Make a United Fight.

"Harmony."
That should be the slogan of the Democratic party.
Let us have no more of the treason and sulking which for eight years have kept the Democracy out of power, says the S. F. Examiner.
When the radical and progressive elements of the party in 1896, and again in 1900, adopted a platform and nominated a candidate representing their principles, "the conservatives" refused to submit to the will of the majority. Some of them put another ticket in the field, others went over to the Republicans outright, and still others remained away from the polls. Many newspapers calling themselves Democratic reviled Mr. Bryan as a demagogue, a disturber, a socialist, an anarchist and in general as the personification of the evil principle in politics. The six millions and a half of voters who twice followed him to defeat—defeat inflicted by recreant Democrats—were denounced as fools and madmen. No language was thought too opprobrious to fling at them, and this bitter abuse has not yet ceased. The "gold Democratic" press cannot yet refrain from taunts and sneers at the leaders who stood by the Democratic guns.

The desertion of the gold Democrats and the insulting course of the hotting press has been profoundly resented by all Democrats who were true to their party.

But are Democrats to allow that resentment, as justified as it was and as deep, to lead them into retaliation, now that conservatives have prevailed in the national convention? Will they imitate conduct which they reproached in the bolters of 1896 and 1900?

They will not be true Democrats if they do.

There was fighting at the St. Louis convention, plenty of it, but everybody had his say, every faction was given a hearing. And the convention having done its work, it is the duty of good Democrats loyally to accept the platform and ticket and exert themselves for the election of Parker and Davis.

The St. Louis platform is sound on the main things—the trusts and the tariff. Its whole spirit is thoroughly Democratic and any Democrat can accept it in good conscience.

It is high time that the blows which Democrats have been delivering upon one another should fall upon the Republican party. Sorely there is enough in that organization and its presidential candidate to rouse in Democrats, radical and conservative alike, the spirit of enthusiastic opposition.

Judge Parker is a man of dignified position and gravity of character, and when he writes his letter of acceptance and breaks the silence he so long has maintained on all questions save the gold standard, he will doubtless speak in such a way as to rally to his side those Democrats who have preferred some other candidate.

With a united Democracy and a leader standing for government by law instead of government by caprice and favor, the battle against the Republican party can be won.

One Lady's Recommendation Sold Fifty Boxes of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets.

I have, I believe, sold fifty boxes of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets on the recommendation of one lady here, who first bought a box of them about a year ago. She never tires of telling her neighbors and friends about the good quality of these Tablets.—P. M. STONE, Druggist, Rochester, Ind. The pleasant purgative effect of these Tablets makes them a favorite with ladies everywhere. For sale by Hamilton Drug Co.

A Retraction.

(From July number Ladies' Home Journal.)

In the month of May number of the Ladies' Home Journal we published, in the article entitled "The 'Patent Medicine' curse," an analysis of "Doctor Price's Favorite Prescription," in which that preparation was represented as containing, among other ingredients, tincture of digitalis, tincture of opium and alcohol.

It appears that this particular analysis had been made, if made at all, fully twenty-five years ago. We, thereupon, employed three leading chemists in different cities to make an analysis of the preparation from bottles bought in the open market. These analysis, one and all, now show to us conclusively that not a single one of the ingredients mentioned by us in the analysis quoted—that is, either digitalis, opium or alcohol—was contained in the bottles analyzed.

Naturally, since the analysis we printed has been proved erroneous, the deductions made in connection with this preparation were unwarranted and unfounded.

Under these circumstances it is now perfectly plain to us that this magazine was unintentionally, but nevertheless absolutely misled in making the original statement, and we hereby, of our own volition, make this unqualified acknowledgment of our mistake to the R. V. Pierre Medical Company and to our readers.

The mistake was honestly made, but it was a mistake.

Birds of a Feather.

Mrs. William Robbin, of Louisville, Ky., was recently married to David Buzzard. It is her fourth matrimonial venture. She was a Miss Martin, a daughter of one of the best known Bourbon county families. She first married Robert Crow. He died and she married John Sparrow six months afterwards. She and Mr. Sparrow did not agree and a divorce followed. Mrs. Sparrow became Mrs. Wm. Robbin, but again a divorce was found advisable. After a year of lonely life Mrs. Robbin has become Mrs. Buzzard. She has two Crows, one Robbin and a Buzzard at her home.—Ex.

The Creed of Democracy

Extract from President Jefferson's first Inaugural Address, setting forth the Essential Principles of the Democratic Party.

"About to enter, fellow-citizens, on the exercise of duties which comprehend everything dear and valuable to you, it is proper you should understand what I deem the essential principles of our government, and consequently those which ought to shape its administration. I will compress them within the narrowest compass they will bear, stating the general principle, but not all its limitations. Equal and exact justice to all men, of whatever state or persuasion, religious or political; peace, commerce, and honest friendship with all nations, entangling alliance with none; the support of the state governments in all their rights, as the most competent administrations for our domestic concerns and the surest bulwarks against anti-republican tendencies; the preservation of the general government in its whole constitutional vigor, as the sheet anchor of our peace at home and safety abroad; a jealous care of the right of election by the people—a mild and safe corrective of abuses which are lopped by the sword of revolution where peaceable remedies are unprovided; absolute acquiescence in the decisions of the majority and vital principle of republics, from which is no appeal but to force, the vital principle and immediate parent of despotism; a well disciplined militia, our best reliance in peace and for the first moments of war, till regulars may relieve them; the supremacy of the civil over the military authority; economy in the public expense that labor may be lightly burdened; the honest payment of our debts and sacred preservation of the public faith; encouragement of agriculture, and of commerce; as its handmaid; the diffusion of information and arraignment of all abuses at the bar of public reason; freedom of religion, freedom of the press, and freedom of person under the protection of the habeas corpus, and trial by juries impartially selected. Those principles from the bright constellation which has gone before us and guided our steps through an age of revolution and reformation. The wisdom of our sages and blood of our heroes have been devoted to their attainment. They should be the creed of our political faith, the text of civic instruction, the touchstone by which to try the services of those we trust; and should we wander from them in moments of error or alarm, let us hasten to retrace our steps and to regain the road which alone leads to peace, liberty and safety."

One of our leading citizens—a republican—is already claiming our committee for president, Judge Parker, and this is no wonder when the Judge's unblemished reputation, his splendid conservatism, broad statesmanship, etc., are considered. He is incomparably the right man to preside over the destinies of our great nation in the coming years, and we are glad to hear our republican friends expressing a feeling of safety should they fall into his hands—which they will do in March 1905.

Miss McCord, of River Hill, was visiting in Oakland on Tuesday, the guest of Miss Maud Grubbs.
