

New York or New Mexico, you are dead sure of one thing in every one of Bill Hart's pictures—FIGHTS

This time the husky Westerner tears right into Broadway's roughest.

BIG BILL HART
IN BRANDING BROADWAY

DEAR PEOPLE:

This is Big Bill's latest picture and should not be confused with any of the pictures made some years ago; it is 100 per cent entertainment, and in our opinion the best he has ever produced, right up to the Antlers standard, and we guarantee it.

In addition to the above we are showing on this bill James Montgomery Flagg's latest comedy creation, "Independence B'Gosh," and Robert C. Bruce's new scenic offering, "Sundown."

OREGON RANGES ARE CROWDED WITH STOCK

All parts of Oregon ranges except the areas not accessible to water are loaded to the limit, reports Prof. E. L. Potter, head of animal husbandry, who has just completed a survey of the ranges in south central Oregon.

A rather heavy movement of fat stuff and feeds is expected to take place this fall. Some of this stock will go to western markets but most of it will find its way east.

Oregon ranges are not suffering the famine conditions that have affected several other western states this year, Professor Potter points out. On the other hand growers increased their holdings under war conditions and a good surplus has been accumulated. Unless farmers take a little less for their hay there is danger that the stock will be sold so closely this year that the farmers will find it difficult to market their crop next year, Professor Potter thinks.

Such overcrowding of ranges as was found occurred in territory adjacent to abundant water. In other places where watering holes are 30 miles apart, a splendid crop has grown and is going to waste. Asked why the stockmen do not develop water, Prof. Potter said:

"The cost of developing water in these unused ranges will run from 5 to 10 cents per acre. No stockman can afford to pay this price unless he has some power over the range or exclusive right to use the watering privileges. With the ranges under government regulations this would be feasible and greatly develop the carrying power of the ranges."

NOTICE

Persons who can offer rooms and board for teachers should notify the Superintendent, Telephone 434, by Monday, September 8th, giving nature and, if possible, price of accommodations.

AUBREY G. SMITH.

According to information received in this city today, Chas. H. Fisher, at one time connected with a local paper, but for the past few years owner of the Salem Capital Journal, has disposed of that paper and will return to Eugene, where he at one time operated the Eugene Guard and will again associate himself with that paper. The family is now packing their household goods preparatory to leaving for their new location.
