In a letter received today from Bert Bates, who is with the 65th Artillery in France, he says the company at that time, December 18, was all ready to embark for home, but that the exact date of embarking for the states was not known to any member of his company. He was quite positive, however, that he would be well on the way before his letter reached home. All of the Roseburg boys of the 65th are just a rarin' to get home and see their old home town.

Ban On At Eugene Again.

So great has been the increase in the number of cases of influenza in Eugene during the past week that steps are being taken to induce the health authorities to again close all public meeting places, reopened some time ago, and possibly the schools again. As an example of the increase in the number of new cases, the report of the health authorities for Saturday shows that 13 residences were quarantined while six were released from quarantine. It is reported that at several residences there are a number of cases in each.

LOOKING GLASS GIRLS RETURN FROM SALEM

The Misses Leona and Thelma Peed, of Looking Glass, who have been at Salem attending school, returned here today, and accompanied by their father, Geo. F. Peed, immediately drove out the farm home in the morning awaiting breakfast awaiting them. The serious situation of the epidemic in Salem caused Mr. and Mrs. Peed great anxiety, and deeming it safer to have their daughters home, Mr. Peed went up and brought them down on the early train today. Salem, like some other northern towns, is suffering from the pestilence, and according to Mr. Peed nearly a score of bodies were lying in the morgues awaiting exhumation before they could be buried. The Salem schools have been closed since before Christmas, and there is every prospect that the schools there will not be reopened this year, owing to the violence of the pestilence. Mrs. McDaniels, who was keeping house for the young ladies, also returned to Looking Glass.

DO NOT FAVOR GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP

SALEM, Ore., Jan. 13.—Opposition to the McAdoo plan which would allow the railroads to remain under Government control experimentally for five years is voiced in the answer of the Public Service Commission to the request of Charles E. Elmquist, president of the National Association of Railway and Utility Commissioners, and approval is expressed of a plan for the return to control under the Interstate Commerce Commission and the state commissions in a telegram sent today.

The Oregon commission outlines its plan as follows: "We are opposed to the five-year plan now urged before congress for the reason that industries and short-line roads of this state cannot endure a continuation of the extreme handicap under which they have patriotically endeavored to operate during Federal control. Shippers cannot continue paying a greater proportionate increase in rates than that of their competitors of more favorable locations when they all reach the same competitive market in the East.

Railroad officials under whatever title they may act being clothed with Federal authority with responsibilities, approaching obligations, to the roads which they formerly represented cannot fairly and equitably at the same time act as original arbiters and judges in controversies that constantly arise between shippers and railroads, and it will continue to result in more or less confusion and dissatisfaction to shippers and unsatisfactory service to the general public. The undoubted legal aspect of the state jurisdiction, coupled with the uncertainties of redress, forces the opinion that any extension of the period of Federal control as at present constituted is a disadvantage for the people in general throughout the West, and very inadvisable.

MAKES RECOMMENDATIONS.

examination of the state penitentiary and learn the real truth about a situation which has been made the football for politics, spiteful vengeance and deceiving manipulations. Although the physical status of the penitentiary properly leaves much to be desired, I am well pleased with the administration of the institution under the first management of my own individual choosing. In a month the new warden has been amazingly effective in his work and I am confident that anyone conversant with actual conditions will concede readily that this penal institution is now being administered on a most satisfactory basis. Considering the responsible and exciting nature of the work, I feel the warden is underpaid as an official.

Need for a new cell house is mentioned, but "because of the present disheartening status of the state finances, it may be necessary to defer for another two years this almost imperative improvement." The outlook for the handling of the flux industry at the penitentiary is good according to Governor Withycombe, although the past two seasons have been the most unfavorable, climatically, of the last forty years to flux growing. He expressed doubt as to the wisdom of laws, which prevent the sale of prison-made articles in competition with those manufactured by free labor. "The population of the Oregon prison is so small," he declared, "that the effect of removing this restriction would have at most but a negligible influence on the labor market. When we consider that the taxpayers of Oregon are paying for the sustenance of the penitentiary inmates it seems short sightedness to erect legal obstructions which serve to prevent them from earning their own way as nearly as possible during incarceration. A law granting prison authorities a free hand to dispose of any commodities that may be produced advantageously by the prisoners would undoubtedly tend toward economy and lower upkeep, as well as toward a better morale among the men."

In connection with consideration of highways, the governor suggested a law requiring drivers of both passenger automobiles and motor trucks to bring their vehicles to a complete stop, before crossing railroad tracks outside of town and cities. With reference to fish and game legislation, he advocated the coding of Malheur Lake and Mud Lake in Harney county to the federal government for the purpose of creating a permanent wild bird refuge and also urged the plan of the federal government for the complete destruction of predatory animals.

Besides urging the overwhelming, if not unanimous endorsement of the national prohibition amendment, the governor referred to numerous other subjects, the message containing approximately eight thousand words.
