THE NEED OF THE WORLD.

The fundamental wrong in th

The fundamental wrong in the plan for a league of nations now proposed is that it establishes, not a world court but a world government it establishes, not the sway of justice, but the reign of force. It creates, not a body of international law, to govern the relations of nations, and a court to construct that law in each instance of dispute, but a world legislature, or executive. but a world legislature, or executive world autocracy, says the National

but a world legislature, or careful world autocracy, says the National Republican.

The people of the world want disarmament as the only certain guarantee of world peace; mutual disarmament; this proposed constitution of a league of nations does not provide it; it merely binds the Amorican people to the acceptance of whatever decisions may be made upon this matter by a world legislature,—no matter what that decision may be.

The people of the world want wars to end; but this constitution of a league of nations settles none of the many problems which now menace the world's peace. On the contrary, it leaves them all unsettled, but binds the American people to the acceptance of any settlement that may be made, in a world legislature dominated by allen interests, regardless of ated by allen interests, regardless of whether or not American interests and ideals, or the welfare of Ameri-cans in general, are sacrificed in that

The American people are willing to slip their flag to justice, but not to force, regardless of whether that force is behind a righteous or an unrighteous cause.

The Paris peace conference should settle the terms of peace with the central powers, should settle the questions growing immediately out of the present war, should propose a code of international law and a world court, composed of men of such legal ability and standing that, nominated by the code of the national standing that, nominated court, composed of men of such against ability and standing that, nominated by each of the nations, signers of the compact, they would be ratified by all the rest, to interpret that code of general principles in its application to every international dispute. To the enforcement of the decrees of such a court every nation should pledge itself.

The supernational government, as proposed in the league of nations, represents only the sway of numbers, not the reign of wisdom or of right. The court of nations would represent the rule of justice. The proposed league of nations is founded upon the socialistic idea of the sway of the brute force, regardless of equity. It would, if adopted, mark, not the ending, but the beginning of perpetual warfare with the people of this country obligated to participate in every war as well as to surrender the national independence achieved by Washington and preserved by Lip-Washington and preserved by Lin

BEATING PRICES DOWN.

A speaker from Seattle, Washington, suggested at a recent conference of governors and mayors at Washington, D. C., that the mayors of citics make an offort to reduce the prices of necessaries of life. He suggested that they call in their home merchants and ask them to take steps to get prices reduced all around. This is something along the line of a movement started recently by the Flint, Mich., Board of Comcerce. They called together 550 retailers of that city, and got them to agree to reduce prices. As a result some of them must have done business at a loss. But they report an increased trade, which they feel will help develop a broader business will help develop a broader business for the future. It is a question whe-ther retail emrchants should be asked to take such a step before producers and wholesalors reduce prices. Re-tall trade is being conducted on a narrow margin of profit, closer than ever before. But at least the retail trade should stand together in a detrade should stand together in a de-termined effort to persuade produ-cers and jobbers to come off their high perch. Merchants may well give salesmen to understand that the pres-ent high prices produce suffering and tend to upset business. Producers and wholesalers would much better be content with small profits, rather than bring on a business depression. than bring on a business depression The wholesale trade frequently gets the idea that it practically owns a certain set of retail dealers, and that certain set of retail dealers, and that these men will buy certain lines re-gardless whether prices asked are right or not. It would pay the re-tail trade to show independence, and inform the travelling salesman that their people must make every effort to bring prices down if they wish to keep trade. A determined show of resistance by the retail merchants to the present level of prices, ought to have some effect toward breaking it.

DIVORCE SUIT HEARD FRIDAY.

The divorce suit of Esther Weichlein vs. H. A. Weichlein was heard Saturday in the circuit court. The plaintiff through her attorney Elbert Hermann, entered a complaint charging cruel and inhuman treatment, which was met with a counter charge by the defendant who is represented by attorney O. P. Coshow. A number of witnesses was called, the taking of testimony occupying practically the entire day.
