Better Than Gold

"I was troubled for several years with chronic indigestion and nervous debility," writes F. J. Green, of Lancaster, N. H. "No remedy helped me until I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicines I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are just splendid for female troubles; that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak, run-down women. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try them. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by A. C. Marsters & Co., Roseburg, Or.

FOR SALE.—33 acres 1 mile from Roseburg, good house, barn and other out buildings, half under cultivation and fenced, balance pasture and timber, 3 fine springs of water on place one running into the house. For further particulars apply at Kidd's grocery. m3.

FOR THE CHILDREN

A Bully's Backdown.

J. L. Harbour, the popular writer of books for boys, tells the following story in Our Young People of a street gamin who showed he had the right "stuff" in him:

Some schoolboys were on their way to school one morning. One of them, a little fellow, was terribly annoyed by the teasing of a bigger boy and finally "sailed" an apple core at his tormentor.

This roused the bully's wrath, and he proceeded to man the little fellow without mercy, the other boys all looking on without a finger lifted in the little fellow's defense.

Learning against a lamppost up the street was a typical gamin, ragged unkempt and far removed from the tidy, well fed and well dressed school boys. Their life ways were far apart. A bundle of newspapers was under his arm, and he seemed to be looking about for a customer. Suddenly he let the unrolled papers drop to the snowy ground and came running lightly and swiftly down the street, his blue eyes aflame and his grimy fists clinched. The next instant the big, well dressed assailant of the small boy found himself seized by the collar and jerked violently to the ground by a boy of about his own size, who said boldly:

"Take a kid of yer size when ye want ter fight, yer big coward! Take a kid of yer size!"

The big fellow struggled to his feet and said blusteringly, "Who's going to keep me from touching him if I want to?"

"I am!" said the gamin, standing as erect as a West Point cadet, and, whipping off his ragged jacket, he gave his head a toss and said again:

"I am gon' to see that you don't touch him ag'in! If you want to fight take a kid of yer size, I tell ye! Try yer hand on me!"

"Humph!" said the big fellow, without, however, offering to touch the "kid of his size."

"Yer a coward; that's what you are!" said the gamin. "Ye don't dare touch a kid of yer size!"

Ner did he. Mumbling and threatening, he walked off, with the jeers of his schoolmates ringing in his ears.

Can You Guess?

When Helen Fiske was eight years old she had a birthday party, and all her little friends were invited.

They had a delightful time playing games and singing, and after supper they amused themselves guessing riddles for a time. The children told some very good ones that were hard to guess, but the one that puzzled them most of all was the one that Mrs. Fiske gave, and this is what she said:

"You all know, children, that this is Helen's eighth birthday. Now, I never have had but seven birthdays, and yet you know that I am a great deal older than Helen. Can you tell me how that can be?"

Mrs. Fiske was not joking, and finally one little girl guessed how it was. Can you guess too?

Try to Tie It.

Obtain a piece of string about a yard long and lay it out straight on a table. Take one end between the forefinger and thumb of the right hand and the other end between the forefinger and thumb of the left hand. Now try to tie a knot in the string without loosening the hold at either end.

Like most other tricks, this is easy to do when you know how. Simply fold your arms before picking up the ends of the string, unfold them, and you have an ordinary knot tied in the string.

The Strength of a Horse.

When you hear of "horse power" you must understand that it means the strength of one horse. "Two horse power" is equal to the strength of two horses, and so on. A man is about as strong as a horse, and a horse is about as strong as a horse. One horse power is equal to the strength of seven and one-half men, and the strength of one elephant is more than the strength of four horses.

Ducks as Pets.

Very few boys keep ducks as pets, though a good many keep them for profit, yet there is no bird more easily tamed, especially if cared for and fed constantly by the same person. Ducks are quick witted birds and can be trained to follow their master like a dog and do all kinds of tricks.

Cutting "by Ear."

A little girl who played the piano prettily without instruction had heard her friends say she played "by ear."

One day, seeing her mother cutting a dress by a dressmaker's chart, she inquired:

"Mamma, ladies who don't cut by chart—do they cut by ear?"

Weariness.

Oh, little feet, that march long years Must wander on through hopes and fears— Must ache and bleed beneath your load I nearer to the wayside inn. Where toll shall come and rest begin. Am weary thinking of your road!

Oh, little hands, that work or stray: Have still to serve or rule as long. Have still to give or take as long. I, who so much with both and part Have toiled among my fellow men, Am weary thinking of your task!

Oh, little hearts, that throb and hurt With wish impatient, feverish, fast. Such joyfulness and strong desires, Mine that as long has glowed and burned With passion into ashes burned. Now covers and conceals its fire!

Oh, little souls, as pure and white And crystalline as rays of light. Direct from heaven, their source divine Reflected through the mist of years, How red, how setting sun appears. How fatal looks this mist of mine! —Longfellow.

BEARING DOWN PAINS

3647 Indiana Avenue.
CHICAGO, ILL., Sept. 27, 1902.

I have been a sufferer with almost every kind of female trouble for years, but as long as I could get around and do my work I would not try patent medicines as I had no faith in them.

About eight months ago I had to take to my bed, suffering with prolapsus of the uterus, with bearing down pains and intense pains in the back. My aunt, who came to nurse me told me of Wine of Cardui and sent for a bottle. I am indeed glad that she did, for that first bottle started me on the road to recovery. In a few weeks I was out of bed and in three months I was in better health and stronger than I had been in years. I take a dose now, occasionally, of Wine of Cardui and am kept in perfect health.

Mabel Cook
Sec'y. Woodman's Circle No. 70.

Wine of Cardui brings certain relief to women suffering any symptom of female weakness and perfectly regulates the menstrual flow. Wine of Cardui stops bearing down pains by permanently relieving the irritation which weakens the ligaments holding the womb in place. You need not suffer every month if you take this medicine. The periodical discharge will be painless and healthy without continual weakening drains. Wine of Cardui will make your health right and you may treat yourself privately in your own home. Secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today.
