reference to the records of the 1917 session of the Oregon legislature. In the closing days of that session, Mr. Pierce, as a member of the Senate introduced and fought for the adoption of a memorial to Congress, asking for the suspension in this state of that provision of the land laws which enable persons to acquire 640 acres of land in the public domain. The memorial was defeated. Furthermore, Mr. Pierce is the reputed owner of several thousand acres of valuable wheat land in eastern Oregon.

Voters of Oregon are advised by Attorney General Brown to place at the left of any names written in on the ballot at the November election an X, in the same way that the X is placed before the names or candidates whose names are printed on the ballot sheets. Under the law the attorney general is of the opinion that this is not necessary, but to eliminate any doubt and so that the electors or candidates whose names are written in may be on the safe side, if such votes should be carried by contest into the courts.

PENNY-WISE POLICY IS AROUSING CONTEMPT

A penny-wise policy which is arousing wide contempt and condemnation is being advocated by the Portland Journal in its campaign for two "substitute" measures to be voted on at the next election. The Portland Journal wants the people of the state to abolish the present delinquent tax publication law and the present legal rate statute, both of which measures are to be supplanted by two pet laws advocated by that newspaper. There is no earthly reason for a change in either of the existing statutes, but the Journal insists its pet would be "cheaper."

In making the delinquent tax law "cheaper" the citizens of Oregon will take from the law the one element that is essential for the protection of the public. This law was passed by our state legislature to protect your property and mine from the tax title grabber and to save it for the rightful owner. That it is saving its purpose well, must be conceded, even by the Journal, and yet the editor of that paper would abolish the publication in order that the machinery of state may be operated on a "cheaper" basis. In the last analysis this is the substance of the Journal's argument.

The "because-it's-cheaper" argument never had a leg to stand on and never will. Cut down the expenditures for heavy artillery in France by using something "cheaper" and while we might save a few thousand or hundreds of thousand dollars, we would lose as many lives. It's cheaper to run around barefoot than to wear shoes. If you measure "cheapness" by dollars and cents; otherwise it is not. It's cheaper to live in the street than in a house, if all you wish to do is to save rent. It's cheaper to doctor your own influenza—if you are not particular about recovering. Cut out the delinquent tax bill; throw down the title grabber; let him pick up the delinquent lists for a song; let the interest accrue on the delinquent landowner who may be fortunate enough to escape the title grabber. Why not? It's "cheaper" argues the Journal.

And so with the legal rate bill. "Too much" wails the Portland sheet; it's cheaper to cut it down a little. This, in spite of the fact that the present fair rate of 5 cents per line is as low or lower than the charges established in the other states of the union; this, in spite of the fact that the newspapers of the country are called on for endless columns of government "win-the-war" publicity continually; this, in spite of the fact that newspaper cost prices and wages have gone up from 30 to 100 per cent during the past year—as in every line of modern industry. Mr. Jackson knows these things to be true—let him dare deny them. And yet he would throttle the press of the state, all because he thinks it "cheaper."

Remember the Jackson bills, voters.

ors. There are two of them to come up for your consideration. Both should be killed. Let the electorate rise up against such high-handed and contemptible procedure. Vote "NO" on both measures. USE LIME NOW. CORVALLIS, Oct. 20.—Farmers planning to use ground lime should apply it as early as possible, to get the full benefit of its action on next season's crops, advises Dean A. B. Cordley, chairman of the state board. Unless the lime is put on before the ground becomes too soft this fall it may not be possible to apply it until well into next spring. Early orders are necessary to keep the state lime plant running. Money for operating expenses must come from lime sales, and lack of bunker facilities makes it necessary that sales keep up with the manufacture. WANTED—Retoucher at C. W.
