INDUSTRIAL DEPRESSION.

There is one method, and one method only, whereby serious industrial depression in the United States within the next twelve months can be certainly prevented, says the National Republican. That is the enactment of protective tariff legislation which will halt the immense inflow of articles of foreign production, in order that domestic production may be resumed along normal lines.

It is as clear as the noonday sun that when American industrial establishments lose the war, orders which have kept the wheels turning for four years, there must be widespread paralysis and unemployment, unless the American producer is permitted to supply the American market under a protective tariff which takes into account the differences in labor costs here and abroad.

When the European war began in midsummer of 1914, there were three million men out of work in the United States; there were bread lines and soup kitchens; charitable relief organizations were taxed to their capacity in every big city to care for the unemployed and their dependents. These men were out of work because commodities produced in the United States were being brought in from Europe under the existing Underwood tariff law. This situation was relieved only by the intervention of the war.

During the intervening time American imports of articles normally produced in any manufacturing establishment have been vastly increased, and they are still increasing. They come in under low or no tariffs. They represent a displacement of the product of American industry. These imports will fill the shelves of American war houses and stores this winter. In increasing quantity. This means that the work necessary to manufacture these articles in lower wage countries, will not be made here.

In view of this situation the talk of American labor leaders about keeping up American wages by legislative or administrative action, or by organization is pathetic. In some restricted fields this may be done, but the maintenance of a high level of wages and shorter hours in many industries will simply mean that the industries affected must close the sooner because competition between unequal costs is impossible. It is indeed unfortunate that so many of these labor leaders are so wedded to the bourgeois, reactionary, employment-destroying, business-smashing doctrine of free trade that they refuse to look the facts in the face and conceal the real truth from those who will sustain the greatest injury from the influx of articles of foreign production.

Republicans should keep these facts before the people, so that there may be no misunderstanding of the real causes of industrial depression. Undoubtedly Democrats will try to produce an alibi. That alibi was "dear money" in 1916. In 1914 they escaped a verdict on the facts by the revival of business which came with war orders. They will blame the next depression produced by the Democratic free trade upon the machinations of plutocracy, and, with a socialistic program, appeal to class consciousness.

It would be easily possible for this country to enter upon an era of great prosperity following the war, through the enactment of legislation which would foster the productive interests of the United States. The party in power is engaged in war upon business enterprise. The measures upon the statute books express this spirit of hatred of productive undertakings. In 1914 this program of ruthlessness directed against American industry had produced an army of the unemployed in this country numbering 3 million men. It may be impossible to ward off the results of the existing tariff law upon the return of normal industrial conditions, but it will be impossible to keep the people advised as to the causes of the slowing down of industry—and this is the duty of Republicans.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK HOT TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoon full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking up a cold.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB RHEUMATISM FROM STIFF ACHING JOINTS

Rub Soreness from joints and muscles with a small trial bottle of old St. Jacobs Liniment

Stop "dosing" Rheumatism. It's pain only; not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Liniment" right on the "tender spot," and by the time you say Jack Robinson—out comes the rheumatic pain. "St. Jacobs Liniment" is a harmless rheumatism cure which never disappoints and doesn't burn the skin. It takes pain, soreness and stiffness from aching joints, muscles and bones; stops sciatica, lumbago, backache, neuralgia. Limber up! Get a 30 cent bottle of old-time, honest "St. Jacobs Liniment" from any drug store, and in a moment you'll be free from pains, aches and stiffness. Don't suffer! Rub rheumatism away.

THE SIXTY-FIFTH REGIMENT HIGHLY PRAISED

"There were no stars in the 65th Regiment, C. A. C.—every member was a real man, doing what he was told."

Such was the message which Captain C. R. Hamble, of Eugene, delivered to mothers and fathers of Portland lads who are in that regiment of the old Coast Artillery which was stationed for so long at Fort Stevens. The Captain arrived from overseas a few days ago, leaving immediately after the armistice was signed.

"There are 1911 men in the regiment," explained the Captain, "and we are proud of each one. The supply company, composed chiefly of boys from Portland, with a few additions from Salem, Eugene, Albany and a few other Oregon towns, was without an equal on the front. The regiment was in five battles and performed the impossible. We used English guns, when it was thought impossible for us to do so, and having accomplished that, the 65th was expected to do the impossible things, and the regiment did. We went in first at St. Mihiel and from then on to the finish we were very fortunate."

Captain Hamble said that some of the boys were disappointed that they did not gain promotion, particularly when they saw that the commissions were going to the men who remained here to enter the training camps instead of going overseas. There were 85 men who were fully capable of holding commissions, but there were not even enough places as non-coms to go around."
